Wild Animals I Have Known Annotated:

Wild Animals I Have Known Ernest Thompson Seton, 2017-11-16 The most precious book of my childhood Sir David Attenborough Meet Old Lobo a gigantic grey wolf whose death defying predations on sheep and cattle herds are the scourge of farmers and ranchers in the Currumpaw region of northern New Mexico This great wolf is just one of the animals whose true stories come to life in this engrossing collection of tales by the celebrated naturalist Ernest Thompson Seton 1860 1946 Combining scientific observations of animals in their natural habitats with a romantic vision of nature and the narrative skills of a born storyteller Seton created an extraordinary collection of tales that gave the animal story new force and believability as a literary genre Critically and popularly acclaimed upon its initial appearance in 1898 Wild Animals I Have Known remains more than a century later the best known and best loved of his works Each tale focuses on an individual creature the clever crow Silverspot Raggybug a young cottontail rabbit the author's errant hound Bingo Redruff a Don Valley partridge a wild horse known as The Mustang Vixen The Springfield Fox and Wully faithful sheep dog by day and treacherous killer by night Seton offers affectionate but realistic portraits of each animal stressing the commonality between his subjects and their human neighbours In addition to his popular wildlife stories the author is well known for his work as an illustrator and painter This edition faithfully reproduces the layout of the original volume as well as all 200 of the author's distinctive illustrations Animal lovers environmentalists naturalists and any reader who appreciates a lively yarn will cherish this memorable wildlife classic

WILD ANIMALS I HAVE KNOWN (Annotated) Ernest Thompson Seton, 2021-08-13 Old Lobo's band was but a small one This I never quite understood for usually when a wolf rises to the position and power that he had he attracts a numerous following It may be that he had as many as he desired or perhaps his ferocious temper prevented the increase of his pack Certain is it that Lobo had only five followers during the latter part of his reign Each of these however was a wolf of renown most of them were above the ordinary size one in particular the second in command was a veritable giant but even he was far below the leader in size and prowess Several of the band besides the two leaders were especially noted One of those was a beautiful white wolf that the Mexicans called Blanca this was supposed to be a female possibly Lobo's mate Another was a yellow wolf of remarkable swiftness which according to current stories had on several occasions captured an antelope for the pack

Wild Animals at Home (Annotated) Ernest Thompson Seton, 2015-11-13 My travels in search of light on the Animals at Home have taken me up and down the Rocky Mountains for nearly thirty years In the canyons from British Columbia to Mexico I have lighted my campfire far beyond the bounds of law and order at times and yet I have found no place more rewarding than the Yellowstone Park the great mountain haven of wild life American Law Reports Annotated ,1926 Annotated Cases, American and English ,1917 American and English Annotated Cases ,1917

The Story of Charlotte's Web Michael Sims, 2011-06-07 While composing what would become his most enduring and popular book E B White obeyed that oft repeated maxim Write what you know Helpless pigs silly geese clever spiders greedy rats White knew all of these characters in the barns and stables where he spent his favorite hours as a child and adult Painfully shy this boy White once wrote of himself felt for animals a kinship he never felt for people It s all the more impressive therefore how many people have felt a kinship with E B White Michael Sims chronicles White s animal rich childhood his writing about urban nature for the New Yorker his scientific research into how spiders spin webs and lay eggs his friendship with his legendary editor Ursula Nordstrom the composition and publication of his masterpiece and his ongoing quest to recapture an enchanted childhood An Introduction to Genetic Analysis Anthony J.F. Improving GIS-based Wildlife-Habitat Analysis Jeffrey K. Keller,Charles R. Smith,2014-10-01 Geographic Information Systems GIS provide a powerful tool for the investigation of species habitat relationships and the development of wildlife management and conservation programs However the relative ease of data manipulation and analysis using GIS associated landscape metrics packages and sophisticated statistical tests may sometimes cause investigators to overlook important species habitat functional relationships Additionally underlying assumptions of the study design or technology may have unrecognized consequences This volume examines how initial researcher choices of image resolution scale s of analysis response and explanatory variables and location and area of samples can influence analysis results interpretation predictive capability and study derived management prescriptions Overall most studies in this realm employ relatively low resolution imagery that allows neither identification nor accurate classification of habitat components Additionally the landscape metrics typically employed do not adequately quantify component spatial arrangement associated with species occupation To address this latter issue the authors introduce two novel landscape metrics that measure the functional size and location in the landscape of taxon specific solid and edge habitat types Keller and Smith conclude that investigators conducting GIS based analyses of species habitat relationships should more carefully 1 match the resolution of remotely sensed imagery to the scale of habitat functional relationships of the focal taxon 2 identify attributes explanatory variables of habitat architecture size configuration quality and context that reflect the way the focal taxon uses the subset of the landscape it occupies and 3 match the location and scale of habitat samples whether GIS or ground based to corresponding species detection locations and scales of habitat use Who's who in New York City and State Lewis Randolph Hamersly, John William Leonard, William Frederick Mohr, Herman Warren Knox, Frank R.
