Hillis, 2012 For sample chapters a video interview with David Hillis and more information visit www.whfreeman.com/hillispreview Sinauer Associates and W H Freeman are proud to introduce Principles of Life Written in the spirit of the reform movement that is reinvigorating the introductory majors course Principles of Life cuts through the thicket of excessive detail and factual minutiae to focus on what matters most in the study of biology today Students explore the most essential biological ideas and information in the context of the field s defining experiments and are actively engaged in analyzing research data The result is a textbook that is hundreds of pages shorter and significantly less expensive than the current majors introductory books      Undergraduate Mathematics for the Life Sciences Glenn Ledder, Jenna P. Carpenter, Timothy D. Comar, 2013 There is a gap between the extensive mathematics background that is beneficial to biologists and the minimal mathematics background biology students acquire in their courses The result is an undergraduate education in biology with very little quantitative content New mathematics courses must be devised with the needs of biology students in mind In this volume authors from a variety of institutions address some of the problems involved in reforming mathematics curricula for biology students The problems are sorted into three themes Models Processes and Directions It is difficult for mathematicians to generate curriculum ideas for the training of biologists so a number of the curriculum models that have been introduced at various institutions comprise the Models section Processes deals with taking that great course and making sure it is institutionalized in both the biology department as a requirement and in the mathematics department as a course that will live on even if the creator of the course is no longer on the faculty Directions looks to the future with each paper laying out a case for pedagogical developments that the authors would like to see      Guide to Literature of Home and Family Life Annie Robertson Dyer, 1924      Chemistry and Life John William Hill, Dorothy M.
