Jenkins, 1970 The book is concerned with the building of models for discrete time series and dynamic systems It describes in detail how such models may be used to obtain optimal forecasts and optimal control action All the techniques are illustrated with examples using economic and industrial data In Part 1 models for stationary and nonstationary time series are introduced and their use in forecasting is discussed and exemplified Part II is devoted to model building and procedures for model identification estimation and checking which are then applied to the forecasting of seasonal time series Part III is concerned with the building of transfer function models relating the input and output of a dynamic system computed by noise In Part IV it is shown how transfer function and time series models may be used to design optimal feedback and feedforward control schemes Part V contains an outline of computer programs useful in making the needed calculations and also includes charts and tables of value in identifying the models Author Time Series Analysis George E. P. Box, Gwilym M. Jenkins, Gregory C.
