Strategic Planning Louis Albrechts, Alessandro Balducci, Jean Hillier, 2016-07-22 All over the world societies are facing a number of major problems New developments challenges and opportunities cause these issues and yet cases tell us that traditional spatial planning responses and tools are often insufficient to tackle these problems and challenges Situated Practices of Strategic Planning draws together examples from across the globe from France to Australia from Nigeria to the United States as it observes international comparisons of the strategic planning process Many approaches and policies used today fail to capture the dynamics of urban regional transformation and are more concerned with maintaining an existing social order than challenging and transforming it Stewarded by a team of highly regarded and experienced researchers this book gives a synthetic view of the process of change and frames future directions of development It is unique for its combination of analysis of international case studies and reflection on critical nodes and features in strategic planning This volume will be of interest to students who study regional planning academics professional planners and policy makers

Reshaping Urban Conservation Ana Pereira Roders, Francesco Bandarin, 2019-02-07 This volume focuses on the implementation of the 2011 UNESCO Recommendation on the Historic Urban Landscape HUL approach designed to foster the integration of heritage management in regional and urban planning and management and strengthen the role of heritage in sustainable urban development Earlier publications and research looked at the underlying theory of why the HUL approach was needed and how this theory was developed and elaborated by UNESCO A comprehensive analysis was carried out in consultation with a multitude of actors in the twenty first century urban scene and with disciplinary approaches that are available to heritage managers and practitioners to implement the HUL approach This volume aims to be empirical describing analyzing and comparing 28 cities taken as case studies to implement the HUL approach From those cases many lessons can be learned and much guidance shared on best practices concerning what can be done to make the HUL approach work Whereas the previous studies served to illustrate issues and challenges in this volume the studies point to innovations in regional and urban planning and management that can allow cities to avoid major conflicts and to further develop in competitiveness These accomplishments have been possible by building partnerships devising financial strategies and using heritage as a key resource in sustainable urban development to name but a few effective strategies For these reasons this volume is primarily pragmatic linked to the daily work and challenges of practitioners and administrators using specific cases to assess what was and is good about current practices and what can be improved in accordance with the HUL approach and aims The Routledge Handbook of Regional Design Michael Neuman, Wil Zonneveld, 2021-04-15 The Routledge

Handbook of Regional Design explores contemporary research policy and practice that highlight critical aspects of strategy making planning and designing for contemporary regions including city regions bioregions delta regions and their hybrids As accelerating urbanization and globalization combine with other forces such as the demand for increasing returns on investment capital migration and innovation they yield cities that are expanding over ever larger territories Moreover these polycentric city regions themselves are agglomerating with one another to create new territorial mega regions The processes that beget these novel regional forms produce numerous and significant effects positive and negative that call for new modes of design and management so that the urban places and the lives and well being of their inhabitants and businesses thrive sustainably into the future With international case studies from leading scholars and practitioners this book is an important resource not just for students researchers and practitioners of urban planning but also policy makers developers architects engineers and anyone interested in the broader issues of urbanism A Research Agenda for Cities John Rennie

Short,2017-03-31 Elgar Research Agendas outline the future of research in a given area Leading scholars are given the space to explore their subject in provocative ways and map out the potential directions of travel They are relevant but also visionary This book provides a critical assessment of key areas of urban scholarship In twelve stimulating chapters expert contributors examine a range of important pressing topics from sustainability and gentrification to feminist interventions and globalization to security and food issues Six more regionally informed expert reviews examine recent urban research in sub Saharan Africa South America East Asia the Middle East Australia and Eastern Europe The chapters provide polemical assessments and signposts for future research The book will be an indispensable and accessible guide to urban research across the globe

Australian Urban Policy Robert Freestone,Bill Randolph,Wendy Steele,2024-03-19 Urban Australia confronts numerous challenges in the 21st century climate change housing transport greenspace social inequality and governance among them While state and local governments wrestle with these issues they are continent wide and require national leadership direction and participation As a highly urbanised country without a national approach to urban policy Australia is an outlier Contributors to this book argue that this policy gap needs to be addressed They ask How have productive sustainable and liveable cities so far been enhanced Where have aspirations fallen short or produced negative outcomes And what approaches are emerging to challenge existing and devise new urban policy settings In the face of ongoing crises and escalating change the need for policy to quickly transform urban Australia is daunting Problems wicked in their complexity require innovative ethical solutions This book offers new ideas that challenge policy orthodoxy Made in Australia Richard Weller,Julian Bolleter,2013 How do you creatively plan for a population of 62 million by 2100 Australia s current major city planning frameworks only account for an extra 5.5 million people Whether we want a Big Australia or not Australia s 21st century is likely to see rapid and continual growth and if we want liveable high functioning cities and regional centres we need to think outside the box Richard Weller and Julian Bolleter Australian Urban Design Research Centre offer optimistic and creative solutions for the future with one imperative what we build this century will make or break our country

Australian Environmental Planning Jason Byrne,Neil Sipe,Jago Dodson,2014-04-16 Winner of the Planning Institute of

Australia's 2015 Cutting Edge Research and Teaching Award Australians from all walks of life have begun to realise the nation's cities cannot sustain profligate growth indefinitely Dwindling water supplies failing food bowls increased energy costs more severe bushfires severe storms flooding coastal erosion rising transport expenses housing shortages and environmental pollution are now daily news headlines Australia's cities may have reached their ecological limits a new model for planning the places we live is needed Understanding the natural cycles of the city is just as important to planning our cities as knowledge of local ordinances indeed much more so A profound knowledge of environmental processes is critical for successful planning in today's world Environmental planners take as their guiding principle the concept of designing with nature approaching cities as living organisms that consume water energy and raw materials and produce waste This metabolic view of cities means we can find new solutions to old problems and steer our cities towards a more sustainable form of planning Written specifically for students and professionals working in city planning in Australia this ground breaking new book enables Australian planners architects and developers to get a better understanding of the fundamental principles of environmental planning for cities showing how land water air energy wildlife and people shape our built environments and how in turn environmental processes must be better understood if we are to make informed decisions about developing cities that are more sustainable The book's coverage is comprehensive from an overview of the concepts and theories of environmental planning through analysis of governance systems and urban environmental processes to agendas and policies for the future all the key topics are covered in depth with recommendations for supporting reading and an unrivalled selection of additional materials Ideal for students essential for professionals Australian Environmental Planning is vital reading for more sustainable cities in a more sustainable world

Suburbia in the 21st Century Paul Maginn, Katrin B.

Anacker, 2022-03-24 The majority of the world's population now live in urban areas and the 21st century has been declared as the urban age However closer inspection of where people live in cities especially within so called advanced liberal democracies such as Australia the United Kingdom and the United States reveals that most people live in different types of suburban environments Drawing together scholars from across the globe this book provides a series of national regional and local case studies from Australia Canada Finland France Ireland Spain the United Kingdom and the United States to exemplify the diverse and dynamic nature and importance of suburbia in 21st century urban studies city building and urbanism This book explores the evolving social physical and economic character of the suburbs and how structural processes market dynamics and government policies have shaped and transformed suburbia around the world It highlights the continuing importance of the suburbs and the suburban dream which lives on albeit under increasing challenges such as the global financial crisis structural racism and the Covid 19 pandemic which have given rise to various suburban nightmares

Urban Planning Chris Couch, 2017-08-24 This is a wide ranging and internationally focussed introduction to planning for the urban landscape It provides an up to date account of planning reflecting throughout on the need for sustainable efficient and equitable solutions to planning problems Taking account of the sometimes conflicting expectations of markets citizens public organizations and planners it demonstrates the similarities of challenges faced in different national planning systems The author traces the historical evolution of planning and urban governance and explores the range of urban problems and policies likely to be found in almost any city in the developed world Combining the latest theory in the field with practical insight and numerous illustrative case studies the author comprehensively addresses issues of economic change and development retailing and the role of urban centres housing provision and neighbourhood renewal urban design and conservation green and blue infrastructure and mobility and accessibility Assuming no prior knowledge of the subject this text is the ideal accessible introduction to the planning field giving equal focus to both theory and practice Whilst celebrating the work of planners it also provides essential critical analysis of how key decisions are made and implemented the benefits and limitations of planning and ultimately its potential in achieving good city form The Palgrave Encyclopedia of Urban and Regional Futures Robert C. Brears,2023-01-13 While urban settlements are the drivers of the global economy and centres of learning culture and innovation and nations rely on competitive dynamic regions for their economic social and environmental objectives urban centres and regions face a myriad of challenges that impact the ways in which people live and work create wealth and interact and connect with places Rapid urbanisation is resulting in urban sprawl rising emissions urban poverty and high unemployment rates housing affordability issues lack of urban investment low urban financial and governance capacities rising inequality and urban crimes environmental degradation increasing vulnerability to natural disasters and so forth At the regional level low employment low wage growth scarce financial resources climate change waste and pollution and rising urban peri urban competition etc are impacting the ability of regions to meet socio economic development goals while protecting biodiversity The response to these challenges has typically been the application of inadequate or piecemeal solutions often as a result of fragmented decision making and competing priorities with numerous economic environmental and social consequences In response there is a growing movement towards viewing cities and regions as complex and sociotechnical in nature with people and communities interacting with one another and with objects such as roads buildings transport links etc within a range of urban and regional settings or contexts This comprehensive MRW will provide readers with expert interdisciplinary knowledge on how urban centres and regions in locations of varying climates lifestyles income levels and stages development are creating synergies and reducing trade offs in the development of resilient resource efficient environmentally friendly liveable socially equitable integrated and technology enabled centres and regions Australian Public Policy Chris Miller,Lionel Orchard,2016-02-17 Australian public policy engages with the values and dilemmas of progressive public policy in Australia bringing together leading authors to explore a wide range of issues which challenge and extend current thinking about Australian public policy Regenerative-Adaptive Design for Sustainable Development Phillip B. Roös,2020-09-15 In this book the author tests a regenerative adaptive pattern language theory towards investigating the possibilities of a holistic integrated design and planning method for sustainable development that incorporates the principles of regenerative design as well as an adaptive pattern language that re-establishes our wholeness with nature and considers the vulnerabilities of a changing landscape. The book examines an integral approach to contemporary theories of planning and design that explores the human-nature relationship patterns in social and spatial interconnections between people and their natural environments. The interconnectedness of human and natural systems is used to scaffold possible solutions to address key environmental and sustainability issues that specifically address the need for patterns of behaviour that acknowledge the duality of man and nature. In 12 chapters, the book presents a holistic regenerative adaptive pattern language that encapsulates how communities can better appreciate landscape change under future climate effects and acknowledges the importance to adapt to patterns of change of place and the environment and therefore inform the communities' responses for sustainable development. The application of the regenerative adaptive pattern language was tested along the Great Ocean Road region of the Victorian coast in Australia. The concluding chapters argue that for human settlements and cities to be resilient and sustainable, we must understand the interconnected patterns of human-built environments and natural systems and how we function in a social-spatial dimension with these. The book is intended for practitioners and academic scholars with interest in sustainable development, regenerative design, pattern languages, biophilia, settlement planning, and climate change adaptation.
