Democracy and Trade Policy in Developing Countries Bumba Mukherjee, 2016-06-17 Since the 1970s two major trends have emerged among developing countries the rise of new democracies and the rush to free trade For some the confluence of these events suggests that a free market economy complements a fledgling democracy Others argue that the two are inherently incompatible and that exposure to economic globalization actually jeopardizes new democracies Which view is correct Bumba Mukherjee argues that the reality of how democracy and trade policy unravel in developing countries is more nuanced than either account Mukherjee offers the first comprehensive cross national framework for identifying the specific economic conditions that influence trade policy in developing countries Laying out the causes of variation in trade policy in four developing or recently developed countries Brazil India Indonesia and South Africa he argues persuasively that changing political interactions among parties party leaders and the labor market are often key to trade policy outcome For instance if workers are in a position to benefit from opening up to trade party leaders in turn support trade reforms by decreasing tariffs and other trade barriers At a time when discussions about the stability of new democracies are at the forefront Democracy and Trade Policy in Developing Countries provides invaluable insight into the conditions needed for a democracy to survive in the developing world in the context of globalization

Challenges for the Democratisation Process in Tanzania Jonas Ewald,2013-07-24 Tanzania has been independent in 2011 for 50 years While most neighbouring states have gone through violent conflicts Tanzania has managed to implement extensive reforms without armed political conflicts Hence Tanzania is an interesting case for Peace and Development research This dissertation analyses the political development in Tanzania since the introduction of the multiparty system in 1992 with a focus on the challenges for the democratisation process in connection with the 2000 and 2005 elections The question of to what extent Tanzania had moved towards a consolidation of democracy is analysed by looking at nine different institutions of importance for democratisation grouped in four spheres the state the political civil and economic society Focus is on the development of the political society and the role of the opposition in particular The analysis is based on secondary and primary material collected between September 2000 to April 2010 The main conclusion is that even if the institutions of liberal democracy have gradually developed in practice single party rule has continued manifested in the 2005 election when the CCM won 92% of seats Despite impressive economic growth poverty remains deep and has not been substantially reduced On a theoretical level this brings the old debate between liberal and substantive democracy back to the fore Neither the economic nor the political reforms have brought about a transformation of the political and economic system resulting in the poor majority gaining substantially more political influence and improved economic conditions Hence it is argued that the interface between the economic political and administrative reforms has not been sufficiently considered in the liberal democratic tradition Liberal democracy is necessary for a democratic development but not sufficient for democracy to be consolidated For that a substantive democratic development is necessary

Capital Flows Without Crisis? Dipak

Dasgupta, Marc Uzan, Dominic Wilson, 2013-01-11 The last decade has seen a massive increase in international capital flows to emerging markets. This development has offered opportunities to those countries that have opened themselves up to overseas capital, but it has also created risks. In this volume, a team of policymakers and academics from 14 different countries, as well as representatives of the international financial institutions primarily responsible for responding to the crises, examine the challenges and options facing policymakers today. The book includes both detailed analysis of individual economies from around the world and in-depth analysis of the broad systemic issues of why crises occur and how we can prevent them. By looking at economies from many different parts of the world, the book provides a broad and comprehensive look at the similarities and differences in recent financial crises.

Human rights in diverse education contexts J.P.

Rossouw, Elda de Waal, Johan Beckmann, Johan Botha, Franciska Bothma, André du Plessis, Elize Küng, Nicholas Mollo, Ewelina Niemczyk, Louise Postma, Erika Serfontein, Marius Smit, Charl C. Wolhuter, 2019-12-12 The focus of this publication is on answering the central research question: How can Human Rights be advanced with regard to different kinds of diversities and in different educational settings? One strategic priority of the Faculty of Education is research based on market requirements and needs. This book strives towards meeting this expectation by directly aiming at building human rights and social justice in the South African society: public schools and higher education institutions. Adjudication in the education context of the constitutional values of dignity, equality, and freedom focusses regularly on learners. The book highlights the value of education for full
