A HISTORY OF WALKING

Wanderlust Rebecca Solnit

Jenny Herbert

Wanderlust Rebecca Solnit:

Wanderlust Rebecca Solnit, 2000 Arguing that walking as history means walking to enjoy nature as well as for political and social meaning Solnit profiles the walkers whose everyday and extreme acts have shaped our culture Wanderlust Rebecca Solnit, 2022-07 A reissue of the profound and meandering modern classic about the historical political and philosophical paths traced by walkers Reconnecting with John Muir Terry Gifford, 2010-01-25 Advancing for the first time the concept of post pastoral practice Reconnecting with John Muir springs from Terry Gifford's understanding of the great naturalist as an exemplar of integrated environmentally conscious knowing and writing Just as the discourses of science and the arts were closer in Muir's day in part arguably because of Muir it is time we learned from ecology to recognize how integrated our own lives are as readers students scholars teachers and writers When we defy the institutional separations purposely straying from narrow career tracks the activities of reading scholarship teaching and writing can inform each other in a holistic post pastoral professional practice Healing the separations of culture and nature represents the next way forward from the current crossroads in the now established field of ecocriticism The mountain environment provides a common ground for the diverse modes of engagement and mediation Gifford discusses By attempting to understand the meaning of Muir's assertion that going to the mountains is going home Gifford points us toward a practice of integrated reading scholarship teaching and writing that is adequate to our environmental crisis A Field Guide to Getting Lost Rebecca Solnit, 2006-06-27 An intriguing amalgam of personal memoir philosophical speculation natural lore cultural history and art criticism Los Angeles Times From the award winning author of Orwell's Roses a stimulating exploration of wandering being lost and the uses of the unknown Written as a series of autobiographical essays A Field Guide to Getting Lost draws on emblematic moments and relationships in Rebecca Solnit's life to explore issues of uncertainty trust loss memory desire and place Solnit is interested in the stories we use to navigate our way through the world and the places we traverse from wilderness to cities in finding ourselves or losing ourselves While deeply personal her own stories link up to larger stories from captivity narratives of early Americans to the use of the color blue in Renaissance painting not to mention encounters with tortoises monks punk rockers mountains deserts and the movie Vertigo The result is a distinctive stimulating voyage of discovery Configurations of Migration Jennifer Leetsch, Frederike Middelhoff, Miriam Wallraven, 2023-10-24 In a global context in which phenomena of migration play an ever more important role the ways individual and collective experiences of migration are covered in the media represented in culture and interpreted are coming under increasing scrutiny This book explores the complex relationship between creative engagements with migration on the one hand and forms of knowledge about migration on the other inquiring into the ways aesthetic practices are intertwined with knowledge structures The book responds to three pressing research questions First it analyses how fictional texts plays images films and autobiographical accounts mediate forms of knowledge about migration Second it identifies the ways in which specific media approaches and aesthetic practices influence people's ideas about and awareness of migratory experiences in a globalized world. Finally, it delineates how historical perspectives help us compare epistemological approaches to migration in the nineteenth, twentieth, and early twenty-first centuries and how these approaches affect the way critics and the public responded to and thought about different forms of forced migration. Bringing together renowned scholars working across disciplines, it investigates the possibilities and limitations that different media present when it comes to reflecting on, communicating, and imagining experiences of migration and how these representations in turn create ways of knowing and understanding migration.

The Art of Being a Tourist at Home Jenny Herbert, 2021-05-05 A thoughtful book that celebrates staycations at a time when the world is grappling with the future of travel.

Ruptured Commons Anna Guttman, Veronica J. Austen, 2024-10-10 At a time when we have all lived through profound and unexpected disruptions to our shared spaces, routines, economies, societies, and work lives, this book considers the nature and implications of rupture, the commons, and their conjoining. Addressing rupture and disruption through the lens of literary and cultural studies, this volume traverses genres: film, fiction, theatre, poetry, and the graphic novel, and addresses histories and identities as ecologies. The focus is resolutely contemporary, with nearly all of the texts being analyzed produced within the last decade. Beginning with the history of and debates about Garrett Hardin's famous tragedy of the commons, Ruptured Commons engages with texts and cultures of disaster wherein artistic expression becomes a form of protest and a path to change. This collection both critically examines our arrival at and understanding of this moment and explores diverse and hopeful visions for the future embedded within contemporary culture.

Errant Bodies, Mobility, and Political Resistance Gregory Blair, 2018-09-03 This book explores a type of wandering referred to as errant bodies. This form of wandering is intentional without specific destination and operates as a means of resistance against hegemonic forms of power and cultural prescriptions. Beginning with an examination of the character and particulars of being an errant body, the book investigates historical errant bodies including Ancient Greek Cynics, Punks, Baudelaire, Situationists, Earhart, Kerouac, Fuller, Baudrillard, Hamish Fulton, and Keri Smith. Being an errant body means stepping to the side of dominant culture, creating a potential means of political resistance in the technologically driven twenty-first century.

The Arts and the Legal Academy Zenon Bankowski, Maksymilian Del Mar, Paul Maharg, 2016-04-01 In Western culture, law is dominated by textual representation. Lawyers, academics, and law students live and work in a textual world where the written word is law, and law is interpreted largely within written and printed discourse. Is it possible, however, to understand and learn law differently? Could modes of knowing, feeling, memory, and expectation commonly present in the Arts enable a deeper understanding of law's discourse and practice? If so, how might that work for students, lawyers, and academics in the classroom and in continuing professional development? Bringing together scholars, legal practitioners internationally from the fields of legal education, legal theory, theatre, architecture, visual, and movement arts, this book is evidence of how the Arts can powerfully revitalize the theory and practice of legal education. Through discussion of theory and practice in the humanities and Arts linked to practical examples of radical interventions the chapters reveal how the Arts can transform educational practice and our view of its place in legal practice Available in enhanced electronic format the book complements The Moral Imagination and the Legal Life also published by Ashgate Natives, Newcomers, Exiles, Fugitives Jonah Raskin, 2003 Reviews and interviews of 32 authors of both fiction and non fiction who live or have lived in northern California Wanderlust , 2019 Walking in the Wilderness Michaela Keck, 2006 This book investigates the adaptation and transformation of the European peripatetic tradition in nineteenth century America in particular Henry David Thoreau s literary walks and their visual counterparts in American landscape painting Although Thoreau s perambulations in New World nature have been stated in scholarship no study has offered a comparative analysis nor has the philosophic contemplative aspect of his art of Walking been sufficiently studied The present study puts his walking pattern into a transatlantic as well as interdisciplinary context and illuminates the uniquely American aesthetic philosophic considerations underlying the genre of the walk in American nineteenth century literature and painting Library Journal , 2000 Public Art Review , 2000 Preservation , 2000 The Ecologist , 2003 Resurgence , 2002 Harvest Futurefarmers (Firm), 2002 Lost Islands Kevan Manwaring, 2008 Imaginary otherworldly and lost islands frequently feature in literature This study considers these mythic isles in the context of climate change and Earth itself as a threatened island Theatres of Thought Daniel Peter Watt, Daniel Meyer-Dinkgräfe, 2007 The essays collected in this volume address issues from wide ranging perspectives and approaches They arise from meetings of the theatre performance and philosophy working group at the 2005 and 2006 conferences of TaPRA and from papers presented under the auspices of CTPP at Aberystwyth University
