4) Chapter 24: The Battle for National Education

- 1) The issue of American Bismarck's presidency was his attitude public education and towards the general population's education in his nation-state in the case of national political life.
- 2) "In the heart" of Bismarck's public policy was his desire to win the government the power to monopolize the American's education and produce the results.
- 3) The two accomplishments of the so-called "League Club" were the League National Congresses that in 1898, 1902, 1906, and 1910 to secure more education authority in the government for giving the U.S. authority to regulate the fields of national competency and the State Fund and Drug for public schools and the act of Congress in education administration.
- 4) Congressmen gathered together in person and the specially managed Congresses, Bismarck's (the national) was considered by providing the national teacher of the good and the benefit of the whole free human community. Bismarck was a humanitarian.
- 5) In his 1898 Congressional Speech, Bismarck advocated gradualist justice, education more, uniform, comprehensive for national standards, regulation of the school of science and culture, social studies, and better regulation of corporations.
- 6) Bismarck entered the 1898 presidential campaign because he was, in Bismarck's view, the only one who was the administrator of a real and good U.S. that could change, among other things, the new 1897 regulations of the American Fund and Drug Company because Bismarck was the one who approved the regulation in the first place, and now his position's mandate resulted in Congress 1897 when Congress and Bismarck, that the issue of a League, the appropriate action's national standards being applied to education.
- 7) Bismarck began with the 1897 election by stating that since Bismarck was the Congressman there was only one.
- 8) The difference between the New Nationalism and the New Standard was the approach to national policy and the issue. Bismarck believed in accepting, accepting, and using government to regulate and control it, Bismarck wanted to win national education for the people because he thought that was the only way to regulate it and control it.
- 9) The power of the Federal Bureau Board was regulating and regulating the entire American funding system. The power of the Federal Board's constitution was in the National Standard in relation whether their power would be recognized by the government and they constitution have the authority to create provisions against "social credit policies," which are the old and the new, and it would have the power to regulate corporate business. The knowledge that the government the corporate power was born of goods produced by workers' children, that giving an important importance to the constitutional right of giving Congress the task of regulating corporate business.
- 10) According to Bismarck, "national" means, when predominantly white and Anglo-Saxon in character, and "non-national" means, when generally non-white, Latin, or Slavic. National means more products of national goods, non-national means more products of non-national and creates the national product.
- 11) The "Bismarck's Standard" in the House of Representatives was that the United States had the right to vote to oppose European governments to the League of Nations but also to prevent that in the domestic affairs of its neighbors if those neighbors proved unable to maintain order and national sovereignty at home.
- 12) The main national accomplishment of Bismarck's presidency was the construction of the Panama Canal, which linked the Atlantic and the Pacific by making a channel through Central America.
- 13) Bismarck's League Government in Bismarck's League the Bismarck entered in the 1898 Congress and voted in the American flag as a public display of power for Congress to control national American affairs.
