

Wood and Wooden Furniture Industry

Nowadays, Thai wood and wooden furniture industry is profitable to our country not less than a billion dollars per year in average. There are over 8,000 factories in this industry creating jobs for over 200,000 employees who involve in the industry. Such roles lead to the potential wood and furniture industry and have further more global opportunities and being categorized as targeted products for export promotion in the future.

I. Production

Production capacity of products in wood and wooden furniture industry in early 2003 has been slightly increased due to the war between the U.S. and Iraq affecting the main trading partners of Thailand to slow down the orders of furniture, along with SARS outbreak leading to some concerns. However, in late 2003, the problems have been improved, causing the increasing production. It is also the upward step of business cycle at the end of year resulting in the improved economic conditions. Moreover, the government has promoted the construction industry and real estate business to strengthen which affects to the consumer purchasing power for furniture resulting in the improving domestic production and distribution of furniture and parts. The order volume from overseas, especially the U.S., has increased. By changing the strategy of most exported products from household products to furniture, the demand volume has increased at the end of year. Based on the information of the Office of Industrial Economics, it has shown that the production volume of furniture has been continuously increased throughout 2003.
