War Guilt And World Politics After World War II:

War, Guilt, and World Politics after World War II Thomas U. Berger, 2012-07-16 When do states choose to adopt a penitent stance towards the past When do they choose to offer apologies for historical misdeeds offer compensation for their victims and incorporate the darker sides of history into their textbooks public monuments and museums When do they choose not to do so And what are the political consequences of how states portray the past This book pursues these questions by examining how governments in post 1945 Austria Germany and Japan have wrestled with the difficult legacy of the Second World War and the impact of their policies on regional politics in Europe and Asia The book argues that states can reconcile over historical issues but to do so requires greater political will and imposes greater costs than is commonly realized At the same time in an increasingly interdependent world failure to do so can have a profoundly disruptive effect on regional relations and feed dangerous geopolitical tensions War, Guilt, and World Politics After World War II. by Thomas U. Berger in which collective memory can manifest in IR as a country's political strategy as its public identity as its international state behaviour and finally as a source for its national values A comparative case study of West Germany and Austria illustrates how significantly differing interpretations of the Nazi legacy impacted their respective international policies over time Taken together this book investigates whether collective memory influences global outcomes and how and why it matters for IR

Dark Pasts Jennifer M. Dixon, 2018-11-15 In Dark Pasts Jennifer M Dixon asks why states deny past atrocities and when and why they change the stories they tell about them In recent decades states have been called on to acknowledge and apologize for historic wrongs Some have apologized while others have silenced denied and relativized past crimes Dark Pasts unravels the complex and fraught processes through which state narratives of past atrocities are constructed contested and defended Focusing on Turkey's narrative of the Armenian Genocide and Japan's narrative of the Nanjing Massacre Dixon shows that international pressures increase the likelihood of change in states narratives of their own dark pasts even as domestic considerations determine their content Combining historical richness and analytical rigor Dark Pasts is a revelatory study of the persistent presence of the past and the politics that shape narratives of state wrongdoing

Power Sharing in Lebanon Eduardo Wassim Aboultaif, 2019-01-15 This book studies the origins and evolution of power sharing in Lebanon The author has established a relationship between mobilization ethnurgy ethnic identification memory and trauma and how they impact power sharing provisions The book starts with the events in the 1820s when communities began to politicize their identities and which led to the first major outbreak of civil violence between the Druze and the Maronites Consequently these troubled four decades in Lebanon led to the introduction of various forms of power sharing arrangements to establish peace The political systems introduced in Lebanon are the Kaim Makamiya dual sub governorship a quasi federal arrangement the Mutassarifiya the prototype of a power sharing system the post independence political system of Lebanon which the book refers to as semi consociation due to the concentration of executive powers in the Presidential office and finally the full consociation of the Taif Republic In each of these phases there was a peculiar interaction between the non structural elements that had a direct impact on power sharing this led at times to instability and at other times it brought down the system as in 1840 1860 and 1975 Power Sharing in Lebanon is the first academic work that emphasizes the influence of the non structural elements that hinder power sharing This volume is now a key resource for students and academics interested in Lebanese Politics and the Middle East
