

“every mouth you’ve ever kissed
was just practice
all the bodies you’ve ever undressed and ploughed in to
were preparing you for me.
i don’t mind tasting them in the memory of your mouth
they were a long hall way
a door half open
a single suit case still on the conveyor belt was it a long journey?
did it take you long to find me?
you’re here now,
welcome home.”

Warsan Shire Poems:

Bless the Daughter Raised by a Voice in Her Head Warsan Shire, 2022-03-01 Poems of migration womanhood trauma and resilience from the celebrated collaborator on Beyoncé's Lemonade and Black Is King award-winning Somali British poet Warsan Shire. The beautifully crafted poems in this collection are fiercely tender gifts. Roxane Gay, author of Bad Feminist. Warsan Shire is our ultimate modern poet. This is our James Baldwin. The New York Times Culture Desk LONGLISTED FOR THE GRIFFIN POETRY PRIZE ONE OF THE BEST BOOKS OF THE YEAR Vanity Fair The Guardian Publishers Weekly Mama I made it out of your home alive raised by the voices in my head. With her first full-length poetry collection Warsan Shire introduces us to a young girl who in the absence of a nurturing guide makes her own way toward womanhood. Drawing from her own life as well as pop culture and news headlines, Shire finds vivid, unique details in the experiences of refugees and immigrants, mothers and daughters, Black women and teenage girls. In Shire's hands, lives spring into fullness. This is noisy life full of music and weeping and surahs and sirens and birds. This is fragrant life full of blood and perfume and shisha smoke and jasmine and incense. This is polychrome life full of henna and moonlight and lipstick and turmeric and kohl. The long-awaited collection from one of our most exciting contemporary poets, this book is a blessing, an incantatory celebration of resilience and survival. Each reader will come away changed.

Her Blue Body Warsan Shire, 2015-11-19 Through her role as London's first Young Poet Laureate, Warsan Shire turned her eye to the city, interrogating the capital and its continuing transformation, even while lending voice to its oft-unheard or under-represented communities and spaces. Collecting work authored during Shire's tenure, Her Blue Body stands as testament and witness, negotiating the complexities of heritage, cultural sensitivity, sensuality, trauma, and womanhood, framed and ordered by a sequence of memorial poems focused through the lens of Shire's intimate and unflinching vision.

The Bloomsbury Handbook of Anglophone Literature and Migration Nicoletta Vallorani, Simona Bertacco, William Boelhower, 2025-10-16 Focusing on a significant 70-year period as a climactic phase of displacement, the book investigates the role of literature in producing new modes of representing and understanding migration in a global context. Globally felt and reported as a geographical, sociological, anthropological, and historical phenomenon, migration has produced an unprecedented corpus of literary narratives that demands to be approached through its own set of cross-disciplinary critical approaches. This Handbook explores tales of migration via a systematic study of the large corpus of Anglophone literary texts that have been written by migrant authors and/or on the topic of migration between 1946 and 2016, from the start of the United Nations International Migration Report to the first year in which the number of displaced people reached the level of the Second World War, marking a new phase in global migrations. Given the dominance of English as a world language, often used by writers who are not native speakers, the volume covers Anglophone writing, providing a substantially representative corpus that includes texts from or about Europe, Africa, North and Central America, and the South Asia and Pacific region. Starting from a critical approach that is inherently interdisciplinary authors consider the notion of the border and how it has changed over time show how traditional literary genres have morphed and hybridized to become suitable expressive tools for the new stories of migration reflect on how the movement across borders and countries creates migrant identities that are not only linguistic but invests all aspects of one's life and worldview and includes authors' voices a small but representative group to both justify and test the critical approaches proposed Love and Space in Contemporary African Diasporic Women's Writing Jennifer Leetsch, 2021-07-16 This book sets out to investigate how contemporary African diasporic women writers respond to the imbalances pressures and crises of twenty first century globalization by querying the boundaries between two separate conceptual domains love and space The study breaks new ground by systematically bringing together critical love studies with research into the cultures of migration diaspora and refuge Examining a notable tendency among current black feminist writers poets and performers to insist on the affective dimension of world making the book ponders strategies of reconfiguring postcolonial discourses Indeed the analyses of literary works and intermedia performances by Chimamanda Adichie Zadie Smith Helen Oyeyemi Shailja Patel and Warsan Shire reveal an urge of moving beyond a familiar insistence on processes of alienation or rupture and towards a new reparative emphasis on connection and intimacy to imagine possible inhabitable worlds

Black British Women's Writing in the 1970s and Beyond Camille S. Alexander, 2024-01-23 Black British writing in the decades after the Windrush generation was marked by a significant change more immigrant women were published in the UK in these decades than ever before This book is a collection of essays examining the texts of some of these women writers Included are essays on Black British women writers such as Warsan Shire Eimear Walsby Pearl Springer Beryl Gilroy Buchi Emecheta and Barbara Jenkins which span the literary period from the 1970s to the early 2000s The essays in this collection propose that these women writers represent the voices of another subgenre of Black British writing and they are connected through immigration or temporary migration to the UK Yet they also remain firmly attached to their geographical and cultural origins The essays included in this collection explore what it means to be a Black British woman writer and how members of this group were able to conceptualise home in their fiction 100 Poems That Matter The Academy of American Poets, 2022-12-13 A moving thought provoking and emotional anthology of classical and contemporary poems from across the world that invites us to celebrate poetry's power to capture the truths that really matter 100 Poems That Matter examines universal themes of love loss and the experiences that define us At turns moving thoughtful and thrilling 100 Poems That Matter emphasizes the natural way poetry connects with us and encourages us to bring a deeper sense of honesty into our lives Featured poets include Emily Brontë E.E.
