The National System of Political Economy (Classic Reprint) Friedrich List, 2017-02-06 Excerpt from The National System of Political Economy It was this testimony to the practical in uence of List s economical theories which first attracted my attention to his writings and a perusal of them induced me to undertake the translation of the following work with a view to affording English readers an opportunity of judging for themselves as to the truth of his statements and the soundness of his argu ments The work consists of four parts the History the Theory the Systems and the Politics of National Economy It is important to bear in mind that all were written before 1844 and the fourth part in particular treats of political circum stances and of commercial policies which have now for the most part ceased to exist The Corn Laws the Navigation Laws and the generally protectionist tariff of Great Britain were then still unrepealed the manufacturing industry of Germany was still in its infancy and the comparatively moderate tariff of the German States still permitted England to supply them with the greater part of the manufactured goods which they required At first sight therefore it would seem an anachronism to place before the reader of to day a work having special relation to a state of things which existed forty years ago The principles however enunciated by List are in their main features as applicable at one time as at another and it will be found that they possess two especially powerful claims to consideration at the present moment In the first place there is good reason for believing that they have directly inspired the commercial policy of two of the greatest nations of the world Germany and the United States of America and in the next they supply a definite scientific basis for those protectionist doctrines which although acted upon by our English speaking colonies and held by not a few practical men as well as by some commercial economists in this country have hitherto been only partially and inadequately formulated by English writers The fundamental idea of List's theory will be seen to be the free import of agricultural products and raw materials combined with an effective but not excessive protection by means of customs duties of native manufacturing industry against foreign competition According to his views the most efficient support of native production of agricultural products and raw materials is the maintenance within the nation of our flourishing manufacturing industry thus protected The system which he advocates differs therefore on the one hand from the unconditionally free import system of one sided free trade adopted by England and on the other from the system now apparently approved by Prince Bismarck of imposing protective duties on the import of food and raw materials as well as on that of manufactured goods About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Handbook on the History of Economic Analysis Volume II Gilbert

National System of Political Economy (Classic Reprint) Friedrich List, 2015-07-06 Excerpt from National System of Political Economy Frederick List was born the 6th August 1789 at Reutlingen a free city of Suabia His early education was incomplete At the Classical School he exhibited so little taste for its studies that his father withdrew him but as he showed equal indisposition to learn his father's business he was subsequently left to shape his own education This he did however to such purpose that we find him in 1816 holding an appointment in the Central Administration of Wurtemberg in which he justified the confidence placed in him by a distinguished statesman the Minister Wangenheim who offered his young assistant in the following year the chair of Political Economy in the University of Tubingen List accepted this position He tells us in the Preface to his National System that the principle of free trade was one of the first encountered in his new career It seemed to me at first reasonable but gradually I satisfied myself that the whole doctrine was applicable and sound only when adopted by all nations Thus I was led to the idea of nationality I found that the theorists kept always in view mankind and man never separate nations About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

An Inquiry Into the Various Systems of Political Economy Charles Ganilh, 2015-07-10 Excerpt from An Inquiry Into the Various Systems of Political Economy Their Advantages and Disadvantages And the Theory Most Favourable to the Increase of National Wealth No study can be more attractive to a benevolent mind than that which investigates the means of providing a plentiful national income and insuring the happiness of the individual members of the community by enabling them to obtain the supply of their wants through the exertions of their industry That commerce is one of the most powerful of those means has long been acknowledged in this country but that this truth should find an able advocate in France at a time when her ruler is bent upon destroying commerce is a circumstance as extraordinary as it is honourable to the author of the Inquiry into the various Systems of Political Economy The impartiality and the soundness of the views which he displays in his work give it a particular claim to the attention of the English nation and it is with the view to render its circulation more general that I have attempted a translation in which I have chiefly aimed at fidelity and perspicuity About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
