Wine Analysis and Production Bruce Zoecklein, Kenneth C. Fugelsang, Barry H. Gump, Fred S. Nury, 2013-11-09

Winemaking as a form of food preservation is as old as civilization. Wine has been an integral component of people's daily diet since its discovery and has also played an important role in the development of society, religion, and culture. We are currently drinking the best wines ever produced. We are able to do this because of our increased understanding of grape growing, biochemistry, and microbiology of fermentation, our use of advanced technology in production, and our ability to measure the various major and minor components that comprise this fascinating beverage. Historically, winemakers succeeded with slow but gradual improvements brought about by combinations of folklore, observation, and luck. However, they also had monumental failures resulting in the necessity to dispose of wine or convert it into distilled spirits or vinegar. It was assumed that even the most marginally drinkable wines could be marketed. This is not the case for modern producers. The costs of grapes, the technology used in production, oak barrels, corks, bottling equipment, etc., have increased dramatically and continue to rise. Consumers are now accustomed to supplies of inexpensive and high quality varietals and blends; they continue to demand better. Modern winemakers now rely on basic science and the systematic application of their art to produce products pleasing to the increasingly knowledgeable consumer base that enjoys wine as part of its civilized society.

Production Wine Analysis Bruce W. Zoecklein, 2012-12-06. This text is designed to acquaint the reader with the commonly used procedures of juice and wine analysis as they are generally practiced in the industry and as they are taught in the Department of Enology at California State University, Fresno. It is assumed that the reader has a basic preparation in the fields of chemistry and microbiology. In developing material for this text, the authors have emphasized analyses as they would be carried out in a production laboratory. Realizing that different laboratories have different analytical capabilities, personnel, as well as equipment, we have in many instances provided several different approaches to the same analysis. Throughout this book, we have attempted to give special attention to practical considerations and the importance of these analyses in the total spectrum of winery operations. We hope the book's format will satisfy the interests of laboratory personnel as well as winemakers. The process of making wine involves a series of concerns for the winemaker and staff of a winery. The first concerns are viticultural. Upon arrival of the fruit, its quality is assessed; grapes are processed and fermentation is begun. Almost immediately and in many instances simultaneously, chemical and microbiological stability of the young and/or aging wine become important. Finally, problems do occur on occasion, and a number of what may be considered remedial techniques can be employed to produce an acceptable product.

Postmodern Winemaking Clark Smith, 2013-11-02. In Postmodern Winemaking, Clark Smith shares the extensive knowledge he has accumulated in engaging, humorous, and erudite essays that convey a new vision of the winemaker's craft, one that credits the crucial roles played by both science and art in the winemaking process Smith a leading innovator in red wine production techniques explains how traditional enological education has led many winemakers astray enabling them to create competent consistent wines while putting exceptional wines of structure and mystery beyond their grasp Great wines he claims demand a personal and creative engagement with many elements of the process His lively exploration of the facets of postmodern winemaking together with profiles of some of its practitioners is both entertaining and enlightening Vineyard & Winery Management ,1992 American Journal of Enology and Viticulture ,2008 Wine East ,2006 The Australian & New Zealand Wine Industry Journal ,1986
