The Human-Animal Bond in Clinical Social Work Practice Katherine Compitus, 2021-11-12 The human animal bond may be described as a dynamic mutually beneficial relationship between people and the animals they care for There are a multitude of mental and physical health benefits for people who care for animals and animals in therapy have been shown to aid a wide range of people and illnesses Although the benefits of animal companionship have long been suspected little is known about the research the process or why it works This book provides clinicians with a history of the human animal bond and the rationale for incorporating animals into therapy today In this book the author includes a discussion of the myriad of ways that clinicians can directly help people care for their pets such as crisis intervention services policy issues grief counseling for pet loss and compassion fatigue in the veterinary profession There also is a thorough discussion of animal assisted therapy AAT as a distinct and unique modality The adaptive nature of AAT is not only due to the symbiotic relationship between humans and animals but also because of the flexible nature of the model it can be used with clients of all demographics and with most mental illnesses Research shows that the majority of mental health practitioners believe that AAT is a valid treatment modality but AAT has not yet been manualized and clinicians are left confused about where to start The Human Animal Bond in Clinical Social Work Practice is a unique and essential resource that provides guidelines for developing AAT treatment plans and integrating AAT with existing therapeutic models The book answers the questions that social workers psychologists psychiatrists and other mental health counselors may have about the benefits of the human animal bond and ways to tap into that special bond in direct practice

volume contains more nonphilosophers than philosophers explicitly inviting scholars from other fields such as animal science ecology economics psychology law environmental science and applied biology among others to bring their own disciplinary resources to bear on matters that affect animals The Routledge Handbook of Animal Ethics is composed of 44 chapters all appearing in print here for the first time and organized into the following six sections I Thinking About Animals II Animal Agriculture and Hunting III Animal Research and Genetic Engineering IV Companion Animals V Wild Animals Conservation Management and Ethics VI Animal Activism The chapters are brief and they have been written in a way that is accessible to serious undergraduate students regardless of their field of study The volume covers everything from animal cognition to the state of current fisheries from genetic modification to intersection animal activism It is a resource designed for anyone interested in the moral issues that emerge from human interactions with animals

The Future of Natural History Museums
Eric Dorfman, 2017-10-12 Natural history museums are changing both because of their own internal development and in response to changes in context Historically the aim of collecting from nature was to develop encyclopedic assemblages to satisfy human curiosity and build a basis for taxonomic information Today with global biodiversity in rapid decline there are new reasons to build and maintain collections while audiences are more diverse numerous and technically savvy Institutions must learn to embrace new technology while retaining the authenticity of their stories and the value placed on their objects The Future of Natural History Museums begins to develop a cohesive discourse that balances the disparate issues that our institutions will face over the next decades It disassembles the topic into various key elements and through commentary and synthesis explores a cohesive picture of the trajectory of the natural history museum sector This book contributes to the study of collections teaching and learning ethics and running non profit businesses and will be of interest to museum and heritage professionals and academics and senior students in Biological Sciences and Museum Studies
