The Women's Movements in the United States and Britain from the 1790s to the 1920s Christine Bolt, 1993 This book offers a comprehensive history of the women's movements in the United States and Britain from the late eighteenth century through the 1920s detailing both similarities and differences In each country organized feminism developed from similar social conditions a shared heritage of Enlightenment ideas a relative expansion of political rights the spread of industrialization and urbanization the growth of an influential middle class and the presence of a predominantly Protestant culture In addition women of both nations pursued similar objectives and experienced similar obstacles in their pursuit of equality As Christine Bolt shows however there were important distinctions Americans were inspired by their own perception of the superiority of their social circumstances the greater strength and boldness of their movement and the greater freedom and respect accorded them In contrast the cause of British feminism was vastly complicated by issues of class and British women often used different means to achieve reform

Science Fiction Cinema and 1950s Britain Matthew Jones, 2017-11-30 For the last sixty years discussion of 1950s science fiction cinema has been dominated by claims that the genre reflected US paranoia about Soviet brainwashing and the nuclear bomb However classic films such as Invasion of the Body Snatchers 1956 and It Came from Outer Space 1953 and less familiar productions such as It The Terror from Beyond Space 1958 were regularly exported to countries across the world The histories of their encounters with foreign audiences have not yet been told Science Fiction Cinema and 1950s Britain begins this task by recounting the story of 1950s British cinema goes and the aliens and monsters they watched on the silver screen Drawing on extensive archival research Matthew Jones makes an exciting and important intervention by locating American science fiction films alongside their domestic counterparts in their British contexts of release and reception He offers a radical reassessment of the genre demonstrating for the first time that in Britain which was a significant market for and producer of science fiction these films gave voice to different fears than they did in America While Americans experienced an economic boom low immigration and the conferring of statehood on Alaska and Hawaii Britons worried about economic uncertainty mass immigration and the dissolution of the Empire Science Fiction Cinema and 1950s Britain uses these and other differences between the British and American experiences of the 1950s to tell a new history of the decade's science fiction cinema exploring for the first time the ways in which the genre came to mean something unique to Britons

British Waterways Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Environment, Food and Rural Affairs Committee, 2008 In its 7th report of session 2006-07 HC 345 I ISBN 9780215521330 on British Waterways BW the Committee pressed for adequate funding of the waterways network and expressed concern at the poor relations that existed at the time between the Department for Environment Food and Rural Affairs Defra and BW This further report was prompted by BW s decision in February 2008 to withdraw from the partnership to restore the Cotswold Canals in order to fund urgent repairs to the Monmouthshire and Brecon Canal The report focuses on BW s regeneration and restoration work but also looks at how Defra and BW are working together and the Committee is encouraged by an improvement in the relationship and communication between the two bodies Restoration of canals produces little if any direct benefit to BW and BW has often carried all the financial risk in such projects Canal restoration schemes can be of great value to the areas where the canals are restored producing knock on benefits such as more jobs and visitor income The BW Board is charged primarily with maintaining the existing waterways network and cannot be expected to take on substantial risk from restoration projects especially in present economic conditions If the public sector wishes to obtain external benefits from canal restoration schemes the bodies responsible for obtaining those benefits should bear the risk Defra with British Waterways and other interested bodies should develop a mechanism to score and prioritise public investment in canal restoration according to the external benefits that would be created and should agree how the financial risks of such projects should be borne

Tourism Distribution Berendien Lubbe,2000 Travel distribution has become one of the most talked about subjects in the tourism industry since technological advances have opened new channels and opportunities for suppliers of tourism travel intermediaries and consumers While technological advances have brought about dramatic changes so too has the consolidation of organisations both in the airline and travel industries These changes are transforming the industry and while travel agents will remain key players in distribution their fundamental role will probably change from supplier biased intermediaries to consumer biased consultants
