Climate Governance and Urban Planning Deborah Heinen,2022-12-08 Urban planning as a discipline is deeply integral to implementing a low carbon future This book fosters an understanding for how the rules in use that govern urban planning influence the ability to implement low carbon development patterns Drawing on the theoretical foundations of the climate governance and urban planning literatures the book provides a context to understand plan implementation challenges and obstacles in metropolitan areas As metropolitan regions across the globe seek to reduce emissions from transportation many levels of governments have developed ambitious climate action plans that make land use and transportation recommendations in order to reduce vehicle miles traveled Many have recommended low carbon development patterns which are characterized by intensified and diversified uses around rapid transit stations However the implementation of these recommendations is done within the context of different rules in use unique to the planning systems in each metropolitan region The book examines the rules in use in three metropolitan regions of similar demographic size the Metro Vancouver Puget Sound and the Stuttgart regions By examining the implementation of low carbon development patterns the book focuses on growth management related questions about how to coordinate transit investments with land use decisions in metropolitan regions The book finds that state legislation that deals with metropolitan planning and regional growth strategies can greatly aid in creating accountability among actors as well as provide a road map to navigate conflicts when implementing low carbon development patterns By focusing on the rules in use the book is of interest to policy makers planners advocates and researchers who wish to assess and improve the odds of implementing low carbon development patterns in a metropolitan region courses How the World Breaks Stan Cox,Paul Cox,2016-07-12 We've always lived on a dangerous planet but its disasters aren't what they used to be How the World Breaks gives us a breathtaking new view of crisis and recovery on the unstable landscapes of the Earth's hazard zones Father and son authors Stan and Paul Cox take us to the explosive fire fronts of overheated Australia the future lost city of Miami the fights over whether and how to fortify New York City in the wake of Sandy the Indonesian mud volcano triggered by natural gas drilling and other communities that are reimagining their lives after quakes superstorms tornadoes and landslides In the very decade when we should be rushing to heal the atmosphere and address the enormous inequalities of risk a strange idea has taken hold of global disaster policy resilience Its proponents say that threatened communities must simply learn the art of resilience adapt to risk and thereby survive This doctrine obscures the human hand in creating disasters and requires the planet's most beleaguered people to absorb the rush of floodwaters and the crush of landslides freeing the world economy to go on undisturbed The Coxes great contribution is to pull the disaster debate out of the realm of theory and into the muck and ash of the world's broken places There we learn that change is more than mere adaptation and life is more than mere survival Ultimately How the World Breaks reveals why unless we address the social ecological and economic roots of disaster millions more people every year will find themselves spiraling into misery It is essential reading for our time The Indian Card Carrie Lowry Schuettepelz,2024-10-15 A groundbreaking and deeply personal exploration of Tribal enrollment and what it means to be Native American in the United States A genre bending work of reportage memoir and history The New Yorker Candid unflinching Her thorough excavation of the painful history that gave rise to rigid enrollment policies is a courageous gift to our understanding of contemporary Native life The Whiting Foundation Jury Who is Indian enough To be Native American is to live in a world of contradictions At the same time that the number of people in the US who claim Native identity has exploded increasing 85 percent in just ten years the number of people formally enrolled in Tribes has not While the federal government recognizes Tribal sovereignty being a member of a Tribe requires navigating blood quantum laws and rolls that the federal government created with the intention of wiping out Native people altogether Over two million Native people are tribally enrolled yet there are Native people who will never be Native people who for a variety of reasons ranging from displacement to disconnection cannot be card carrying members of their Tribe In The Indian Card Carrie Lowry Schuettepelz grapples with these contradictions Through in depth interviews she shares the stories of people caught in the mire of identity formation trying to define themselves outside of bureaucratic processes With archival research she pieces together the history of blood quantum and tribal rolls and federal government intrusion on Native identity making Reckoning with her own identity the story of her enrollment and the enrollment of her children she investigates the cultural racial and political dynamics of today's Tribal identity policing With this intimate perspective of the ongoing fight for Native sovereignty The Indian Card sheds light on what it looks like to find a deeper sense of belonging Foreign Direct Investment and Urban Growth in China Lei

Wang,2016-04-15 This book puts forward an institutional explanation of the recent dynamics of foreign direct investment FDI in China It argues that the concentration of FDI in the Chinese manufacturing economy since the beginning of this century is largely the result of China s entrepreneurial urban growth strategy which was in turn motivated by the overall political and fiscal structures of China and was facilitated by urban land use under the manipulation of municipalities By identifying the interactions between cross border capital flow national regulations and local responses this book not only provides a fresh understanding of China s FDI pattern from an urban perspective that has been rare among publications on similar topics but also sheds light on the drivers underlying China s rapid economic growth and its implications for sustainable development It also stands as a useful reference for other countries and regions that plan to launch their own state led development projects

Economy of Urban Provisioning Candan Turkkan,2021-04-19 How was Istanbul once the capital of the Ottoman Empire and now the financial heart of contemporary Turkey provisioned in the early 19th century Tracing how the sovereign s duty to provision the city and protect his subjects from hunger was gradually transferred to the market and became a responsibility of the subjects later citizens alone Feeding Istanbul makes a compelling case for situating food politics and politics of urban provisioning in particular at the centre of the way we think about the relationship between the sovereign and the political community Global Development and Human Rights Paul J. Handbook for Wellbeing Policy-Making Paul Frijters,Christian Krekel,2021-05-27 This is an open access title It is available to read and download as a free PDF version on the Oxford Academic platform It is made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 International licence Around the world governments are starting to directly measure the subjective wellbeing of their citizens and to use it for policy evaluation and appraisal What would happen if a country were to move from using GDP to using subjective wellbeing as the primary metric for measuring economic and societal progress Would policy priorities change Would we continue to care about economic growth What role would different government institutions play in such a scenario And most importantly how could this be implemented in daily practice for example in policy evaluations and appraisals of government analysts or in political agenda setting at the top level This volume provides answers to these questions from a conceptual to technical level by showing how direct measures of subjective wellbeing can be used for policy evaluation and appraisal either complementary in the short run or even entirely in the long run It gives a brief history of the idea that governments should care about the happiness of their citizens provides theories makes suggestions for direct measurement derives technical standards and makes suggestions on how to conduct wellbeing cost effectiveness and cost benefit analyses and gives examples of how real world policy evaluations and appraisals would change if they were based on subjective wellbeing In doing so it serves the growing interest of governments as well as non governmental and international organisations in how to put subjective wellbeing metrics into policy practice

Justice, Equality and Tax Law Nevla Čičin-Šain, Mario Riedl, 2022-10-05 An in depth analysis of the specific aspects of justice equality and tax law Justice Equality and Tax Law is a topic that is both old and new at the same time Even if the society changes the demands that tax needs to be just and equal seem to be immutable What changes of course is the perception of the content of those demands International taxation post BEPS has been fraught with new challenges that warranted urgent responses These challenges were mainly provoked by the unprecedented rise of the digital economy which truly marked a change in the way business is conducted how value is created and how goods and services are produced and consumed Digitalization in turn had repercussions on all aspects of taxation direct taxation indirect taxation and even tax procedures For instance the quest for more justice and equality in profit taxes was the reason why in October 2021 a historical deal based on a two pillar solution to address the tax challenges arising from the digitalization of the economy was negotiated within the OECD G20 Inclusive Framework on Base Erosion and Profit Shifting and agreed upon by 137 member countries It was also the motive behind the shift from a typical vendor collection model to an intermediary collection model supported by centralized registration points in indirect taxes notably the VAT GST Abundant data from the European Union or the OECD signaled an ever increasing gap between expected VAT revenues and VAT actually collected making it obvious that the classical system of VAT GST collection was unable to respond to challenges posed by the digital economy Therefore new solutions based on the participation of digital platforms as intermediaries had been introduced Finally new technologies such as blockchain paved new avenues in enhancing tax compliance In this context this volume entitled Justice Equality and Tax Law contains not only a selection of the best master s theses of the full time LL M programme in 2021 2022 but also represents an in depth analysis of various aspects of this evergreen topic
