Going to University Case, Jennifer, Marshall, Delia, 2018-02-09 Around the world more young people than ever before are attending university Student numbers in South Africa have doubled since democracy and for many families higher education is a route to a better future for their children But alongside the overwhelming demand for higher education questions about its purposes have intensified Deliberations about the curriculum culture and costing of public higher education abound from student activists academics parents civil society and policy makers We know from macro research that South African graduates generally have good employment prospects But little is known at a detailed level about how young people actually make use of their university experiences to craft their life courses And even less is known about what happens to those who drop out This accessible book brings together the rich life stories of 73 young people six years after they began their university studies It traces how going to university influences not only their employment options but also nurtures the agency needed to chart their own way and to engage critically with the world around them The book offers deep insights into the ways in which public higher education is both a private and public good and it provides significant conclusions pertinent to anyone who works in and cares about universities Going to University. The Influence of Higher Education on the Lives of Young South Africans Jennifer Case, Delia Marshall, 2018-02-09 Around the world more young people than ever before are attending university Student numbers in South Africa have doubled since democracy and for many families higher education is a route to a better future for their children But alongside the overwhelming demand for higher education questions about its purposes have intensified Deliberations about the curriculum culture and costing of public higher education abound from student activists academics parents civil society and policy makers We know from macro research that South African graduates generally have good employment prospects But little is known at a detailed level about how young people actually make use of their university experiences to craft their life courses And even less is known about what happens to those who drop out This accessible book brings together the rich life stories of 73 young people six years after they began their university studies It traces how going to university influences not only their employment options but also nurtures the agency needed to chart their own way and to engage critically with the world around them The book offers deep insights into the ways in which public higher education is both a private and public good and it provides significant conclusions pertinent to anyone who works in and cares about universities Research Methods for Educational Leadership and Management Musundire, Austin, 2025-05-13 Various research methods including action case study and experimental research can be tailored for educational leadership and management Different research designs data collection techniques and data analysis methods have differing strengths weaknesses and challenges As a result it is crucial to develop the skills and confidence needed to conduct high quality research Developing a deeper understanding of how to conduct rigorous research may consequently foster more effective and innovative research leading to improved educational policies practices and outcomes Research Methods for Educational Leadership and Management illustrates how these methods can be effectively applied to address issues in educational leadership and management It promotes best practices in educational research by highlighting ethical considerations addressing common challenges and providing strategies for overcoming these obstacles Covering topics such as equity employment practices high performance culture and professional competencies this book is an excellent resource for educational leaders school managers school administrators policymakers researchers professionals scholars academicians and more Low-Income Students, Human Development and Higher Education in South Africa Melanie Walker, Monica McLean, 2022-07-15 This book explores learning outcomes for low income rural and township youth at five South African universities The book is framed as a contribution to southern and Africa centred scholarship adapting Amartya Sen s capability approach and a framework of key concepts capabilities functionings context conversion factors poverty and agency to investigate opportunities and obstacles to achieved student outcomes This approach allows a reimagining of inclusive learning outcomes to encompass the multi dimensional value of a university education and a plurality of valued cognitive and non cognitive outcomes for students from low income backgrounds whose experiences are strongly shaped by hardship Based on capability theorising and student voices the book proposes for policy and practice a set of contextual higher education capability domains and corresponding functionings orientated to more justice and more equality for each person to have the opportunities to be and to do what they have reason to value The book concludes that sufficient material resources are necessary to get into university and flourish while there the benefits of a university education should be rich and multi dimensional so that they can result in functionings in all areas of life as well as work and future study the inequalities and exclusion of the labour market and pathways to further study must be addressed by wider economic and social policies for inclusive learning outcomes to be meaningful and that universities ought to be doing more to enable black working class students to participate and succeed Low Income Students Human Development and Higher Education in South Africa makes an original contribution to capabilitarian scholarship conceptually in theorising a South based multi dimensional student well being higher education matrix and a rich reconceptualisation of learning outcomes as well as empirically by conducting rigorous longitudinal in depth mixed methods research on students lives and experiences in higher education in South Africa The audience for the book includes higher education researchers international capabilitarian scholars practitioners and policy makers Nematology in South Africa: A View from the 21st Century Hendrika Fourie,Vaughan W. Spaul,Robin K. Jones,Mieke S. Daneel,Dirk De Waele,2017-02-28 This unique book contains not only a comprehensive up to date summary of the achievements made in all areas of Nematology in South Africa over more than half a century but it also combines this rather technical part with an insiders narrative of how Nematology started and developed It also demonstrates how the South African community of nematologists gradually adapted to major changes in agriculture These were due to a major political shift followed by socio economic changes and this in an often challenging natural environment At the same time this book is conceived as a useful source for young scientists to provide them with practical knowledge and critical insight in the field of Nematology The information given is based primarily on research conducted by nematologists in South Africa Most of this research was aimed at finding workable solutions for nematological problems confronted by both large scale commercial producers and smallholding farmers During a period when funding for scientific research is becoming increasingly scarce the future demand and quest for practical solutions by applied research will only increase Rural Transitions to Higher Education in South Africa Sue Timmis,Thea de Wet,Kibashini Naidoo,Sheila Trahar,Lisa Lucas,Emmanuel Mfanafuthi Mgwashu,Patricia Muhuro,Gina Wisker,2021-09-14 This unique and timely book focuses on research conducted into the experiences of students from rural backgrounds in South Africa foregrounding decolonial perspectives on their negotiation of access and transitions to higher education This book highlights not only the challenges of coming from a rural background against the historical backdrop of apartheid and ongoing colonialism but also shows the immense assets that students from rural areas bring into higher education Through detailed narratives created by student co researchers the book charts early experiences in rural communities negotiations of transitions to university and in many cases to urban life and students subsequent journeys through higher education spaces and curricula The book will be of significant interest and value to those engaged in rurality research across diverse settings those interested in the South African higher education context and higher education more widely Its innovative participatory methodology will be invaluable to researchers seeking to conduct collaborative research that draws on decolonising approaches
