Approaching the World's Religions, Volume 1 Robert Boyd,2017-05-04 Philosophically Thinking about World Religions is different from other works in the discipline today It deviates from the typical approaches used for the study of world religions Its goal is to engage readers in thinking hard about world religions not about the data surrounding those traditions By focusing on philosophical questions each reader should be challenged to do their own investigations that may reveal the heart of these traditions Another stance that this project takes that distinguishes it from other texts in the discipline is that it advocates an inclusivist perspective regarding the world religions Pluralism which is the predominate assumption today ends either in contradiction or in the development of a metatheory that dismisses crucial distinctions between the various traditions or eliminates some ancient religions because they do not fit the metatheory By taking an open inclusivist approach all religious traditions may engage at the table of dialogue The final essay is about justice and social affairs While that discussion is couched within the context of a particular tradition each religious tradition must have the discussion But it must be more than an intrareligious dialogue it must become an interreligious dialogue

Global Citizenship, Cultural Citizenship and World Religions in Religion Education David Chidester,2002 Altruism in World Religions Suzanne Neusner,Bruce Chilton,2005-11-08 In 1830 philosopher Auguste Comte coined the term altruism to provide a general definition for the act of selflessly caring for others But does this modern conception of sacrificing one s own interests for the well being of others apply to the charitable behaviors encouraged by all world religions In Altruism in World Religions prominent scholars from an array of religious perspectives probe the definition of altruism to determine whether it is a category that serves to advance the study of religion Exploring a range of philosophical and religious thought from Greco Roman philia to Judaism Christianity and Islam from Hinduism in India to Buddhism and the religions of China and Japan the authors find that altruism becomes problematic when applied to religious studies because it is in fact a concept absent from religion Chapters on Judaism Christianity and Islam reveal that followers of these religions cannot genuinely perform self sacrificing acts because God has promised to reward every good deed Moreover the separation between the self and the other that self sacrifice necessarily implies runs counter to Buddhist thought which makes no such distinction By challenging our assumptions about the act of self sacrifice as it relates to religious teachings the authors have shown altruism to be more of a secular than religious notion At the same time their findings highlight how charitable acts operate with the values and structures of the religions studied
