

A woman wearing a blue headscarf and a white shirt is kneeling on a dark, textured ground, lighting small candles. The candles are arranged in a circular pattern around her, and many more are scattered across the ground, creating a warm, glowing effect. The background is dark, making the light from the candles stand out.

Decolonizing Religion and Peacebuilding Atalia Omer, 2023 An investigation of what consolidating religion as a technology of peacebuilding and development does to people's accounts of their religious and cultural traditions and why interreligious peacebuilding entrenches colonial legacies in the present Throughout the global south local and international organizations are frequent participants in peacebuilding projects that focus on interreligious dialogue Yet as Atalia Omer argues in Decolonizing Religion and Peacebuilding the effects of their efforts are often perverse reinforcing neocolonial practices and disempowering local religious actors Based on empirical research of inter and intra religious peacebuilding practices in Kenya and the Philippines Omer identifies two paradoxical findings first religious peacebuilding practices are both empowering and depoliticizing and second more doing of religion does not necessarily denote deeper or more critical religious literacy Further she shows that these religious actors generate decolonial openings regardless of how closed or open their religious communities are Hence religion s occasional usefulness in peacebuilding does not necessarily mean justice oriented outcomes The book not only uses decolonial and intersectional prisms to expose the entrenched and ongoing colonial dynamics operative in religion and the practices of peacebuilding and development in the global South but it also speaks to decolonial theory through stories of transformation and survival

Gender, Conflict, Peace, and UNSC Resolution 1325 Seema Shekhawat, 2018-01-15 There is an increasing amount of literature on various aspects of United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325 While appreciating this scholarship this volume highlights some of the omissions and concerns to make a quality addition to the ongoing discourse on the intersection of gender with peace and security with a focus on 1325 It aims at a reality check of the impressive to dos list as the seventeen years since the Resolution passed provide an occasion to pause and ponder over the gap between the aspirations and the reality the ideal and the practice the promises and the action the euphoria and the despair The volume compiles carefully selected essays woven around Resolution 1325 to tease out the intricacies within both the Resolution and its implementation Through a cocktail of well known and some lesser known case studies the volume addresses complicated realities with the intention of impacting policy making and the academic fields of gender peace and security The volume emphasizes the significance of transforming formal peace making processes and making them gender inclusive and gender sensitive by critically examining some omissions in the challenges that the Resolution implementation confronts The major question the volume seeks to address is this where are women positioned in the formal peace making seventeen years after the adoption of Resolution 1325 Routledge Handbook of Conflict Response and Leadership in Africa Alpaslan
