Voyager Stuart G. Clark, Nicolas Cheetham, 2010 A fantastic voyage across

276 billion trillion miles of space and 13.5 billion years of time told through more than 300 of the most dramatic astronomical images ever captured. The 101 greatest sights between earth and the edge of the cosmos are depicted in this collection of more than 300 of the most beautiful space photographs ever taken. The dramatic large format makes the perfect showcase for the latest images from Hubble's new camera and the majority of the photographs will be displayed at full or double page size. Readers should prepare to embark on a journey that will take them to the edge of the Universe and the beginning of time, crossing 46.5 billion light years of space and exploring 101 celestial wonders ranging from comets to quasars. They will start on Earth, nestled in the Orion Spur of the Milky Way Galaxy near the center of the Local Group of galaxies gravitationally bound to the Virgo Supercluster, but the entire universe is here to explore. There are photos of sand dunes snaking across the northern plains of Mars, driven by the winds of spring; alien clouds of fluorescing gases and secret nests of new stars hidden within Hypergiant stars; tear themselves to pieces; galaxies collide and superclusters gather like motes of dust on a cosmic web. The journey that these photos represent is organized into four zones: interplanetary, interstellar, intergalactic, and finally, intertemporal. Voyager's grand tour of space offers an unrivaled portrait of our cosmic habitat. Quite simply, there is no better way to see the Universe.

The Cosmic Journey in the Book of Revelation Joel M. Rothman, 2023-05-18

Joel M. Rothman considers the significance of cosmology in biblical and extra-biblical texts and the role of the cosmic journey in many apocalyptic narratives. He posits that Revelation's narrative likewise takes the hearer on a virtual journey through a cosmic story space of great theological significance. While scholarship commonly assumes a three-tiered cosmos in Revelation, Rothman argues that Revelation's narrative operates in a four-tiered cosmos with the hyper-heaven sitting above the sky, heaven, earth, and abyssal depths, a cosmic story space that is recreated in the imagination of the hearers. Beginning with a methodology of visual narrative reading, Rothman then discusses the assumptions and existing conceptions regarding heaven and earth. He stresses that Revelation does not exhibit tension in its portrayal of heaven between heaven as a site of conflict and heaven as the realm in which God truly reigns, but rather shows readers a sky/heaven characterised by archetypal conflict between powerful sky beings and a hyper-heaven defined by full recognition of the Throne. In journeying through the sky structure and God space, and by analysing the four cosmic layers in operation, the distinct nature of the two sky spaces, cosmic change, and the ideological import of the cosmic structure, Rothman demonstrates that the existence of the hyper-heaven, in contradistinction with the limited-lived cosmos of earth and sky/heaven, is a present guarantee of the final cosmic transformation that creates a new space for human life, exclusive of imperial/draconian elements.
