Disability, Spaces and Places of Policy Exclusion Karen Soldatic, Hannah Morgan, Alan Roulstone, 2014-06-27 Geographies of disability have become a key research priority for many disability scholars and geographers This edited collection incorporating the work of leading international disability researchers seeks to expand the current geographical frame operating within the realm of disability Providing a critical and comprehensive examination of disability and spatial processes of exclusion and inclusion for disabled people the book uniquely brings together insights from disability studies spatial geographies and social policy with the purpose of exploring how spatial factors shape limit or enhance policy towards and the experiences of disabled people Divided into two parts the first section explores the key concepts to have emerged within the field of disability geographies and their relationship to new policy regimes New and emerging concepts within the field are critically explored for their significance in conceptually framing disability The second section provides an in depth examination of disabled people's experience of changing landscapes within the onset of emerging disability policy regimes. It deals with how the various actors and stakeholders such as governments, social care agencies, families, and disabled people traverse these landscapes under the new conditions laid out by changing policy regimes. Crucially, the chapters examine the lived meaning of changing spatial relations for disabled people. Grounded in recent empirical research and with a global focus, each of the chapters reveals how social policy domains are challenged or undermined by the spatial realities faced by disabled people and expands existing understandings of disability. In turn, the book supports readers to grasp future policy directions and processes that enable disabled people's choices, rights, and participation. This important work will be invaluable reading for students and researchers involved in disability geography and social policy.

Encyclopedia of Diversity in Education James A. Banks, 2012-05-17. The diversity education literature, both nationally and internationally, is broad and diffuse. Consequently, there needs to be a systematic and logical way to organize and present the state of research for students and professionals. American citizens need to understand the dynamics of their increasingly diverse communities and institutions and the global world in which we live, work, and lead. With continually evolving information on diversity policies, practices, and programs, it is important to have one place where students, scholars, teachers, and policymakers can examine and explore research, policy, and practice issues and find answers to important questions about how diversity in U.S. education is enriched with theories, research, and practices in other nations. Explained and communicated, and how they affect institutional change at both the K-12 and postsecondary levels. With about 700 signed entries with cross references and recommended readings, the Encyclopedia of Diversity in Education, 4 volumes in both print and electronic formats, will present research and statistics, case studies, and best practices, policies, and programs at pre and postsecondary levels. Diversity is a worldwide phenomenon, and while most of the entries in the Encyclopedia will focus on the United States, diversity issues and developments in nations around the world, including the United States, are intricately connected. Consequently, to illuminate the many aspects of diversity, this volume will contain entries from different nations in the world in order to illuminate the myriad aspects of diversity From A to Z this Encyclopedia will cover the full spectrum of diversity issues including race class gender religion language exceptionality and the global dimensions of diversity as they relate to education This four volume reference work will be the definitive reference for diversity issues in education in the United States and the world     APAIS, Australian Public Affairs Information Service ,2000 Vol for 1963 includes
