The language architecture:

Universal Grammar and the Second Language Classroom Melinda Whong, Kook-Hee Gil, Heather Marsden, 2013-06-26

This book proposes that research into generative second language acquisition GenSLA can be applied to the language classroom Assuming that Universal Grammar plays a role in second language development it explores generalisations from GenSLA research The book aims to build bridges between the fields of generative second language acquisition applied linguistics and language teaching and it shows how GenSLA is poised to engage with researchers of second language learning outside the generative paradigm Each chapter of Universal Grammar and the Second Language Classroom showcases ways in which GenSLA research can inform language pedagogy Some chapters include classroom research that tests the effectiveness of teaching particular linguistic phenomena Others review existing research findings discussing how these findings are useful for language pedagogy All chapters show how generative linguistics can enhance teachers expertise in language and second language development This groundbreaking volume ably takes on the gap that currently exists between generative linguistic theory in second language acquisition GenSLA and second language pedagogy by gathering chapters from GenSLA researchers who are interested in the relevance and potential application of their research to second foreign language teaching It offers a welcome and thought provoking contribution to any discussion of the relation between linguistic theory and practice I recommend it not only for language teachers interested in deepening their understanding of the formal properties of the languages they teach but also for linguists interested in following up on more practical consequences of the fruits of their theoretical and empirical research Donna Lardiere Georgetown University Washington DC USA

The Agent Modeling Language - AML Radovan Cervenka, Ivan Trencansky, 2007-04-17 Multi agent systems have been a focus of studies for more than 25 years Yet despite substantial effort of an active research community modeling of multi agent systems still lacks complete and proper definition general acceptance and practical application This book provides the Agent Modeling Language AML a comprehensive modeling language as an extension of UML 2.0 concentrating on multi agent systems and applications

Second Language Acquisition Roumyana Slabakova, 2016-04-15 This textbook approaches second language acquisition from the perspective of generative linguistics Roumyana Slabakova reviews and discusses paradigms and findings from the last thirty years of research in the field focussing in particular on how the second or additional language is represented in the mind and how it is used in communication The adoption and analysis of a specific model of acquisition the Bottleneck Hypothesis provides a unifying perspective The book assumes some non technical knowledge of linguistics but important concepts are clearly introduced and defined throughout making it a valuable resource not only for undergraduate and graduate students of linguistics but also for researchers in cognitive science and language teachers

Pragmatics, Utterance Meaning, and Representational Gesture Jack Wilson, 2024-02-28 Humans produce utterances intentionally Visible bodily action or gesture has long been acknowledged as part of the broader activity of speaking but it is only recently that the role of gesture during utterance production and comprehension has been the focus of investigation. If we are to understand the role of gesture in communication we must answer the following questions: Do gestures communicate? Do people produce gestures with an intention to communicate? This Element argues that the answer to both these questions is yes. Gestures are or can be communicative in all the ways language is. This Element arrives at this conclusion on the basis that communication involves prediction. Communicators predict the behaviours of themselves and others and such predictions guide the production and comprehension of utterance. This Element uses evidence from experimental and neuroscientific studies to argue that people produce gestures because doing so improves such predictions.

The Routledge Handbook of Second Language Acquisition Susan M. Gass, Alison Mackey, 2013-06-17 This handbook brings together 50 leading international figures in the field to produce a state of the art overview of second language acquisition.

Discontinuity in Second Language Acquisition Stefano Rastelli, 2014 With a focus on the morphosyntactic features of second language this book discusses the idea that language acquisition is a discontinuous and quantized process due to the existence of two different albeit interconnected ways of learning: Statistical Learning and Grammatical Learning. It describes how the switch between ways of learning could take place and its developmental implications for adult SLA.

A Multimodal Language Faculty Neil Cohn, Joost Schilperoord, 2024-05-16 Natural human communication is multimodal. We pair speech with gestures and combine writing with pictures from online messaging to comics to advertising. This richness of human communication remains unaddressed in linguistic and cognitive theories which maintain traditional amodal assumptions about language. What is needed is a new multimodal paradigm. This book posits a bold reorganization of the structures of language and heralds a reconsideration of its guiding assumptions. Human expressive behaviors like speaking, signing and drawing may seem distinct but they decompose into similar cognitive building blocks which coalesce in emergent states from a singular multimodal communicative architecture This cognitive model accounts for unimodal and multimodal expression across all of our modalities providing a grand unified theory that incorporates insights from formal linguistics cognitive semantics metaphor theory Peircean semiotics sign language gesture visual language psycholinguistics and cognitive neuroscience Such a perspective reconfigures how we understand linguistic structure diversity universals innateness relativity and evolution A Multimodal Language Faculty directly confronts centuries old notions of language and offers a compelling reimagination of what language is and how it works

A Framework for Automated HW/SW Co-Verification of SystemC Designs Using Timed Automata Paula Herber, 2010 In this dissertation we present a systematic comprehensive and formally founded quality assurance process which allows automated co verification of digital hardware software systems that are modeled in SystemC The main idea is to apply model checking to verify that an abstract design meets a requirements specification and to generate conformance tests to check whether refined designs conform to this abstract design As formal foundation we define a formal semantics of SystemC by a transformation into the well defined semantics of UPPAAL timed automata The automatically generated timed automata model can be verified using the UPPAAL model checker and it can be used to generate conformance tests With that we obtain guarantees about liveness safety and timing properties of the abstract design which serves as a specification and we can ensure the consistency of each refined design to that The result is a HW SW co verification flow that supports the HW SW co development process continuously from abstract design down to the implementation The complete verification flow is implemented in our Framework for the Verification of SystemC designs using Timed Automata VeriSTA and its applicability and performance are shown by experimental results

What is a Context? Rita Finkbeiner, Jörg Meibauer, Petra B. Schumacher, 2012 Context is a core notion of linguistic theory However while there are numerous attempts at explaining single aspects of the notion of context these attempts are rather diverse and do not easily converge to a unified theory of context The present multi faceted collection of papers reconsiders the notion of context and its challenges for linguistics from different theoretical and empirical angles Part I offers insights into a wide range of current approaches to context including theoretical pragmatics neurolinguistics clinical pragmatics interactional linguistics and psycholinguistics Part II presents new empirical findings on the role of context from case studies on idioms unarticulated constituents argument linking and numerically quantified expressions Bringing together different theoretical frameworks the volume provides thought provoking discussions of how the notion of context can be understood modeled and implemented in linguistics It is essential for researchers interested in theoretical and applied linguistics the semantics pragmatics interface and experimental pragmatics Entangled Englishes Jerry Won Lee, Sofia Rüdiger, 2025-02-28
