The Virtual Life of Film D. N. Rodowick, 2007-10-30 With the likely disappearance of celluloid film stock as a medium and the emergence of new media what will happen to cinema and to cinema studies Rodowick considers the fate of film and its role in the aesthetics and culture of the twenty first century

The Virtual Life of Film D. N. RODOWICK, David Norman Rodowick, 2009-06-30 As almost every aspect of making and viewing movies is replaced by digital technologies even the notion of watching a film is fast becoming an anachronism With the likely disappearance of celluloid film stock as a medium and the emergence of new media what will happen to cinema and to cinema studies In the first of two books exploring this question Rodowick considers the fate of film and its role in the aesthetics and culture of the twenty first century

Learning the Virtual Life Peter Pericles Trifonas, 2012-04-23 Learning the Virtual Life offers ways to consider the local and global effects of digital media on educational environments as well as the cultural transformations of how we now define learning and literacy

Soul of the Documentary Ilona Hongisto, 2025-10-01 Soul of the Documentary offers a groundbreaking new approach to documentary cinema Ilona Hongisto stirs current thinking by suggesting that the work of documentary films is not reducible to representing what already exists By close reading a diverse body of films from The Last Bolshevik to Grey Gardens Hongisto shows how documentary cinema intervenes in the real by framing it and creatively contributes to its perpetual unfolding The emphasis on framing brings new urgency to the documentary tradition and its objectives and provokes significant novel possibilities for thinking about the documentary's ethical and political potentials in the contemporary world

The Orientation of Future Cinema Bruce Isaacs, 2013-02-14 What is the fate of cinema in an age of new technologies new aesthetic styles new modes of cultural production and consumption What becomes of cinema and a century long history of the moving image when the theatre is outmoded as a social and aesthetic space as celluloid gives over to digital technology as the art house and multiplex are overtaken by a proliferation of home entertainment systems The Orientation of Future Cinema offers an ambitious and compelling argument for the continued life of cinema as image narrative and experience Commencing with Lumière's Arrival of a Train at a Station Bruce Isaacs confronts the threat of contemporary digital technologies and processes by returning to cinema's complex history as a technological and industrial phenomenon The technology of moving images has profoundly changed and yet cinema materialises ever more forcefully in digital capture and augmentation 3 D perception and affect High Frame Rate cinema and the evolution of spectacle as the dominant aesthetic mode in contemporary studio production

Flickers of Film Jason Sperb, 2015-12-15 Whether paying tribute to silent films in Hugo and The Artist or celebrating arcade games in Tron Legacy and Wreck It Ralph Hollywood suddenly seems to be experiencing a wave of intense nostalgia for outmoded technologies To what extent is that a sincere lament for modes of artistic production that have nearly vanished in an all digital era And to what extent is it simply a cynical marketing ploy built on the notion that nostalgia has always been one of Hollywood's top selling products In Flickers of Film Jason Sperb offers nuanced and unexpected answers to these questions examining the benefits of certain types of film nostalgia while also critiquing how Hollywood's nostalgic representations of old technologies obscure important aspects of their histories. He interprets this affection for the prehistory and infancy of digital technologies in relation to an industry-wide anxiety about how the digital has grown to dominate Hollywood, pushing it into an uncertain creative and economic future. Yet he also suggests that Hollywood's nostalgia for old technologies ignores the professionals who once employed them as well as the labor opportunities that have been lost through the computerization and outsourcing of film industry jobs. Though it deals with nostalgia, Flickers of Film is strikingly cutting-edge; one of the first studies to critically examine Pixar's role in the film industry, cinematic representations of videogames, and the economic effects of participatory culture. As he takes in everything from Terminator Salvation to The Lego Movie, Sperb helps us see what's distinct about this recent wave of self-aware nostalgic films: how Hollywood nostalgia today isn't what it used to be.

The Virtual Life of Fizzy Oceans David A. Ross, 2011-01-02 Fizzy Oceans lives, works, and travels in the virtual world where the dead are very much alive; places like ancient Babylon have been reconstructed, and with the click of a button WHOOSH one is transported throughout the Ages to events and destinations that make up our human history.

Elegy for Theory D. N. Rodowick, 2014-01-06 Rhetorically charged debates over theory have divided humanities scholars for decades. Rodowick steps back from arguments pro and con to assess why theory has become such a deeply contested concept. Far from lobbying for a return to the high theory of the 1980s, he calls for dialogue on an ethically inflected philosophy of the humanities.

My Virtual Life Jack Fitzgerald, 2022-02-17 My take on life is that it's a giant hors d'oeuvres tray, and my approach is to have a taste of everything. Jack Fitzgerald is the author of several books and has produced many stage plays. He recently turned 89 and, in spite of failing eyesight, decided to write one last book. It had to be unique and different. Fitzgerald's book consists of forty-two emails. They are replies to phone calls, greeting cards, and emails, none of which are in the book. What you do see though are forty-two email replies from Jack to these friends, relatives, and his readers. These emails build a matrix that in many ways is like a puzzle. From each email, you will glean certain information about Jack's life. As you proceed through the book, you will get more and more droplets of information. By the time you finish email forty-two, you will have a rather complete autobiography of Jack's life. So for once, you can have unusual fun reading someone's emails and clues to their life, lessons, and experiences. So get started at once on this email puzzle and begin collecting virtual autobiographical clues. Have fun on your very first virtual autobiographical puzzle.

Archival Film Curatorship Grazia Ingravalle, 2025-10-01 Archival Film Curatorship is the first book-length study that investigates film archives at the intersection of institutional histories, early and silent film historiography, and archival curatorship. It examines three institutions at the forefront of experimentation with film exhibition and curatorship: The Eye Film Museum in Amsterdam, the George Eastman Museum in Rochester, NY, and the National Fairground and Circus Archive in Sheffield, UK. These serve as exemplary sites of historical mediation between early and silent cinema and the digital age A range of elements from preservation protocols to technologies of display and from museum architectures to curatorial discourses in blogs catalogs and interviews shape what the author innovatively theorizes as the archive's hermeneutic dispositif Archival Film Curatorship offers film and preservation scholars a unique take on the shifting definitions histories and uses of the medium of film by those tasked with preserving and presenting it to new digital age audiences

This Virtual Life Andrew Evans, 2001 As the media becomes more sophisticated and lifelike we spend more and more time in front of television screens Distinguished psychologist Andrew Evans examines this warping of reality and asks where such a path will lead us the 21st century presents serious challenges to us all However our children are growing up thinking the world can be saved by super heroes crashed planes start again at the flick of a switch and people come back to life for the next round The author looks at the effects of this distortion of reality maybe our need to escape the boredom and routine of every day life is being exploited by the companies who make money by selling us fantasy and simulation From humour and comedy to science fiction and computer games Evans examines the variety of distractions available to take our minds off the daily grind But how does this new media affect today's children What will be their future tomorrow And have we become so reliant on escapist fantasy that reality can no longer be faced

Dying in a Transhumanist and Posthuman Society Panagiotis Pentaris, 2021-11-25 Exploring both the intrapersonal moral and interpersonal ethical nature of death and dying in the context of their development philosophical Dying in a Transhumanist and Posthuman Society shows how death and dying have been and will continue to be governed in any given society Drawing on transhumanism and discourses about posthumanity life prolongation and digital life the book analyses death dying and grief via the governance of dying It states that the bio medical dimensions of our understanding of death and dying have predominated not only the discourses about death in society and the care of the dying but their policy and practice as well It seeks to provoke thinking beyond the benefits of technology and within the confinements of the world transhumanists describe This book is written for all who have an interest in thanatology i.e. death studies but will be useful specifically to those investigating the experiences of dying and grieving in contemporary societies wherein technology biology and medicine continuously advance Thus the manuscript will be of interest to researchers in a broad range of areas including health and social care social policy anthropology sociology philosophy cultural studies and of course thanatology
