Gender and the Global Land Grab Andrea M. Collins, 2024-06-15 Since the year 2000 millions of hectares of land in the Global South have been acquired by foreign investors for large scale agricultural projects displacing and disrupting rural communities Women are especially disadvantaged by the global land grab they are less likely to inherit control or make decisions over land but often need land to support themselves their families and their communities While international organizations have developed global guidelines to improve land governance tensions still run high as the current policies fall short Gender and the Global Land Grab introduces a feminist conceptual framework to analyze land governance policy around the world Andrea Collins shows how gender norms biases and expectations shape land politics at different levels of governance Drawing on examples from sub Saharan Africa and with an in depth case study of land politics in Tanzania the book assesses guidelines developed by institutions such as the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations and the World Bank to highlight essential considerations for developing and implementing gender sensitive policy Illustrating how gender shapes resource policy across all levels of political activity Gender and the Global Land Grab provides valuable tools for transforming global policymaking

African Feminisms and Women in the Context of Justice in Southern Africa Cori Wielenga, 2021-10-07 This book explores justice on the ground in Southern African communities and in particular the roles that women play in these processes Justice on the ground is often critiqued for being male dominated and patriarchal This volume seeks to unpack and problematize this assumption through the case studies of Namibia Zimbabwe Mozambique and South Africa Contributions focus on the lived experiences of women and the intersections of race class culture and the colonial experience that shape their lives In the rural and peri urban contexts discussed in this book justice on the ground is found to be relational The network of relationships between people and the well being and health of a community as an integral whole continue to be of central importance as the survival of the community depends on the entire community functioning interdependently An
