Where We Live And Die:

The Reality of Life Found in Christ Jesus Dirk A. Schnarr, 2024-10-22 This book is a short work on the life we are to have and live as true Christians It is not a how to book Rather it is a description of the kind of life the Scriptures promise us we can have if only we will surrender ourselves completely to the Lord It is not an exhaustive textbook It is an observation of the truth of the Scriptures with a longing to actually become the kind of people the Lord desires each of us to be It is a spiritual understanding that is presented as a reality of who we are supposed to be and how we are to live in this world There are no steps to follow but rather a life we are to receive by direct impartation from the Lord Here you will find a longing for the life of Christ to be manifested in our own lives as the Lord desires it to be May we all be challenged to allow Him to accomplish this in our lives

I See Men as Trees, Walking Bryan M. Christman, 2024-10-17 He took the blind man by the hand and when he had spit on his eyes and laid his hands on him he asked him Do you see anything He said I see men but they look like trees walking Then Jesus laid his hands on his eyes again and he saw everything clearly Mark's account of a blind man needing two healing touches from Jesus graphically depicts the stubborn blindness of his disciples Peter epitomized this blindness when he was tempted by the popular view that Jesus was the Rome conquering savior of Israel rather than the suffering Servant of God Also the disciples didn't understand that Jesus miraculously fed the famished crowds with a few loaves and fish to meet immediate need and provide leftover fragments of food for future need Salvation was pictured for all time Essentially Mark's Gospel gathered leftovers historical fragments of Jesus' life to convey God's salvation across history to those Kierkegaard called the follower at second hand Like Peter disciples and even the crowds are tempted to false salvations where self is lost But ironically persons only become a self by taking up their own cross enabled by Jesus' second touch

The Theologically Formed Heart Warner M. Bailey, Lee C. Barrett, James O. Duke, 2014-09-10 The Theologically Formed Heart invites the reader to consider the role of theology in the formation of virtues and passions and conversely the role of virtues and passions in understanding Scripture theology and living a Christian life The essays in this volume are offered in appreciation of the teaching scholarship and service to the church and world of Professor of Theology David J. Gouwens They are organized in three sections theological reflections Reformed theology in service to the church and studies in the thought of Søren Kierkegaard Four important issues are explored from multiple perspectives the Church's coming to terms with religious pluralism in mission inter religious dialogue theological education and ecclesial life the gospel's invitation to welcome communities of difference Reformed aesthetics in Calvin's rhetoric and in contemporary hymnody and Kierkegaard's contribution to theology and ecclesial practice The aims of the book go beyond academic confines Through reading the different essays a personality will emerge who illustrates a life of scholarship that yields itself gladly to the God made known in Jesus Christ Thus beyond imparting new information the book may inspire its readers to their own practice of theologically forming their hearts Enriching the Life Harish Chandra,2002 Commentary on the New Testament Robert H.
