Uniting Africa Building Regional Peace And Security Systems:

Uniting Africa David J. Francis, 2017-05-15 Plagued by bloody wars and armed conflicts political instability communal violence and displaced persons and at the mercy of natural catastrophes such as drought and famine it is not surprising that the Western press has long dismissed Africa as the hopeless continent In the face of these challenges Africa today is faced with a stark choice either unite or perish The debate on why and how the continent should unite in terms of co operative peace security and development is more urgent than at any other time in Africa s post colonial history Moving forward from the failure of the earlier typically idealistic Africa unity project David Francis demonstrates how peace and security challenges have created the imperative for change He argues that a series of regional peace and security systems are emerging and that states that have participated in practical experiments in regional peacekeeping peace support operations conflict stabilization management and preventive diplomacy are building de facto systems of peace and security that could be institutionalized and extended peace and security Despite suffering from important discrepancies in both their mandates and capacities regional organizations have become indisputable actors that play a role from the outbreak of a crisis to the reconstruction efforts in the aftermath of a conflict Presenting the most up to date critical and comparative analysis of the major regional security institutions assessing a wide range of regional organizations and providing an accessible and comprehensive guide to 11 key organizations this book is the first systematic study of the capacities of the most recognized intergovernmental organizations with a security mandate Regional Security is essential reading for all students of international organizations peace and security studies and global governance

EU Support to African Security Architecture Nicoletta Pirozzi,2009 This paper analyses the EU s support to the emerging African Peace and Security

Architecture APSA focusing on financial and training aspects During the last few years African countries have multiplied their efforts at consolidating regional integration and developing common mechanisms for the prevention management and resolution of conflicts At the same time EU Africa relations have significantly improved and led to strengthened political dialogue and enhanced cooperation Nevertheless the full implementation of the EU Africa partnership in peace and security is still hampered by a series of contradictions and significant constraints in the EU s approach shortcomings in its coordination with the international community and huge deficiencies on the African side The paper looks at the rationale structures and principles of the emerging African Peace and Security Architecture it provides an overview of its establishment analyses its structures norms capacities and procedures and highlights its critical weaknesses These elements constitute the parameters within which the appropriateness and effectiveness of the EU s approach in its support to the APSA may be assessed The EU s approach is firstly investigated in its institutional and financial aspects disclosing a rather complex and fragmented framework of interaction characterised by various instances of dialogue a broad array of actors involved different cooperation agreements and corresponding financial instruments as well as geographic compartmentalisation Particular attention is given to the EU s main tool to specifically support African peace and security efforts the African Peace Facility APF the purpose for which it was designed and its actual use the evaluation of the actions financed so far and the cooperation and overlap with other resources within the EU Perspectives for improvement in the next phase of the APF are identified including better coordination with other African partners especially in the G8 and UN framework The paper then considers the EU s training support to APSA both for headquarters and field personnel This derives from the recognition of the pivotal importance of a sustainable capacity building process within the AU which not only requires financial support but also the transfer of expertise and know how The EU could deliver a real added value in this sector but its actions must be directed towards the appropriate targets identified through an inclusive needs assessment and heavily relying on African contributions Possibilities for information sharing coordination and cooperation with other players that are active in the same field must also be identified and promoted The paper concludes with policy recommendations which aim to encourage enhanced EU support to African peace and security through a more realistic coordinated and forward looking approach

Consolidating the Democracy Project in Africa ,2007 Building States While Fighting Terror Peter J. Quaranto,2008 This report suggests that US policy in Somalia since 2001 represents many strong trends in US security thinking For instance there has been a revived emphasis on state stability and conversely a problematisation of state weakness as a threat US officials have focused on failed states such as Somalia as havens and recruiting grounds for terrorists Correspondingly state building has been declared a key tactic of counter terrorism US officials have argued that the best long term defence against terrorism is the existence of functional central governments especially those willing to cooperate with Washington Therefore the US State Department recently stated that the two pillars of state building and counter terrorism drive US policy in Somalia McCormack 2006 The purpose of this report is to consider the interaction of those pillars in policymaking and especially their application at the scene of action African Journal on Conflict Resolution ,2009 Africa Quarterly ,2007 Progressive Democracy Or Backtracking? ,2012 ZEI discussion paper ,2008 Introduction to Peace and Conflict Studies in West Africa Shedrack Gaya Best,2006 African Studies Review ,2007 Nigerian Journal of International Affairs ,2006 A Current Bibliography on African Affairs ,2007
