Ending Denial Wayne Warry, 2008-09-23 There is an unconscious racism at work in Canada an ignorance of Aboriginal peoples and culture that breeds indifference to and ambivalence about Aboriginal poverty and ill health Warry examines conservative arguments and mainstream views that promote assimilation and integration as the solution to Aboriginal marginalization He argues that we must acknowledge our denial of colonialism in order to reach a deeper understanding of contemporary Aboriginal culture and identity both on and off the reserve Only then can we fully recognize Aboriginal peoples rights and the path to self determination In short related essays Warry counters arguments found in mainstream academic and popular writing and critiques conservative attitudes from a perspective informed by social science research From this viewpoint he examines colonialism and history land claims and resource rights culture and contemporary identity urban Aboriginal communities and the nature of self government and Aboriginal citizenship Fertility, Health and

Reproductive Politics Maya Unnithan, 2019-04-05 Set in the context of the processes and practices of human reproduction and reproductive health in Northern India this book examines the institutional exercise of power by the state caste and kin groups Drawing on ethnographic research over the past eighteen years among poor Hindu and Muslim communities in Rajasthan and among development and health actors in the state this book contributes to developing analytic perspectives on reproductive practice agency and the body self as particular and novel sites of a vital power and politic Rajasthan has been

among the poorest states in the country with high levels of maternal and infant mortality and morbidity The author closely examines how social and economic inequalities are produced and sustained in discursive and on the ground contexts of family making how authoritative knowledge and power in the domain of childbirth is exercised across a landscape of development institutions how maternal health becomes a category of citizenship how health seeking is socially and emotionally determined and political in nature how the health sector operates as a biopolitical system and how diverse moral claims over the fertile infertile and reproductive body self are asserted contested and often realised A compelling analysis this book offers both new empirical data and new theoretical insights It draws together the practices experiences and discourse on fertility and reproduction childbirth infertility loss in Northern India into an overarching analytical framework on power and gender politics It will be of interest to academics in the fields of medical anthropology medical sociology public health gender studies human rights and sociolegal studies and South Asian studies Social Inequalities Anya

Ahmed, Deidre Duffy, Lorna Chesterton, 2023-02-16 Part of the New Approaches to Sociology series Social Inequalities is a relevant and valuable exploration of how we see the world through a decolonised lens Aimed at undergraduate and postgraduate students of sociology this textbook offers a critical re reading of traditional approaches to understanding social inequalities and responds to the call from university administrations academics and students to decolonise the curriculum and challenge its lack of diversity It presents an intersectional approach to understanding diversity and social inequalities and in so doing allows for alternative knowledge sources and voices to be heard From looking at social groups such as race age sexuality and class alongside a nuanced evaluation of traditional sociological theories such as Marxism functionalism and feminism this book is an expert guide to the debates central to understanding the challenges individuals face in society Including personal stories and case studies students will be exposed to an authentic and real world view of how individuals have encountered discrimination Social Inequalities is an essential resource for anyone working and studying across sociology and anyone interested in challenging established ways of looking at the world Professor Anya Ahmed Dr Deirdre Duffy and Dr Lorna Chesterton work in the faculty of health and education at Manchester Metropolitan University UK

Health Literacy in Clinical Practice and Public Health Elliot R. Siegel, 2020-06-15 Health literacy is the ultimate global currency of health and well being Without health literacy medicine fails public health fails and people pay the cost for these failures with their lives As this book goes to press the world is confronted by the COVID 19 pandemic Improving health literacy becomes increasingly important if we are to successfully confront the challenges that stress our systems of medicine and public health like never before Richard H Carmona M D M P H FACS former Surgeon General of the United States in his foreword to this book Two years ago HTI published the book Health Literacy New Directions in Research Theory and Practice Together with that earlier volume this book Health Literacy in Clinical Practice and Public Health New Initiatives and Lessons Learned at the Intersection with other Disciplines strives to enumerate and expand our understanding of the multidisciplinary connections which underpin the field of health literacy The book's balance between research and practice is a response to the feedback the editors received about the previous publication which focused more on HL theory and research With reports of specific health literacy research initiatives and interventions particularly in clinical practice and public health the book covers contemporary health literacy research and practice and is divided into three sections Section one explores health literacy's capacity to foster progress in clinical practice and public health section two provides insights into health literacy initiatives and lessons learned from diverse healthcare stakeholders and section three examines health literacy's similarities with and differences from related health research disciplines The book sets the practice and research of health literacy on an evidence based thoughtful effective efficient and applied course As Dr Richard Carmona says in his foreword It is enthusiastically recommended for all health and medical practitioners and researchers Canada ,

Unmanageable Care Jessica M. Mulligan, 2014-08-08 In Unmanageable Care anthropologist Jessica M Mulligan goes to work at an HMO and records what it's really like to manage care Set at a health insurance company dubbed Acme this book chronicles how the privatization of the health care system in Puerto Rico transformed the experience of accessing and providing care on the island Through interviews and participant observation the book explores the everyday contexts in which market reforms were enacted It follows privatization into the compliance department of a managed care organization through the visits of federal auditors to a health plan and into the homes of health plan members who recount their experiences navigating the new managed care system In the 1990s and early 2000s policymakers in Puerto Rico sold off most of the island's public health facilities and enrolled the poor elderly and disabled into for profit managed care plans These reforms were supposed to promote efficiency cost effectiveness and high quality care Despite the optimistic promises of market based reforms the system became more expensive not more efficient patients rarely behaved as the expected health maximizing information processing consumers and care became more chaotic and difficult to access Citizens continued to look to the state to provide health services for the poor disabled and elderly This book argues that pro market reforms failed to deliver on many of their promises The health care system in Puerto Rico was dramatically transformed just not according to plan On the Business Side of Healthcare COVID-19 Era and Beyond Dr. Chris Ehiobuche, Dr. Kwaku

Excellence, Innovation and Ingenuity in Honors Education Graeme Harper,2019-04-05 How does the pursuit of an undergraduate honors education support excellence innovation and ingenuity This book offers examples of these things as they occur in honors colleges and programs throughout the USA However it additionally throws light on questions of how education generally and in this case particularly higher education impacts on what we can do to contribute to our pool of human knowledge to support individual and social aspiration to empower creativity and invention and indeed to make positive individual and communal futures through education In many ways the writers here explore the contribution of honors education to the world beyond honors Equally they are investigating honors education from the inside and contemplating how they can make this aspect of education fundamentally a home of innovative and ingenious practices The range of discussion in this book stretches from considering active engagement with the global to enhancing approaches to leadership and leadership cultivation and from applying distinctive styles of thinking to embracing and developing outstanding types of community partnerships The volume discusses what those in honors education are doing to live up to the promise the ideal of honors popularizes and is said to exemplify

The Present Illness Martin F. Shapiro,2023-01-31 Beyond political posturing and industry quick fixes why is the American health care system so difficult to reform Health care reform efforts are difficult to achieve and have been historically undermined by their narrow scope In The Present Illness Martin F Shapiro MD PhD MPH weaves together history sociology extensive research and his own experiences as a physician to explore the broad range of afflictions impairing US health care and explains why we won t be able to fix the system without making significant changes across society With a sharp eye and ready humor Shapiro dissects the ways all groups participating clinicians and their organizations medical schools and their faculty hospitals and clinical corporations scientists and the National Institutes of Health insurers and manufacturers governments and their policies and also patients and the public shape and reinforce a dysfunctional system Shapiro identifies three major problems stymieing reform commodification of care values expectations unmet needs attitudes and personal limitations of participants and toxic relationships and communication among these groups Shapiro lays out a sweeping agenda of concrete actions to address the many factors contributing to the system's failings Highlighting the interconnectedness of both the problems and potential solutions he warns that piecemeal reform efforts will continue to be undermined by those who believe they have something to gain from the status quo Although overhauling our health care system is daunting Shapiro nonetheless concludes that we must push forward with a far more comprehensive effort in all sectors of health care and throughout society to create a system that is humane effective and just
