The World To Come A Novel:

The World to Come Dara Horn, 2006 A million dollar Chagall painting is stolen during a singles event at a New York museum The painting has an unusual history and now there is an unlikely thief Benjamin Ziskind a lonely former child prodigy who now writes questions for TV shows and who believes the painting once belonged to his family Benjamin's moment of apparent madness in stealing the painting is just one such moment in a web of riveting stories For him for his family and for Chagall life is a breathtaking collision course of past present and future and the world to come starts right now

The Subject of Holocaust Fiction Emily Miller Budick, 2015-05-20 Fictional representations of horrific events run the risk of undercutting efforts to verify historical knowledge and may heighten our ability to respond intellectually and ethically to human experiences of devastation In this captivating study of the epistemological psychological and ethical issues underlying Holocaust fiction Emily Miller Budick examines the subjective experiences of fantasy projection and repression manifested in Holocaust fiction and in the reader's encounter with it Considering works by Cynthia Ozick Art Spiegelman Aharon Appelfeld Michael Chabon and others Budick investigates how the reading subject makes sense of these fictionalized presentations of memory and trauma victims and victimizers

The World to Come, 18?? The Life of the World to Come Joseph Bathanti, 2014-11-04 In a weaving together of contradictory realms past and present rustbelt city and rural urban South old world Catholicism and backwoods Protestantism Joseph Bathanti draws readers into the 1970s as protagonist George Dolce faces major upheaval in The Life of the World to Come George aspires to leave his blue collar Catholic neighborhood of East Liberty in Pittsburgh He is on the cusp of graduation from college and headed for law school when he becomes entangled in a local gambling ring After his father gets laid off at the steel mill George dramatically increases his wagering to help his parents with finances What's more he allows his boss at his real job and love interest's father a pharmacist named Phil Rosechild to place bets through him with the gambling ring's volatile kingpin As his parents' financial situation deteriorates George delves deeper into gambling and he even goes so far as to set up Phil by using the pharmacist's unschooled and ever growing betting practices to his own end cheating the father of the woman he loves When Phil welves on a large bet that George has placed for him George finds himself in life threatening trouble and must abandon his law school dreams He robs the pharmacy steals the delivery car and flees south After his stolen car breaks down in Queen North Carolina he meets a young mysterious woman known as Crow The two form a bond and eventually take to the road in an attempt to reconcile their harrowing often surreal destiny and to escape George's inevitable punishment

Neo-Victorian Lesbians on Screen Sarah E. Maier, Rachel M. Friars, 2025-09-09 In Neo Victorian Lesbians on Screen Maier and Friars argue that the on screen portrayal of lesbians situated in the long nineteenth century across various countries is at the very least a dual task the imperative project of revoicing lesbian silence and female companionship is complicated by the lack of and/or complex representation of such women in the past The adaptations with varying degrees of success carefully manipulate the gaze of the viewer to illustrate both how crucial the act of looking proves to be for lesbian attachment in these films and how the viewer's own gaze changes the way the lesbian is represented Maier and Friars consider the adaptations awareness of the audience and the ways in which the films implicitly acknowledge the stakes behind bringing the lesbian to life as it were in visual media Because screen adaptations disrupt historical distance by literally picturing Victorian subjects via a medium they did not have film adaptations of novels and biofictions and original screenplays are challenged by the lesbian subject's vivid presence on screen The lesbian is no longer a contained neo Victorian presence in the othered nineteenth century but her very existence on screen signals her effervescent modernity which filmmakers alternately embrace or reject

Holocaust Narratives Thorsten Wilhelm,2020-06-09 Holocaust Narratives Trauma Memory and Identity Across Generations analyzes individual multi generational frameworks of Holocaust trauma to answer one essential question How do these narratives change to not only transmit the trauma of the Holocaust and in the process add meaning to what is inherently an event that annihilates meaning but also construct the trauma as a connector to a past that needs to be continued in the present Meaningless or not unspeakable or not unknowable or not the trauma in all its impossibilities and intractabilities spawns literary and scholarly engagement on a large scale Narrative is the key connector that structures trauma for both individual and collective New Directions in Jewish American and Holocaust Literatures Victoria
