University Governance Western European Comparative Perspectives Higher Education Dynamics:

University Governance Catherine Paradeise, Emanuela Reale, Ivar Bleiklie, Ewan Ferlie, 2009-02-07 Higher education reforms have been on the agenda of Western European countries for 25 years trying to deal with self governed professional bureaucracies politically weakened by massification when an emerging common understanding enhanced their role as major actors in knowledge based economies While university systems are deeply embedded in national settings the ex post rationale of still on going reforms is surprisingly uniform and de nationalized They promote 1 the organizational turn of universities to varying extent substituting collegial loosely coupled entities by integrated goal oriented entities deliberately choosing their own actions and therefore open to differentiation that can thus be held responsible for what they do 2 the diversification of stakeholders supposedly offering solutions to problems as various as the democratisation of universities the shrinking of State budget resources and the diversification of university missions offering answers to changes in the making and in the use of science When it comes to accounting for these reforms two grand narratives of public management share the floor NPM implies a strengthening of the capacity of the core State to direct public services organizations through management by objectives and results or contractualization assessment evaluation and Governance focuses on network based governance systems where coordinating power and control are collectively shared between the major social actors or partners at all levels of the decision making system Our results suggest that all higher education systems under study were more or less transformed according to both these narratives It is therefore needed to understand how they combine or create contradictions This leads us to test a third neo weberian model This model reaffirms the role of the State of representative democracy central regional and local of public law suitably modernized preserves the idea of a public service with a distinctive status culture and terms and conditions It shifts from an internal orientation to bureaucratic rules towards an external orientation in meeting citizens needs and wishes by means of standardization of work processes and their products based on a distinctive public service and a particular legal order survived as the foundations beneath the various packages of modernizing reforms This book traces the national dynamics of public policies organizational design and steering tools in seven European higher education and research systems using these narratives to interpret and test the actual changes and the degree of national specificities and European convergence This book is not a sum of national chapters like other presumably comparative It does not intend to tell once again the story of the transformation of the relationships between the state and universities It tries to use Higher education system to discuss issues on state intervention and steering and more generally the NPM governance and neo weberian models in a specific field Furthermore this book intends breaking the walls between specialists in higher education and specialist in public management and research policy This well rooted division of labour is less that ever justified as the university mission in research fundamental applied strategic is underscored by commentators and reformers themselves For that reason we have chosen to observe the consequences of the dynamics of public policies organizational design and steering tools on two specific issues related to the development of research training and organizing within universities the transformation of research funding on the one hand and the expansion of graduate studies and doctoral schools on the other

Handbook on Science and Public Policy Dagmar Simon, Stefan Kuhlmann, Julia Stamm, Weert Canzler, 2019 This Handbook assembles state of the art insights into the co evolutionary and precarious relations between science and public policy Beyond this it also offers a fresh outlook on emerging challenges for science including technology and innovation in changing societies and related policy requirements as well as the challenges for public policy in view of science driven economic societal and cultural changes In short this book deals with science as a policy triggered project as well as public policy as a science driven venture

Universities in Crisis Eric Lybeck, Catherine O'Connell, 2023-01-26 This book goes beyond now familiar analyses of neoliberal governmentality which tend to characterise academics as passive subjects or as strategic actors drawing on and cynically exploiting metrics as a form of capital exchangeable across different fields Instead Universities in Crisis draws on newer paradigms by drawing on processual post critical and phenomenological approaches that leave room for new spaces of negotiation discursive and practical for understanding and advancing academic professionalism in this rapidly changing context Contributors reflect various manifestations of the changing political and public climate as well as the unease that surrounds contemporary debates which position the academy in troubling ways Unifying concepts such as academic work jurisdiction and transdisciplinarity are deployed to transcend functional divisions within and between academics administrators managers and students Drawing on these theoretical and conceptual resources contributors engage in critical consideration of whether the potential for push back lies both in re emphasising the specialness of academic professionalism and in defining the commonalities with other professional groups of knowledge workers The book offers an unflinching analysis on the conditions which frame the darker side of professionalism and which are associated with increased precarity and reduced autonomy The contributors explore the dilemmas challenges and possibilities of professionalism for both early career academics and senior academic leaders International Handbook of Interpretation in Educational Research Paul Smeyers, David Bridges, Nicholas C. Burbules, Morwenna Griffiths, 2015-01-06 This handbook focuses on the often neglected dimension of interpretation in educational research It argues that all educational research is in some sense interpretive and that understanding this issue belies some usual dualisms of thought and practice such as the sharp dichotomy between qualitative and quantitative research Interpretation extends from the very framing of the research task through the sources which constitute the data the process of their recording representation and analysis to the way in which the research is finally or provisionally presented The thesis of the handbook is that interpretation cuts across the fields both philosophically organizationally and methodologically By covering a comprehensive range of research approaches and methodologies the handbook gives early career researchers what they need to know in order to decide what particular methods can offer for various educational research contexts fields An extensive overview includes concrete examples of different kinds of research not limited for example to teaching and learning examples as present in the Anglo Saxon tradition but including as well what in the German Continental tradition is labelled pädagogisch examples from child rearing and other contexts of non formal education with full description and explanation of why these were chosen in particular circumstances and reflection on the wisdom or otherwise of the choice combined in each case with consideration of the role of interpretation in the process The handbook includes examples of a large number of methods traditionally classified as qualitative interpretive and quantitative used across the area of the study of education Examples are drawn from across the globe thus exemplifying the different opportunities and constraints that educational research has to confront in different societies

Shaping Human Science Disciplines Christian Fleck, Matthias Duller, Victor Karády, 2018-09-01 This book presents an analysis of the institutional development of selected social science and humanities SSH disciplines in Argentina France Germany Hungary Italy the Netherlands Sweden and the United Kingdom Where most narratives of a scholarly past are presented as a succession of ideas research results and theories this collection highlights the structural shifts in the systems of higher education as well as institutions of research and innovation beyond the universities within which these disciplines have developed This institutional perspective will facilitate systematic comparisons between developments in various disciplines and countries Across eight country studies the book reveals remarkably different dynamics of disciplinary growth between countries as well as important interdisciplinary differences within countries In addition instances of institutional contractions and downturns and veritable breaks of continuity under authoritarian political regimes can be observed which are almost totally absent from narratives of individual disciplinary histories This important work will provide a valuable resource to scholars of disciplinary history the history of ideas the sociology of education and of scientific
