Lynch,2011-12-01 The United States entered the 21st century as the world's sole superpower Our diplomatic strength military might financial resources and technological innovation were and continue to be the envy of the world However in the crucial area of education the U S lags behind many other developed countries Though the U S spends more per student than almost any other country international exams have demonstrated that we consistently perform well behind countries such as South Korea China Japan and Finland in the areas of reading and math There are even more worrying elements at play however Paramount among these is the fact that the U S educational system is becoming ever more stratified Despite efforts such as the George W Bush administration's No Child Left Behind Act NCLB the disparity in academic achievement between students from high and low socioeconomic classes continues to grow The ramifications of this trend are vast China Japan and South Korea understand that well educated workers are crucial for survival in the competitive global economy Thus they are placing enormous emphasis on education ensuring that their students receive instruction not only foundational reading and math but are also taught to think creatively and solve problems Their youth are poised to take on and conquer the world The U S on the other hand is losing the battle School systems are using more money but have less to show for it Test results especially among the lower socioeconomic classes are dismal America has extraordinary natural resources a solid functioning democracy and excellent infrastructure but unless we can reform our educational system to produce students who are able to take advantage of new technologies and compete in the global economy we will cede our position as world leader Its Time for Change School Reform provides a no nonsense blueprint for reforming The U S educational system in a manner that will ensure that it secures its position as the preeminent world leader A Primer on Year-round Education ,1988 The

Dimensions of Time and the Challenge of School Reform Patricia C. Gandara,2000-01-01 Annotation As the education reform movement matures into its second decade it is clear that many promising efforts have fallen short in their attempts to create real school change One reason for this is that the process of school reform is much more complex than most reformers realized or were willing to acknowledge The Dimensions of Time and the Challenge of School Reform points to another problem the problem of time and its role in both the success and failure of school reform efforts The importance of understanding the role that time plays in both learning and instruction and finding ways to provide time for teachers grappling with change and students learning to accommodate a new language and culture are important themes in this book

This book is directed to policymakers and practitioners as well as to academics in that it combines theory with the real world experiences of many who have been active in the school reform movement and who have learned through trial and error how to think about time in innovative ways Book jacket
