Urban Multilingualism in Europe Guus Extra, Kutlay Yağmur, 2004 This book focuses on the increase of urban multilingualism in Europe as a consequence of processes of migration and minorisation It offers multidisciplinary crossnational and crosslinguistic perspectives on immigrant minority languages at home and in school in six multicultural cities across Europe In each of these cities Germanic or Romance languages have a dominant status in public life This Multilingual Cities Project is based on large scale empirical findings and has been carried out under the auspices of the European Cultural Foundation in Amsterdam Part I offers multidisciplinary background information on phenomenological demographic language rights and educational aspects of the status of immigrant minority communities and their languages in a variety of international contexts Part II offers methodological considerations on the Multilingual Cities Project In addition it presents both national and local perspectives on multilingualism in each of the six cities under consideration Each chapter provides information on the distribution and vitality of immigrant minority languages spoken at home and on the status of these languages in primary and secondary schools Part III offers crossnational and crosslinguistic perspectives on the twenty most prominent languages that emerge from the study The focus is again on the two major private and public domains in which language transmission may or may not occur the home and the school respectively The book offers a challenging outlook on the educational management of language diversity in the increasingly multicultural and multilingual context of European nation states interpreted as a valuable resource that can facilitate language education provided it is harnessed in appropriate conditions

English in Europe Today Annick De Houwer, Antje Wilton, 2011-01-26 This volume discusses several facets of English in today's multilingual Europe. It emphasizes the interdependence between cultures, languages and situations that influence its use. This interdependence is particularly relevant to European settings where English is being learned as a second language. Such learning situations constitute the core focus of the book. The volume is unique in bringing together empirical studies examining factors that promote the learning of English in Europe. Rather than assuming that English is a threat to linguistic diversity and cultural independence, these studies discuss psycholinguistic factors such as the input and sociolinguistic factors such as the type of English that is targeted in learning. The contributing authors are well-established specialists who have worked on multilingualism, English as a Lingua Franca and second language acquisition. The book will be of interest to applied linguists, sociolinguists and teachers of English as a foreign language.

Maintaining Minority Languages in Transnational Contexts A. Pauwels, J. Winter, J. Lo Bianco, 2007-04-17 Deals with challenges to the maintenance of minority or community languages in this era of globalization and increasing transnational movements of people. The contributors, experts in language policy, language maintenance and multilingualism, offer complementary perspectives from Australia and Europe on the maintenance of linguistic diversity.

Multidisciplinary Perspectives on Acculturation in Turkish Immigrants Kutlay Yagmur, Fons J. R. van de Vijver, 2022-02-21 This book puts forward a new model of acculturation combining psychological, sociolinguistic and identity theories to study Turkish immigrants across the globe. The authors argue that such a multidisciplinary perspective is very important in understanding acculturation processes in migrants, particularly for pivotal aspects such as language and identity. Studying one group or several groups within a country is the most common methodological approach in acculturation studies. The authors argue, on the basis of their extensive ethnographic work, that focusing on one immigrant ethnic group across countries instead provides deeper insights into interactive acculturation orientations of both the receiving societies and immigrant groups. They therefore synthesize findings from their work on Turkish immigrants in Australia and several countries in Europe. Moreover, they include extensive accounts of acculturation across several generations of Turkish migrants, thereby giving readers insights into the long-term acculturation process. The book critically discusses language maintenance and shift, child-rearing practices and socialization beliefs and educational achievement in Turkish immigrants and uses a mixed-methods approach. It is meant for researchers and policy makers interested in acculturation and the role of the acculturation context. In a nutshell, the book stresses the dynamic and ever-evolving nature of linguistic habits and cultural integration tendencies and convinces the reader about the complexity of the background factors that play a role in shaping the behaviour of immigrant minorities. Anyone who reads the book will be equipped with the skills to critically assess research on immigrant language maintenance.

Perspektiven der Soziolinguistik Ulrich Ammon, 2006 Linguistic Landscapes Peter Backhaus, 2007 Linguistic Landscapes is the first comprehensive approach to a largely under explored sociolinguistic phenomenon language on signs Based on an up to date review of previous research from various places around the world the book develops an analytical framework for the systematic analysis of linguistic landscape data This framework is applied to a sample of 2 444 signs collected in 28 survey areas in central Tokyo Analytical categories include the languages contained and their combinations differences between official and nonofficial signs geographic distribution availability of translation or transliteration linguistic idiosyncrasies and the comparison of older and newer signs among others Combining qualitative and quantitative methods the analysis yields some unique insights about the writers of multilingual signs their readers and the languages and scripts in contact Linguistic Landscapes thus demonstrates that the study of language on signs has much to contribute to research into urban multilingualism as well as the study of language and society as a whole Developing Identities Massimiliano Spotti, 2008-08 At present western European societies are at the same time facing the aftermath of massive immigration movements and the challenges of new globalization waves Education is at the heart of this twofold experience On the one hand it is confronted with the demand of developing a canon for national identity construction On the other hand it is held responsible for the pupils emancipation in a globalizing society As a consequence teachers and pupils are challenged to deal with identity issues in their everyday classroom realities In politics the media and the educational field much has been said and done regarding immigrant minority pupils identities and their socio cultural and linguistic integration Still little is known about how identities are actually constructed and developed in the discourses of those who make up the primary school classroom This book reports on two ethnographic case studies carried out in multicultural classrooms in a Dutch and Flemish primary school It portrays the discourses and the interactions class teachers and their twelve year old pupils are engaged in on a daily basis In depth analyses are presented of the institutional discourses which the classrooms are part of and of the teachers and pupils discourses and their mutual relationships In both classrooms the analysis shows that pupils identities are constructed by the institutions and their teachers on the basis of their language behaviour and their presupposed belonging to a homogeneous cultural and or religious group The analysis at the same time makes clear that teachers have started questioning their understanding of immigrant minority pupils identities It further shows that the pupils under investigation are by no means passive objects of identity ascription Rather they appear as active and capable multilingual and multicultural stockbrokers ready and willing to invest in the linguistic and cultural currency that ensures the highest return on investment
