THE SCRAMBLE FOR AFRICA AND THE BUILD UP TO A THIRD WORLD WAR: CHANGING POWER PATTERNS AT THE GLOBAL LEVEL AND LESSONS FOR AFRICA

Abstract

The aim of this journal was to analyze the current global war events and how they are set to change power patterns at the global level and its impact and lessons for Africa. The assumption of this study was that these reckless wars in the 21st century are set to reshape the global world order and lead to either African renaissance or recolonisation. The objectives of the study were, to account for the global hostilities, to project possible outcomes, and to come up with a solution to the identified challenges. The study relied on both primary and secondary data sets. The findings of the study were that, that the US Dollar will cease to be a global currency and that there is going to be a new alternative international payment system, the UNSC will die and the five permanent member states principle dies vindicating Mugabeism, that Russia will rely on nuclear threats for its survival, the trade war between China and USA has put China at the center of the USA's countervailing strategies, that part of the USA's countervailing strategy is targeting the BRICS (Brazil, Russia, India, China, and South Africa), that the USA and Russia despite their own differences are uncomfortable with the sudden surge of China as this threatens the historical racial hierarchy that has been dominated by whites, that China has been burdened with externally orchestrated convulsions in Hong Kong, arms sales to Taiwan, Tibet cessation led Daila Lama, alleged human rights against the minority Muslims in North-West China, and bellicose statements targeting China's intentions within its region, and that Afrophobia marks the end of regional African bodies especially SADC and revolutionary parties. The poor performance of the South African economy (29 percent unemployment rate) is a dangling sword in the hands of the white business sector. The study recommends that South Africa must kill the tribe as prescribed by Samora Machael who stated that for a nation-state to live the tribe must die, the USA must avoid the Hitler approach of creating so many wars, Africa must not jump to award resources to the foreigners, Africa must ringfence its resources from external exploitation, there will be more coups in Africa as the level of disgruntlement has risen alarmingly and Africa must not just 'hope' as a strategy for survival.

Environment and Planning, 1990 American Indians in the Marketplace Brian C. Hosmer, 1999 Although it is usually assumed that Native Americans have lost their cultural identity through modernization some peoples have proved otherwise Brian Hosmer explores what happened when cultural identity and economic opportunity converged among two Native American communities that used community based industries to both generate income and sustain their cultures Comparing a lumber business run by the Menominees of Wisconsin and a salmon cannery established by British Columbian and Alaskan Tsimshian communities known as Metlakatla Hosmer reveals how each tribe responded to market and political forces over fifty years Hosmer's innovative ethnohistory recounts how these Indians used the marketplace to maintain their distinctiveness to a far greater extent than those who became wage earners in the white man's world Hosmer shows that by selectively incorporating elements of American capitalism into their cultural lives the Menominees and Metlakatlans came to view modernization less as a threat to their tribal life than as a means for maintaining their independence These tribes embraced the same market accused of hastening the demise of native societies and became comparatively successful in American terms even as they both honored fundamental values and forged new cultural identities Over time these peoples came to understand how the market worked recognized that the broader economy operated according to market principles and learned how to adjust to it Hosmer reveals how their strategies of purposeful modernization brought relative economic independence and sometimes the respect and cooperation of local and federal governments how it helped chart a middle course between unchecked individuality and a communal ethos that might stifle economic development and how economic development and cultural values ultimately affected one another American Indians in the Marketplace is a story of adaptation that acknowledges the hardship and suffering common to most Indian white contact while emphasizing the benefits of selective modernization accompanied by a constant re invention of tradition It questions the victim thesis of Native American history and shows that native peoples can meet the challenges of surviving in the larger world U.S. Presidents and Latin American Interventions Michael Grow,2008 Reveals how Cold War U S presidents intervened in Latin America not as the official argument stated to protect economic interests or war off perceived national security threats but rather as a way of responding to questions about strength and credibility both globally and at home Politics and Change in the Middle East Roy Andersen,Robert F. Johnston,1995 Pitirim A Sorokin 1889 1968 was one of the most original important and controversial figures in American sociology His spectacular rise from a peasant childhood in Czarist Russia to the Olympian heights of Harvard University provides an unlikely and fascinating lens for examining the history of an entire discipline And as Barry Johnston shows his equally dramatic fall from favor and unexpected resurrection illuminate both Sorokin s life and the tempestuous world of academic politics An outspoken revolutionary and secretary to Alexander Kerensky Sorokin was imprisoned and ordered executed by Lenin then reprieved and exiled During the 1920s he flourished as a teacher and scholar at the University of Minnesota where he published several pioneering books on the Russian Revolution social mobility sociological theory and rural sociology Harvard president A Lawrence Lowell was so impressed that he recruited Sorokin to chair the university s first department of sociology From 1930 to 1944 the department prospered under Sorokin s leadership attracting an entire generation of young scholars who in their own right would have a profound impact on the discipline In this period Sorokin published several volumes of his magnum opus Social and Cultural Dynamics and became embroiled in a bitter battle with rival Talcott Parsons for control of the department Parsons ultimately deposed Sorokin and transformed sociology into the Department of Social Relations Sorokin nevertheless stayed on at Harvard where he established the Center for Creative Altruism but otherwise continued to work in relative obscurity Finally in 1963 after years in eclipse Sorokin was recognized for his accomplishments when he was elected president of the American Sociological Association During a long and distinguished career Sorokin amassed an amazingly diverse and substantial body of work much of which set the standard for the field At the same time he broke with the conventions of sociology frequently ridiculing and taunting his less adventurous colleagues For his heresy the flamboyant Sorokin was condemned and driven to the periphery of a profession anxious for legitimacy as a science As a result Sorokin s ideas have been consistently ignored and misunderstood for more than a quarter century Based on exhaustive research in Sorokin s papers and the Harvard archives as well as interviews with Sorokin s surviving family members former students and colleagues this biography restores Sorokin to his rightful place in the pantheon of American intellectuals Managing the Japan-U.S. Alliance in a Rapidly Changing World Hiroyuki Kishino,1991 World in Disorder Sheldon Smith,1993-09-08 Designed as both an introductory and theoretical text on contemporary global issues this book was written to be used in conjunction with an international newspaper especially the Christian Science Monitor Smith supplies theory and background to key global issues and embraces the world system theory of Immanuel Wallerstein and the new institutional economics of Douglas North Smith demonstrates the theory of blocked transition by which a few wealthy societies have achieved transitions to modernisation economically politically demographically and ecologically while poor societies have been blocked in attaining these same advances The book is organised regionally exploring global issues in Latin America Africa the Near East Asia Europe and Russia Among the issues discussed are revolution terrorism the drug trade democratisation privatisation deforestation desertification and population expansion The text is characterised by its straightforward approach Stamler V.
