Paramilitarism and European Society in the 1940s Gareth

Pritchard,Vesna Drapac,2025-01-29 This book explores the social roots character and consequences of paramilitary violence in Europe in the 1940s Paramilitarism had an impact on the lives of millions of Europeans yet knowledge about this important topic is partial and fragmented The general perception of European paramilitary violence in the 1940s derives almost entirely from the resistance collaboration paradigm This dichotomous analytical framework makes a clear distinction between politically motivated violence and social violence such as sexual criminal and structural violence By contrast in this book Gareth Pritchard and Vesna Drapac recognise the mutual dependence of all kinds of violence Their interpretative model the Regimes of Violence paradigm which takes account of the changing relationship between state society and organised violence allows us to observe paramilitarism in the round The Regimes of Violence framework reveals the interconnectedness of paramilitarism with other forms of violence during this period of unprecedented brutality Today paramilitary violence is a global phenomenon It has resulted in the undermining of the rule of law and the erosion of civil society in many different countries on different continents while at the same time traumatising the countless numbers of innocent people who are caught in its crossfire With their compelling and timely study Pritchard and Drapac provide an historical context and present a novel approach for understanding why paramilitarism shows no sign of abating

Women and Industry in the Balkans

Chiara Bonfiglioli,2019-09-19 Women s emancipation through productive labour was a key tenet of socialist politics in post World War II Yugoslavia Mass industrialisation under Tito led many young women to join traditionally feminised sectors and as a consequence the textile sector grew rapidly fast becoming a gendered symbol of industrialisation consumption and socialist modernity By the 1980s Yugoslavia was one of the world's leading producers of textiles and garments. The break up of Yugoslavia in 1991 however resulted in factory closures, bankruptcy and layoffs forcing thousands of garment industry workers into precarious and often exploitative private sector jobs. Drawing on more than 60 oral history interviews with former and current garment workers as well as workplace periodicals and contemporary press material collected across Croatia, Macedonia, Serbia, Bosnia Herzegovina and Slovenia, Women and Industry in the Balkans charts the rise and fall of the Yugoslav textile sector as well as the implications of this post-socialist transition for the first time. In the process, the book explores broader questions about memories of socialism, lingering feelings of attachment to the socialist welfare system and the complexity of the post-socialist era. This is important reading for all scholars working on the history and politics of Yugoslavia and the Balkans, oral history, memory studies and gender studies.

Gender, Generations, and Communism in Central and Eastern Europe and Beyond Anna Artwińska, Agnieszka Mrozińska, 2020-06-03. Communism in twentieth-century Europe is predominantly narrated as a totalitarian movement and/or regime. This book aims to go beyond this narrative and provide an alternative framework to describe the communist past. This reframing is possible thanks to the concepts of generation and gender which are used in the book as analytical categories in an intersectional overlap. The publication covers twentieth-century Poland, Czechoslovakia, Czech Republic, the Soviet Union, Russia, former Yugoslavia, Turkish communities in West Germany, Italy and Cuba as a comparative point of reference. It provides a theoretical frame and overview, chapters on several important gender and generation narratives about communism, anticommunism and postcommunism. Its starting point is the belief that although methodological reflection on communism as well as on generations and gender is conducted extensively in contemporary research, the overlapping of these three terms is still rare. The main focus in the first part is on methodological issues. The second part features studies which depict the possibility of generational/gender interpretations of history. The third part is informed by biographical perspectives. The last part shows how the problem of generations and gender is staged via the medium of literature and how it can be narrated.

A History of Yugoslavia Marie-Janine Calic, 2019-02-15. Why did Yugoslavia fall apart? Was its violent demise inevitable? Did its population simply fall victim to the lure of nationalism? How did this multinational state survive for so long and where do we situate the short life of Yugoslavia in the long history of Europe in the twentieth century? A History of Yugoslavia provides a concise, accessible, comprehensive synthesis of the political, cultural, social and economic life of Yugoslavia from its nineteenth-century South Slavic origins to the bloody demise of the multinational state of Yugoslavia in the 1990s. Calic takes a fresh and innovative look at the colorful, multifaceted and complex history of Yugoslavia, emphasizing major social, economic and intellectual changes from the turn of the twentieth century and the transition to modern industrialized mass society. She traces the origins of ethnic, religious and cultural divisions, applying the latest social science approaches and drawing on the breadth of recent state-of-the-art literature to present a balanced interpretation of events that takes into account the differing perceptions and interests of the actors involved. Uniquely, Calic frames the history of Yugoslavia for readers as an essentially open ended process undertaken from a variety of different regional perspectives with varied composite agenda She shuns traditional deterministic explanations that notorious Balkan hatreds or any other kind of exceptionalism are to blame for Yugoslavia s demise and along the way she highlights the agency of twentieth century modern mass society in the politicization of differences While analyzing nuanced political and social economic processes Calic describes the experiences and emotions of ordinary people in a vivid way As a result her groundbreaking work provides scholars and learned readers alike with an accessible trenchant and authoritative introduction to Yugoslavia s complex history

Feminist Challenge to the Socialist State in Yugoslavia Zsófia Lóránd, 2018-09-27 This book tells the story of new Yugoslav feminism in the 1970s and 1980s reassessing the effects of state socialism on women's emancipation through the lens of the feminist critique This volume explores the history of the ideas defining a social movement analysing the major debates and arguments this milieu engaged in from the perspective of the history of political thought intellectual history and cultural history Twenty five years after the end of the Cold War societies in and scholars of East Central Europe still struggle to sort out the effects of state socialism on gender relations in the region What could tell us more about the subject than the ideas set out by the only organised and explicitly feminist opposition in the region who as academics artists writers and activists criticised the regime and demanded change Post-Yugoslav Metamuseums Nataša Jagdhuhn, 2022-09-20 This book analyzes how Second World War heritage is being reframed in the memorial museums of the post socialist post conflict states of Croatia Bosnia and Herzegovina and Serbia It argues that in all three countries a reluctance to confront undesirable parts of their national histories is the root cause explaining why the state funded Second World War memorial museums remain stuck in the postsocialist transition In most cases Second World War museums exhibitions and displays conceived in the Yugoslav period have been left unchanged However there are also examples where new sections were added to the old ones and there are a small number of completely reconceptualized permanent exhibitions The transitional position of the Second World War museums has made it possible to view these institutions as historical formations in their own right The book will appeal to students and academics working in the fields of heritage and museums studies memory studies and cultural history of Southeast Europe Gender in Twentieth-Century Eastern Europe and the USSR Catherine Festivals as Reparative Gender Politics Zorica Siročić, 2023-08-18 What explains the popularity and widespread appeal of numerous post Yugoslav feminist and LGBTQ festivals in the last decade This book argues that the millennial generation expresses reparative politics as a distinct type of activism through festivals Reparative political acting as identified here characteristically relies on playfulness and creativity interpretative gender dissent acceptance of organizational and programmatic messiness and hybridity belonging and positive affect The reparative politics is vital in a context that is marked by an individual and collective trauma of heteropatriarchy violent breakdown of the common state and post transitional economic precarity The book uses excerpts from programs interviews and observations collected through the multi sited ethnographic research Siro i s focus on contemporary activism in Southeastern Europe challenges the narrow geopolitical understanding of the recent feminist politics and refutes the common assumptions of a passive millennial generation Yet the book s relevance surpasses its area of study as it argues against the popular deriding of activist expressions as the merely cultural or merely aesthetic engagement In contrast the book claims that such activities urge a redefined understanding of political agency Festivals as Reparative Politics demonstrates that contemporary feminist festivals represent a distinct reformulation of contentious politics of gender whose constitutive principles can be exemplary for other types of political engagements
