Under The Sour Sun Hunger Through The Eyes Of A Child:

Under the Sour Sun Elmer Hernan Rodriguez Campos, Tim Honchel, 2015-01-01 Elmer Hernan Rodriguez Campos offers a peek into a childhood shared by thousands of children born in Central America marked by hunger poverty discrimination and war A fantastic storyteller Elmer recounts his own memories of the place he calls La Costra the Scab a municipal dump at the edge of San Salvador and his home for the first twelve years of his life from 1969 1981 He and his older brothers find ways to defy their daily hunger and strife with creativity humor and great resilience Elmer works to understand his generational poverty and the internal and external forces that keep his family downtrodden As if these troubles were not enough dead bodies begin to appear in the dump and Elmer's family must struggle to survive a brutal civil war Readers begin to see life through the eyes of a starving child who is trying to find his place in a world that always seems to be against him Elmer's description of real hunger and poverty offers incredible insights to those of us who take our basic needs for granted His challenging observations are intertwined with the innocence of a child who dreams of a different world Gothiniad
