The Whole World Is Watching:

The Whole World is Watching Todd Gitlin, 1980 New preface for this classic of media studies One of the founders of SDS describes the response of the various news organizations and arrives at the way the New Left came to be characterized

The Whole World is Watching Todd Gitlin, Professor of Culture Journalism and Sociology Todd Gitlin, 1980-01-01 The whole world is watching chanted the demonstrators in the Chicago streets in 1968 as the TV cameras beamed images of police cracking heads into homes everywhere Acclaimed media critic Todd Gitlin first scrutinizes major news coverage in the early days of the antiwar movement Drawing on his own experiences he was president of the Students for a Democratic Society in 1963 64 and on interviews with key activists and news reporters he shows in detail how the media first ignore new political developments then select and emphasize aspects of the story that treat movements as oddities He then demonstrates how the media glare made leaders into celebrities and estranged them from their movement base how it inflated the importance of revolutionary rhetoric destabilizing the movement then promoted moderate alternatives all the while spreading the antiwar message Finally Gitlin draws together a theory of news coverage as a form of anti democratic social management which he sees at work also in media treatment of the anti nuclear and other later movements Publisher description

The WholeWorld is Texting Irving Epstein, 2015-06-26 The authors of this volume address multiple questions involving the nature of youth protest in the twenty first century Through their use of a case study approach they comment upon the ways in which youth protest has been influenced by the electronic and social media and evaluate the effectiveness of protest activities many of which were framed in reaction to neo liberalism and state authoritarianism A number of the authors further comment upon the utility of employing social movement theory to analyze the nature and character of protest actions while others situate such events within specific political social and cultural contexts The case studies focus upon protest activities in Bahrain Turkey Iran Cambodia South Africa China Russia Chile Spain and the U S and together they offer a comparative analysis of an important global phenomenon In so doing the authors further address issues involving the changing nature of globalized protest participation its immediate and long term consequences and the ways in which protests have encouraged a re evaluation of the nature of inequality as constructed within educational social and political spheres
