Theorizing The City The New Urban Anthropology Reader:

Theorizing the City Setha M. Low, 1999 Anthropological perspectives are not often represented in urban studies even though many anthropologists have been contributing actively to theory and research on urban poverty, racism, globalization and architecture. Theorizing the City corrects this omission. Following a brief history of urban anthropology emphasizing developments in the field during the 1990s, this volume presents twelve ethnographies of major cities in the Americas, Africa, Asia and Europe. Five images of the city—the divided city, the contested city, the global city, the modernist city, and the postmodern city—serve as frameworks for the essays. Each section highlights current research trends such as poststructural studies of race, class and gender in the urban context; political economic studies of transnational culture; and studies of the symbolic meanings and social production of urban spaces. Theorizing the City Setha M. Low, 2002 Translocality in Contemporary City Novels Lena Mattheis, 2021-03-19 Translocality in Contemporary City Novels responds to the fact that twenty-first century Anglophone novels are increasingly characterised by translocality, the layering and blending of two or more distant settings. Considering translocal and transcultural writing as a global phenomenon, this book draws on multidisciplinary research from globalisation theory to the study of narratives to urban studies to explore a corpus of thirty-two novels by authors such as Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie, Dionne Brand, Kiran Desai and Xiaolu Guo, set in a total of ninety-seven cities. Lena Mattheis examines six of the most common strategies used in contemporary urban fiction to make translocal experiences of the world narratable and turn them into relatable stories simultaneously palimpsests mapping scaling, non-places and haunting. Combining and developing further theories, approaches and techniques from a variety of research fields including narratology, human geography, transculturality, diaspora spaces and postcolonial perspectives, Mattheis develops a set of cross-disciplinary techniques in literary urban studies. The Legal Empowerment Agenda Dan Banik, 2016-12-05 Despite providing society with a set of crucial services, large groups of workers in the informal economy are subject to exclusion and discrimination and their lives are characterised by various types of vulnerabilities and deprivations that result from the denial of social, economic, political and legal protection. Although not new to the development vocabulary, the informal economy has received renewed attention in recent years, largely due to the ILO's decent work agenda and various efforts to promote legal empowerment of the poor. With an explicit focus on labour rights, the book focuses on a nuanced understanding of the regulatory and operational challenges and dilemmas related to implementing the two approaches in selected countries in sub-Saharan Africa. In addition to analyzing structures and relations of power between the formal and the informal economies, the book critically discusses the work of governments, civil society organizations and the poor themselves to address the daily challenges of living in the informal economy. Cultural Transformations and Globalization Alexander M. Ervin, 2016-01-08 Change is the most significant factor of contemporary society and humanity's past. This book represents the first substantial attempt since the 1970s to synthesize and critique sociocultural change theories in anthropology and relate them to trends in the social and physical sciences It emphasizes the most recent contributions especially complexity and emergence theory social movements network analysis and globalization Ervin presents a rich legacy of theories and case studies accessible to both the established scholar and the beginning student He considers how theories and insights can inform policy as humanity faces crises of globalization Key Features of the Text Designed for scholars and students seeking a comprehensive analysis of the relation between anthropological theory and practice Assesses big questions facing the social sciences Do cultures and societies change or is it really individuals families and social networks Are there prime movers of change environment technology economics ideas powerful leaders or cultural contacts Are there structures embedded within changes and changes built into structures Original contribution of the book is the integration of sociological and anthropological theories including networks social movements complexity world systems etc Online appendices include resources for students on applied and practice anthropology New York City

Neighborhoods Nan A. Rothschild, 2008-12-31 An archaeological study of the growth of Manhattan during the colonial period this book documents the emergence of Manhattan as the center of class structured capitalist commercialism in the new nation state A new introduction by the author updates her analysis in light of subsequent excavations at urban sites both in New York and elsewhere and theoretical advances in the understanding of urban public space From the reviews This is the first major publication to integrate New York City archaeological data into a broader context A t once a long overdue reference for the student of New York City history while at the same time a point of departure for broader studies of urban development Valerie DeCarlo in American Antiquity This work is a building block It raises important questions and proposes a methodology that make sense for the analysis of archeological data and the creation of historical ethnography Barbara J Little in Science A n impressive view of New York s colonial development oriented toward the interaction between wealth and ethnicity with insights into urban structure This book should be of interest to students of cities and urban studies and of New York specifically Stanley South in American Anthropologist A welcome addition to the impoverished quantitatively speaking or deliciously rich qualitatively speaking 1980 s monographs written by historical archaeologists It is an admirable piece of work that builds on 15 years of experience with urban resources Anne Yentsch in Historical Archaeology Sustainability in the Global City Gary McDonogh, Melissa Checker, 2015-03-05 This volume is a vital contribution to conversations about urban sustainability looking beyond the propaganda to explore its consequences for everyday life Wounded Cities Jane Schneider, Ida Susser, 2020-06-29 Although the seemingly apocalyptic scale of the World Trade Center disaster continues to haunt people across the globe it is only the most recent example of a city tragically wounded Cities are in fact perpetually caught up in cycles of degeneration and renewal As with the WTC from time to time these cycles are severely ruptured by a sudden unpredictable event In the wake of recent terrorist activities this timely book explores how urban populations are affected by wounds inflicted through violence civil wars overbuilding drug trafficking and the collapse of infrastructures as well as natural disasters such as earthquakes Mexico City New York Beirut Belfast Bangkok and Baghdad are just a few examples of cities riddled with problems that undermine on a daily basis the quality of urban life What does it mean for urban dwellers when the infrastructure of a city collapses transport communication grids heat light roads water and sanitation What are the effects of foreign investment and huge construction projects on urban populations and how does this change the look and character of a city How does drug trafficking intersect with class race and gender and what impact does it have on vulnerable urban communities How do political corruption and mafia networks distort the built environment Drawing on in depth case studies from across the globe this book answers these intriguing questions through its rigorous consideration of changing global and national contexts social movements and corrosive urban events Adopting a grass roots up approach it places emphasis on peoples experiences of uneven development and inequality their engagement with memory in the face of continual change and the relevance of political activism to bettering their lives It is especially attentive to the historical interaction of particular cities with wider political and economic forces as these interactions have shaped local governance over time

Ancient Households on the North Coast of Peru Ilana Johnson, David Pacifico, Robyn E. Cutright, 2021-02-01 Ancient Households on the North Coast of Peru provides insight into the organization of complex urban and state level society in the region from a household perspective using observations from diverse North Coast households to generate new understandings of broader social processes in and beyond Andean prehistory Many volumes on this region are limited to one time period or civilization often the Moche While Ancient Households on the North Coast of Peru does examine the Moche it offers a wider thematic approach to a broader swath of prehistory Chapters on various time periods use a comparable scale of analysis to examine long term continuity and change and draw on a large corpus of prior research on states rulership and cosmology to offer new insight into the intersection of household community and state Contributors address social reproduction construction and reinforcement of gender identities and social hierarchy household permanence and resilience and expression of identity through cuisine This volume challenges common concepts of the household in archaeology by demonstrating the complexity and heterogeneity of household level dynamics as they intersect with institutions at broader social scales and takes a comparative perspective on daily life within one region of the Andes It will be of interest to both students and scholars of South American archaeology and household archaeology Contributors Brian R Billman David Chicoine Guy S Duke Hugo Ikehara Giles Spence Morrow Jessica Ortiz Edward Swenson Kari A Zobler
