Unspun Community Lists Ranked:

Unspun Jonathan Leblang, 2008-12-25 We developed the unspun.com website because we saw that existing methods for community collaboration on the Web weren't good at consensus rankings. If you do a search for sexiest movies you might find sites that have lists of sexiest movies but each will be the opinion of the individual author. Wikis don't support consensus rankings. Imagine a large group of people editing and re-editing a wiki that purporting to rank the list of sexiest movies. It wouldn't work; they'd step on each other. So that's the niche that UnSpun filled. UnSpun provides the right amount of structure to see the community consensus on what's the best or the worst, the scariest or the funniest, the tastiest or the dumbest. The UnSpun site was up from 2006 to 2008. During that time over 20,000 different lists with over 500,000 items were created, ranked, and debated. This book contains the 250 most popular, interesting, and fun lists from the unspun.com website.

Unspun Thomas Swiss, 2000 Visit the Unspun website which includes Table of Contents and the Introduction. The World Wide Web has cut a wide path through our daily lives. As claims of the Web change everything, suffuse print media, television, movies, and even presidential campaign speeches, just how thoroughly do the users immersed in this new technology understand it? What exactly is the Web changing? And how might we participate in or even direct Web-related change? Intended for readers new to studying the Internet, each chapter in Unspun addresses a different aspect of the web revolution: hypertext, multimedia, authorship, community governance, identity, gender, race, cyberspace, political economy, and ideology as it shapes and is shaped by economic, political, social, and cultural forces. The contributors particularly focus on the language of the Web, exploring concepts that are still emerging and therefore unstable and in flux. Unspun demonstrates how the tacit assumptions behind this rhetoric must be examined if we want to really know what we are saying when we talk about the Web. Unspun will help readers more fully understand and become critically aware of the issues involved in living as we do in a wired society. Contributors include Jay Bolter, Sean Cubitt, Jodi Dean, Dawn Dietrich, Cynthia Fuchs, Matthew Kirschenbaum, Timothy Luke, Vincent Mosco, Lisa Nakamura, Russell Potter, Rob Shields, John Sloop, and Joseph Tabbi. The New York Times Magazine, 2008.
