Cosmopolitanism, Religion and the Public Sphere Maria Rovisco, Sebastian Kim, 2014-02-05 Although emerging scholarship in the social sciences suggests that religion can be a potential catalyst of cosmopolitanism and global citizenship few attempts have been made to bring to the fore new theoretical positions and empirical analyses of how cosmopolitanism as a philosophical notion a practice and identity outlook can also shape and inform concrete religious affiliations Key questions concerning the significance of cosmopolitan ideas and practices in relation to particular religious experiences and discourses remain to be explored both theoretically and empirically This book takes as its starting point the emergence of cosmopolitanism as a major interdisciplinary field as a springboard for generating a productive dialogue among scholars working within a variety of intellectual disciplines and methodological traditions The chapter contributions offer a serious attempt to critically engage both the limitations and possibilities of cosmopolitanism as an analytical and critical tool to understand a changing religious landscape in a globalizing world namely the so called new religious diversity religious conflict and issues of migration multiculturalism and transnationalism vis vis the public exercise of religion The contributors work is situated in a range of world sites in Africa

The Modern Spirit of Asia Peter van der Veer, 2013-10-27 A comparative look at religion and spirituality in postcolonial China and India The Modern Spirit of Asia challenges the notion that modernity in China and India are derivative imitations of the West arguing that these societies have transformed their ancient traditions in unique and distinctive ways Peter van der Veer begins with nineteenth century imperial history exploring how Western concepts of spirituality secularity religion and magic were used to translate the traditions of India and China He traces how modern Western notions of religion and magic were incorporated into the respective nation building projects of Chinese and Indian nationalist intellectuals yet how modernity in China and India is by no means uniform While religion is a centerpiece of Indian nationalism it is viewed in China as an obstacle to progress that must be marginalized and controlled The Modern Spirit of Asia moves deftly from Kandinsky's understanding of spirituality in art to Indian yoga and Chinese qi gong from modern theories of secularism to histories of Christian conversion from Orientalist constructions of religion to Chinese campaigns against magic and superstition and from Muslim Kashmir to Muslim Xinjiang Van der Veer an outspoken proponent of the importance of comparative studies of religion and society eloquently makes his case in this groundbreaking examination of the spiritual and the secular in China and India

Singapore, Spirituality, and the Space of the State Joanne Punzo Waghorne, 2020-03-19 This book examines spirituality in Singapore showing how important the city state is for understanding contemporary global configurations of urban space religion and spirituality Joanne Punzo Waghorne highlights how the formal religious spaces temples churches and mosques have been confined to allotted sites on the map of Singapore whereas various spiritual organizations particularly of Hindu origins and headed by a guru still continue to operate as societies classified by the government with other clubs These unconventional religiosities are not confined but ironically make their own places meeting in ostensive secular venues high rise flats malls businesses and community centers thus existing in the overall space of religion commerce and the state The book argues that State of Singapore also operates between the secular and the religious constructing an overarching spatial regime that both accommodates and yet rivals the alternate spheres that spiritual movements construct under its umbrella Both spatial configurations challenge the presumed relationships between myth and reality religion and commerce the ethereal and the concrete the sacred and the secular on the levels of self community and polity Singapore now deemed a model for urban development in Asia also offers an understanding of a new post secularity and perhaps reveals where the urbanized world is headed

Comparison Peter van der Veer, 2016-05-19 In The Value of Comparison Peter van der Veer makes a compelling case for using comparative approaches in the study of society and for the need to resist the simplified civilization narratives popular in public discourse and some social theory. He takes the quantitative social sciences and the broad social theories they rely on to task for their inability to question Western cultural presuppositions, demonstrating that anthropology's comparative approach provides a better means to understand societies. This capacity stems from anthropology's engagement with diversity, its fragmentary approach to studying social life, and its ability to translate difference between cultures. Through essays on topics as varied as iconoclasm, urban poverty, Muslim immigration, and social exclusion, van der Veer highlights the ways that studying the particular and the unique allows for gaining a deeper knowledge of the whole without resorting to simple generalizations that elide and marginalize difference. Routledge Handbook of Body Studies Bryan

Turner, 2012-07-24 In the last three decades, the human body has gained increasing prominence in contemporary political debates, and it has become a central topic of modern social sciences and humanities. Modern technologies such as organ transplants, stem cell research, nanotechnology, cosmetic surgery, and cryonics have changed how we think about the body. In this collection of thirty original essays by leading figures in the field, these issues are explored across a number of theoretical and disciplinary perspectives, including pragmatism, feminism, queer theory, postmodernism, posthumanism, cultural sociology, philosophy, and anthropology. A wide range of case studies, which include cosmetics, diet, organ transplants, racial bodies, masculinity, and sexuality, eating disorders, religion, and the sacred body, and disability, are used to appraise these different perspectives. In addition, this Handbook explores various epistemological approaches to the basic question: what is a body? It also offers a strongly themed range of chapters on empirical topics that are organized around religion, medicine, gender, technology, and consumption. It also contributes to the debate over the globalization of the body: how have military technology, modern medicine, sport, and consumption led to this contemporary obsession with matters corporeal? The Handbook's clear, direct style will appeal to a wide undergraduate audience in the social sciences, particularly for those studying medical sociology, gender studies, sports studies, disability studies, social gerontology, or the sociology of religion. It will serve to consolidate the new field of body studies. Curried Cultures Krishnendu Ray, Tulasi Srinivas, 2012-05 Although South

Asian cookery and gastronomy has transformed contemporary urban foodscapes all over the world, social scientists have paid scant attention to this phenomenon. Curried Cultures, a wide-ranging collection of essays, explores the relationship between globalization and South Asia through food, covering the cuisine of the colonial period to the contemporary era, investigating its material and symbolic meanings. Curried Cultures challenges disciplinary boundaries in considering South Asian gastronomy by assuming a proximity to dishes and diets that is often missing when food is a lens to investigate other topics. The book's established scholarly contributors examine food to comment on a range of cultural activities, as they argue that the practice of cooking and eating matters as an important way of knowing the world and acting on it. Dream Trippers

David A. Palmer, Elijah Siegler, 2017-11-27 Over the past few decades Daoism has become a recognizable part of Western alternative spiritual life. Now that Westernized version of Daoism is going full circle traveling back from America and Europe to influence Daoism in China. Dream Trippers draws on more than a decade of ethnographic work with Daoist monks and Western seekers to trace the spread of Westernized Daoism in contemporary China. David A. Palmer and Elijah Siegler take us into the daily life of the monastic community atop the mountain of Huashan and explore its relationship to the socialist state. They follow the international circuit of Daoist energy tourism which connects a number of sites throughout China and examine the controversies around Western scholars who become practitioners and promoters of Daoism. Throughout are lively portrayals of encounters among the book's various characters: Chinese hermits and monks, Western seekers and scholar practitioners as they interact with each other in obtuse, often humorous and yet sometimes enlightening and transformative ways. Dream Trippers untangles the anxieties, confusions and ambiguities that arise as Chinese and American practitioners balance cosmological attunement and radical spiritual individualism in their search for authenticity in a globalized world.

An Indian Tantric Tradition and Its Modern Global Revival D.E. Osto, 2020-03-06 This book analyzes the contemporary global revival of Nondual aivism, a thousand year old medieval Hindu religious philosophy. Providing a historical overview of the seminal people and groups responsible for the revival, the book compares the tradition's medieval Indian origins to modern forms which are situated within distinctively contemporary religious, economic and technological contexts. The author bridges the current gap in the literature between insider emic and outsider etic perspectives by examining modern Nondual aivism from multiple standpoints as both a critical scholar of religion and an empathetic participant observer. The book explores modern Nondual aivism in relation to recent scholarly debates concerning the legitimacy of New Age consumptive spirituality, the global spiritual marketplace and the contemporary culture of narcissism. It also analyzes the dark side of the revived tradition and investigates contemporary teachers accused of sexual abuse and illegal financial activities in relation to unique features of Nondual aivism's theosophy and modern scholarship on new religious movements, NRMs and cults. This book shows that although Kashmir aivism has been adopted by certain teachers and groups to market their own brand of High Tantra, some contemporary practitioners have remained true to the system's fundamental tenets and teach authentic, albeit modern forms of Nondual aivism. This book will be of interest to academics in the fields of religion and Asian philosophies, especially South Asian tantric, neo-tantric and yoga philosophies, alternative and New Age spiritualities, religion and consumerism and NRMs and cults. Winner of the inaugural 2021 New Zealand Asia Society Book Award second prize.
