Upward Bound begins

A five-week summer program for disadvantaged students will begin today at the Stephenville Community Center. The program, known as Upward Bound, is designed to provide college-bound students with the academic and social skills needed to succeed in higher education.

The program is a joint effort of the Federal Government and the State of Texas. It is designed to help students from low-income families prepare for college by providing them with intensive academic and social training.

Students will receive instruction in English, mathematics, science, and social studies. They will also participate in cultural activities and field trips to various educational institutions.

The program is open to students who are currently attending high school and who have a minimum grade point average of 2.0.

For more information, contact the Stephenville Community Center at 123 Main Street.

Ag teachers attending swap shop

Approximately 25 agricultural teachers from across the state will meet today at the Stephenville Community Center for a swap shop. The event is designed to provide teachers with an opportunity to exchange ideas and materials related to agricultural education.

The swap shop will feature a variety of items for sale, including textbooks, laboratory equipment, and other educational materials. Teachers are encouraged to bring items they no longer need to the event.

The swap shop is being held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Texas Association of Agricultural Educators. The meeting will take place over the next several days.

Students and teachers participate in an activity during the Upward Bound program. The photo shows students working on a project, possibly related to the academic or social skills training provided by the program.

Homeowners' insurance rates considered today

HOUSTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Insurance Board today will consider a proposed increase in homeowners' insurance rates. The board is expected to make a decision on whether to approve the increase.

The proposed increase is based on a study conducted by the Texas Insurance Board. The study found that the current rates are insufficient to cover the costs of claims.

Homeowners' insurance rates have been a topic of concern for many years. The Texas Insurance Board is responsible for regulating the industry and ensuring that rates are fair and reasonable.

The board's decision will have a significant impact on the cost of homeowners' insurance for many Texans. Homeowners are advised to stay informed about the board's decision.

For more information, contact the Texas Insurance Board at 123 Main Street, Houston, Texas.
