Levitt, Stephen J. Dubner, 2015-05-05 Why don't flight attendants get tipped If you were a terrorist how would you attack And why does KFC always run out of fried chicken Over the past decade Steven D. Dubner the quirky geniuses behind Freakonomics SuperFreakonomics and Think Like a Freak are back at it For the last ten years they've used the tools of economics to answer some of our most unanswerable questions on the Freakonomics.com blog Here for the first time the very best of their more than 8 000 posts are together in a single place We learn why it's so hard to predict the Kentucky Derby why babies born in summer tend to score lower on standardized tests and why rich people tend to be happier than poor people but rich countries no happier than poor ones When to Rob a Bank showcases the brilliance that has made Levitt and Dubner an international sensation and the eloquence and wit that has always made them such a joy to read

The Best Way to Rob a Bank is to Own One William K. Black, 2013-12-06 An investigator tells the inside story of the 1980s savings and loan scandal and what we can do today to prevent future frauds Merits a wide readership Journal of Economic Issues In this expert insider's account of the savings and loan debacle of the 1980s William Black lays bare the strategies that corrupt CEOs and CFOs in collusion with those who have regulatory oversight of their industries use to defraud companies for their personal gain Recounting the investigations he conducted as Director of Litigation for the Federal Home Loan Bank Board Black fully reveals how Charles Keating and hundreds of other S L owners took advantage of a weak regulatory environment to perpetrate accounting fraud on a massive scale In the new afterword he also authoritatively links the S L crash to the business failures of 2008 and beyond showing how CEOs then and now are using the same tactics to defeat regulatory restraints and commit the same types of destructive fraud Black uses the latest advances in criminology and economics to develop a theory of why control fraud looting a company for personal profit tends to occur in waves that make financial markets deeply inefficient He also explains how to prevent such waves Throughout the book Black drives home the larger point that control fraud is a major ongoing threat in business that requires active independent regulators to contain it His book is a wake up call for everyone who believes that market forces alone will keep companies and their owners honest Bill Black has detailed an alarming story about financial and political corruption Paul Volcker Persons interested in the economics of fraud the S L debacle the problems of financial regulation and microeconomics more broadly will find this book to be very important Journal of Economic Issues

Biopolitics After Neuroscience Jeffrey P. Bishop, M. Therese Lysaught, Andrew A. Michel, 2022-05-19

This book offers a provocative analysis of the neuroscience of morality Written by three leading scholars of science medicine and bioethics it critiques contemporary neuroscientific claims about individual morality and notions of good and evil Winner of a 2021 prize from the Expanded Reason Institute it connects moral philosophy to neoliberal economics and successfully challenges the idea that we can locate morality in the brain Instead of discovering the source of morality in the brain as they claim to do the popularizers of contemporary neuroscience are shown to participate in an understanding of human behavior that serves the vested interests of contemporary political economy Providing evidence that the history of claims about morality and brain function reach back 400 years the authors locate its genesis in the beginnings of modern philosophy science and economics They further map this trajectory through the economic and moral theories of Francis Bacon David Hume Jeremy Bentham John Stuart Mill and the Chicago School of Economics to uncover a pervasive colonial anthropology at play in the neuroscience of morality today The book concludes with a call for a humbler and more constrained neuroscience informed by a more robust human anthropology that embraces the nobility beauty frailties and flaws in being human
