National Security Review of Foreign Investment Cheng Bian, 2020-03-19 In recent years China the US and the EU and its Member States have either promulgated new national laws and regulations or drastically revised existing ones to exert more rigorous government control over inward foreign direct investment FDI Such government control pertains to the establishment of an ex ante review regime of FDI in the host state in sectors that are considered as sensitive or strategic with an aim to mitigate the security related implications This book conducts a systematic and up to date comparative study of the national security review regimes of China the US and the EU using Germany as an exemplifying Member State It answers a central research question of how domestic law should be formulated to adequately protect national security of the host state whilst posing minimum negative impacts to the free flow of cross border investment In addition to analyzing the latest development of the national security review regimes in aforementioned jurisdictions and identifying their commonalities and disparities this book establishes a normative framework regarding the design of a national security review regime in general and proposes specific legislative recommendations to further clarify the law This book will be of interest to scholars in the field of international and comparative investment law investors who seek better compliance programs in the host state and policymakers who aim for high quality regulation on foreign investment

Foreign Direct Investment in the United States: Benefits, Suspensions, and Risks with Special Attention to FDI from China Theodore H. Moran, Lindsay Oldenski, 2013-09-01 Americans have long been ambivalent toward foreign direct investment in the United States Foreign multinational corporations may be a source of capital technology and jobs But what are the implications for US workers firms communities and consumers as the United States remains the most popular destination for foreign multinational investment Theodore H Moran and Lindsay Oldenski find that foreign multinational firms that invest in the United States are alongside

US headquartered American multinationals the most productive and highest paying segment of the US economy These firms conduct more research and development provide more value added to US domestic inputs and export more goods and services than other firms in the US economy The superior technology and management techniques they employ spill over horizontally and vertically to improve the performance of local firms and workers As the United States wants not only to expand employment but also create well paying jobs that reverse the falling earnings that many US workers and middle class families have suffered in recent decades it is more important than ever to enhance the United States as a destination for multinational investors

Foreign Investment and National Security: Economic Considerations ,2008 In particular some Members argue that greater consideration must be given to the long term impact of foreign direct investment on the structure and the industrial capacity of the economy and on the ability of the economy to meet the needs of U S defense and security interests In particular these concerns have centered around the impact of such investments on the structure and the industrial capacity of the economy and on the ability of the economy to meet the needs of U S defense and security interests including a terrorist attack According to the Department of Commerce investment spending through 2008 increased as a result the acquisition of U S firms and a substantial strengthening the net equity position of foreign owned firms 4 The majority of investments were in the manufacturing sector investments also rose in the information sector and in the finance sector In turn the OECD concluded that the generality of the restrictions is due to four issues 1 the nature of the security threats may affect perceived threats and vulnerabilities 2 the assessment of the threats may be affected by the nationality of the foreign investor 3 some perceived threats may be resolved easily through mitigation efforts while others may not and 4 not all countries have The act established that the Strategic Materials Protection Board would be composed of representatives from the Secretary of Defense the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition Technology and Logistics the Under Secretary of Defense for Intelligence the Secretary of the Army the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of the Air Force

China and US Foreign Investment Laws and Practices Liu Ziyu,2024-11-08 The book is a comparative study of the national security review of foreign investment laws in China and the US The author establishes a theoretical framework to explain the dominant role of ideas on national security and foreign investment rooted in China and the US as well as the oriented role of China US investment interaction She concludes that it is difficult for China and the US to reach a consensus on national security review due to their different internal ideas on national security and foreign investment By comparing the similarities and differences in the development of national security review in China and the US she also proposes a feasible approach to facilitate bilateral investment practices The book will attract scholars of international economic law investment law and Sino US relations
