An Unprotected Female at the Pyramids Trollope Anthony, 2016-06-21 Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts 1 We have not used OCR Optical Character Recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos 2 In books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy An Unprotected Female at the Pyramids Anthony Trollope, 2019-09-15 An interesting curio a short Trollope tale and a tale of C19th travel to Egypt Only really of interest as a curio It is as you might expect a bit sexist and a bit certain of Britain's place in the world Some might deem it a bit racist too as the arabs aren't portrayed well but anyone who has been to Egypt will know the inexorable persistence of beggars is actually well drawn Goodreads An Unprotected Female at the Pyramids & Other Stories Anthony Trollope, 1984 Victorian Women and the Economies of Travel, Translation and Culture, 1830-1870 Judith Johnston, 2016-02-24 Both travel and translation involve a type of journey one with literal and metaphorical dimensions Judith Johnston brings together these two richly resonant modes of getting from here to there as she explores their impact on culture with respect to the work of Victorian women Using the metaphor of the published journey whether it involves actual travel or translation Johnston focusses particularly on the relationships of various British women with continental Europe At the same time she sheds light on the possibility of appropriation and British imperial enhancement that such contact produces Johnston's book is in part devoted to case studies of women such as Sarah Austin Mary Busk Anna Jameson Charlotte Guest Jane Sinnett and Mary Howitt who are representative of women travellers translators and journalists during a period when women became increasingly robust participants in the publishing industry Whether they wrote about their own travels or translated the foreign language texts of other writers Johnston shows women were establishing themselves as actors in the broad business of culture In widening our understanding of the ways in which gender and modernity functioned in the early decades of the Victorian age Johnston's book makes a strong case for a greater appreciation of the contributions nineteenth century women made to what is termed the knowledge empire An Unprotected Female at the Pyramids (Another Leaf Press) Anthony Trollope, 2013-01-26 Anthony Trollope's classic short work An Unprotected Female at the Pyramids. From "The Collected Shorter Fiction" Anthony Trollope, 1992 Inspired by Trollope's visit to Egypt in 1858 this is the story of a romance between an American traveller and an Englishman's daughter Tales of All Countries Anthony Trollope, 1867 Tales of all countries. [1st] Anthony Trollope, 1861 Model Women of the Press Teja Varma Pusapati, 2024-02-28 This book offers the first extended account of the mid century rise of model women of the press women who not only stormed the male bastions of social and political journalism but also presented themselves as upholders of the highest standards of professional journalistic practice They broke the codes of anonymity in several ways including signing articles in their own names and developing distinctly female personae They proved by example women's fitness for conventionally masculine lines of journalism By placing Victorian women's serious high minded journalism firmly within the context of the widening sphere of female professions in mid nineteenth century England the book shows how a wide range of women writers including leading Victorian feminists and female reformers contributed to the professionalization of women's authorship Drawing on extensive archival research and close analysis of a wide range of printed texts from Victorian newspapers and periodicals to autobiographies memoirs and fiction this book elucidates several aspects of Victorian women's journalism that have been previously ignored the market interest of the feminist English Woman's Journal the ability of women like Eliza Meteyard and Frances Power Cobbe to write consistently on serious social and political issues in mainstream periodicals Harriet Ward's astonishing reportage from the war fields of South Africa and Harriet Martineau's reports on Famine devastated Ireland and her role as a transatlantic commentator on American abolitionism The study also offers the first focused account of the figure of the female professional journalist in Victorian novels showing how these texts move away from the dominant myth of the author as a solitary genius to present the female journalist as a collaborator who adapts her writing to fit various newspapers and periodicals and works closely with male editors and peers In examining the rise of the Victorian woman writer as a serious social and political journalist this book adds to current critical understanding of female political expression authorial agency and cultural authority in nineteenth century England

McFadden, 2021-10-21 An intricate network of contacts developed among women in Europe and North America over the course of the nineteenth century These women created virtual communities through communication support and a shared ideology Forged across boundaries of nationality language ethnic origin and even class these connections laid the foundation for the 1888 International Council of Women and formed the beginnings of an international women's movement This matrix extended throughout England and the Continent and included Scandinavia and Finland In a remarkable display of investigative research Margaret McFadden describes the burgeoning avenues of communication in the nineteenth century that led to an explosion in the number of international contacts among women This network blossomed because of increased travel opportunities advances in women s literacy and education increased activity in the temperance abolitionist and peace reform movements and the emergence of female evangelicals political revolutionaries and expatriates Particular attention is paid to five women whose decades of work helped give birth to the women s movement by century s end These mothers of the matrix include Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton of the United States Anna Doyle Wheeler of Ireland Fredrika Bremer of Sweden and Frances Power Cobbe of England Despite their philosophic differences these leaders recognized the value of friendship and advocacy among women and shared an affinity for bringing together people from different cultural settings McFadden demonstrates without question that the traditions of transatlantic female communication are far older than most historians realize and that the women s movement was inherently international No other scholar has painted so complete a picture of the golden cables that linked the women who saw the Atlantic and the borders within Europe as bridges rather than barriers to improving their status
