The Road from Coorain Jill Ker Conway,2011-06-22 In a memoir that pierces and delights us Jill Ker Conway tells the story of her astonishing journey into adulthood a journey that would ultimately span immense distances and encompass worlds ideas and ways of life that seem a century apart She was seven before she ever saw another girl child At eight still too small to mount her horse unaided she was galloping miles alone across Coorain her parents thirty thousand windswept drought haunted acres in the Australian outback doing a man s job of helping herd the sheep because World War II had taken away the able bodied men She loved and makes us see and feel the vast unpeopled landscape beautiful and hostile whose uncertain weathers tormented the sheep ranchers with conflicting promises of riches and inescapable disaster She adored and makes us know her large visioned father and her strong radiant mother who had gone willingly with him into a pioneering life of loneliness and bone breaking toil who seemed miraculously to succeed in creating a warmly sheltering home in the harsh outback and who upon her husband s sudden death when Jill was ten began to slide bereft of the partnership of work and love that had so utterly fulfilled her into depression and dependency We see Jill staggered by the loss of her father catapulted to what seemed another planet the suburban Sydney of the 1950s and its crowded noisy cliquish school life Then the heady excitement of the University but with it a yet more demanding course of lessons Jill embracing new ideas new possibilities while at the same time trying to be mother to her mother and resenting it escaping into drink pulling herself back striking a balance We see her slowly gaining strength coming into her own emotionally and intellectually and beginning the joyous love affair that gave wings to her newfound self Worlds away from Coorain in America Jill Conway became a historian and the first woman president of Smith College Her story of Coorain and the road from Coorain startles by its passion and evocative power by its understanding of the ways in which a total deep rooted commitment to place or to a dream can at once liberate and imprison It is a story of childhood as both Eden and anguish and of growing up as a journey toward the difficult life of the free

Near Death in the Arctic Cecil Kuhne, 2011-05-25 The fine snow choked his eyes ears and throat and he did not hear his own smothered death cry Down in cold blackness 150 feet down his falling body smashed into a projecting ledge of ironclad ice With the shattered remains of his sledge with the doomed dogs Belgrave Ninnis plunged deeper and deeper into the abyss Lennard Bickel's Mawson's Will In Near Death in the Arctic editor Cecil Kuhne gathers astonishing tales of man versus nature all set against the bleakly beautiful backdrop of the poles of the earth On foot by ship or by dog powered sledge these adventurers brave the most savage and desolate environment on earth their instinct for self preservation and survival exceeded only by their desire for excitement and discovery Also featuring Captain Roald Amundsen's The South Pole The heart pounding story of Amundsen's race to be the first man to reach both Poles despite driving snow exhausted dogs and towering glaciers Ernest Shackleton's South A riveting memoir of the doomed Endurance which became trapped in dangerous pack ice that eventually tore the ship apart Mike Stroud's Shadows on the Wasteland The unbelievable account of a two man ninety day trek across the Antarctic continent through temperatures as low as minus eighty five degrees Celsius

An Empire Wilderness Robert D. Kaplan, 2014-11-12 Having reported on some of the world's most violent least understood regions in his bestsellers Balkan Ghosts and The Ends of the Earth Robert Kaplan now returns to his native land the United States of America Traveling like Tocqueville and John Gunther before him through a political and cultural landscape in transition Kaplan reveals a nation shedding a familiar identity as it assumes a radically new one An Empire Wilderness opens in Fort Leavenworth Kansas where the first white settlers moved into Indian country and where Manifest

Destiny was born In a world whose future conflicts can barely be imagined it is also the place where the army trains its men to fight the next war A nostalgic view of the United States is deliberately cultivated here Kaplan writes as if to bind the uncertain future to a reliable past From Fort Leavenworth Kaplan travels west to the great cities of the heartland to St Louis once a glorious shipping center expected to outshine imperial Rome and now touted with its desolate inner city and miles of suburban gated communities as the most average American city Kaplan continues west to Omaha down through California north from Mexico across Arizona New Mexico and Texas up to Montana and Canada and back through Oregon He visits Mexican border settlements and dust blown county sheriffs offices Indian reservations and nuclear bomb plants cattle ranches in the Oklahoma Panhandle glacier mantled forests in the Pacific Northwest swanky postsuburban sprawls and grim bus terminals and comes at last to the great battlefield at Vicksburg Mississippi where an earlier generation of Americans gave their lives for their vision of an American future But what if anything he asks will today s Americans fight and die for At Vicksburg Kaplan contemplates the new America through which he has just traveled an America of sharply polarized communities that draws its population from pools of talent far beyond its borders an America where the distance between winners and losers grows exponentially as corporations assume gov ernment functions and the wealthy find themselves more closely linked to their business associates in India and China than to their poorer neighbors a few miles away an America where old loyalties and allegiances are vanishing and new ones are only beginning to emerge The new America he found is in the pages of this book Kaplan gives a precise and chilling vision of how the most successful nation the world has ever known is entering the final and highly uncertain phase of its history
