World Ocean Census A Global Survey Of Marine Life:

World Ocean Census Darlene Trew Crist, Gail Scowcroft, James M. Harding, 2009 What once lived in the global ocean What is living there now What will live there in the future The answers to these questions are at the heart of World Ocean Census which also explores the great adventures experienced during the book's research An insider's description of the comprehensive Census of Marine Life and what it reveals about a seriously threatened ecosystem Oceans James Fargo Balliett, 2014-12-18 Covering 71 percent of the planet these saline bodies of water provided the unique conditions necessary for the building blocks of life to form billions of years ago This book explains how our oceans continue to support and influence life in important ways by providing the largest global source of protein in the form of fish populations by creating and influencing weather systems and by absorbing waste streams such as airborne carbon It is shown how oceans have an almost magnetic draw almost half of the world's population lives within a few hours of an ocean Although oceans are vast in size exceeding 328 million cubic miles 1.37 billion cubic kilometers they have been influenced by and have influenced humans in numerous ways The book includes three detailed case studies The first focuses on the most remote locations along the Mid Atlantic Ridge where new ocean floor is being formed twenty thousand feet underwater The second considers the Maldives a string of islands in the Indian Ocean where increasing sea levels may force residents to abandon some communities by 2020 The third describes the North Sea at the edge of the Arctic Ocean where fishing stocks have been dangerously depleted as a result of multiple nations' unrelenting removal of the smallest and largest species The Oxford Handbook of Ecocriticism Greg Garrard, 2014 The Oxford Handbook of Ecocriticism provides a broad survey of the longstanding relationship between literature and the environment The moment for such an offering is opportune in many respects multiple environmental crises are increasingly inescapable at both transnational and local levels the role of the humanities in addition to technology and politics is increasingly recognized as central for exploring and finding solutions and the subject of ecocriticism has reached a kind of critical mass both within its Anglo American heartlands and beyond From its origins in the study of American Nature Writing and British Romanticism ecocriticism has developed along numerous theoretical historical cultural and geographical axes the most contemporary and exciting of which will be represented in the Handbook The contributors include eminent founders of the field including Cheryll Glotfelty and Jonathan Bate a number of key second wave ecocritics and the best up and coming scholars Topics covered include Green Shakespeare the Bard's subversive uses of the pastoral John Clare's sacred relationship with the land Thoreau's profound political passion the natural landscape as symbol of postcolonial resistance in works by Lessing Naipaul and Coetzee the relation between feminism and environmentalism language and the concept of biosemiotics and concerns over pollution and toxicity in films like Erin Brockovich Michael Clayton and Al Gore's An Inconvenient Truth The Most Amazing Creature in the Sea Brenda Z. Guiberson, 2015-06-16 Which sea creature is the greatest Is it the one with the most venom the greatest diver the one with blue blood or the best rotating eyes Or is it the master of disguise the one with the best light the most slime or the most eggs Fascinating facts and spectacular illustrations will inspire young readers to choose their own favorite sea creatures The Abyss Stares Back Stacy Alaimo, 2025-05-13 In an era of accelerating extinctions what does it mean to discover thousands of new species in the deep sea As we see the catastrophic effects of the Anthropocene proliferate advanced technologies also grant us greater access to the furthest reaches of the world's oceans facilitating the discovery of countless new species Sorting through the implications of this strange paradox Stacy Alaimo explores the influence this newfound intimacy with the deep sea might have on our broader relationship to the nonhuman world While many images of these abyssal creatures circulate as shallow clickbait aesthetic representations can be enticing lures for speculating about their lives profoundly expanding our environmental concern The Abyss Stares Back analyzes a diverse range of scientific literary and artistic accounts of deep sea exploration including work from the naturalist William Beebe and the artist Else Bostelmann as well as results of the Census of Marine Life that began at the turn of the twenty first century As she focuses on oft overlooked creatures of the deep such as tubeworms hatchetfish siphonophores and cephalopods which are typically cast as alien Alaimo shows how depictions of the deep seas have been enmeshed in long colonial histories and racist constructions of a threatening abyss Drawing on feminist environmentalism posthumanism science and technology studies and Indigenous and non Western perspectives Alaimo details how our understanding of science is fundamentally altered by aesthetic encounters with these otherworldly life forms She argues that although the deep sea is often thought of as a lifeless void with little connection to human existence our increasing devastation of this realm underscores our ethical obligation to protect the biodiverse life in the depths When the abyss stares back it demands recognition Retail e book files for this title are screen reader friendly with images accompanied by short alt text and or extended descriptions Tunguska, or the End of Nature Michael Hampe, 2015-06-04 On June 30 1908 a mysterious explosion erupted in the skies over a vast woodland area of Siberia Known as the Tunguska Event it has been a source of wild conjecture over the past century attributed to causes ranging from meteors to a small black hole to antimatter In this imaginative book Michael Hampe sets four fictional men based on real life scholars a physicist Gnter Hasinger and Steven Weinberg a philosopher Paul Feyerabend a biologist Adolf Portmann and a mathematician Alfred North Whitehead adrift on the open ocean in a dense fog to discuss what they think happened The result is a playful and highly illuminating exploration of the definition of nature mankind's role within it and what its end might be Tunguska Or the End of Nature uses its four man setup to tackle some of today's burning issues such as climate change environmental destruction and resource management from a diverse range of perspectives With a kind of foreboding it asks what the world was like and will be like without us whether we are negligible and the universe random whether nature can truly be explained whether it is good or evil or whether nature is simply a thought we think This is a profoundly unique work a thrillingly interdisciplinary piece of scholarly literature that probes the mysteries of nature and humans alike
