The Yellow Wallpaper and three other outstanding stories. These charming tales are not only highly readable and full of humor and invention but also offer ample food for thought about the social, economic, and personal relationship of men and women and how they might be improved. The Yellow Wallpaper Charlotte Gilman, 2018-05-07 The Yellow Wallpaper by Charlotte Perkins Gilman. The Yellow Wallpaper is a short story by American writer Charlotte Perkins Gilman, first published in January 1892 in The New England Magazine. It is regarded as an important early work of American feminist literature, illustrating attitudes in the 19th century toward women's health, both physical and mental. Presented in the first person, the story is a collection of journal entries written by a woman whose physician husband has rented an old mansion for the summer. Forgoing other rooms in the house, the couple moves into the upstairs nursery. As a form of treatment, the unnamed woman is forbidden from working and is encouraged to eat well and get plenty of exercise and air so she can recuperate from what he calls a temporary nervous depression, a slight hysterical tendency, a diagnosis common to women in that period.
