THE TREES Conrad Richter, 2013-10-02 They moved along in the bobbing springy gait of a family that followed the woods as some families follow the sea In that first sentence Conrad Richter sets the mood of this magnificent epic of the American wilderness Toward the close of the eighteenth century the land west of the Alleghenies and north of the Ohio river was an unbroken sea of trees Beneath them the forest trails were dark silent and lonely brightened only by a few lost beams of sunlight Here the Lucketts a wild woodsfaring family lived their roaming life pushing ever westward as the frontier advanced and as new settlements threatened their isolation Richter has written not a historical novel of which there are so many but a novel of authentic early American life of which there are so few It is the primitive story of Worth Lockett the hunter and of Jary his woman of Genny Wyitt Achsa and Sulie their woods wild children of the bound boy and the Solitary and Jake Tench but principally of the oldest girl Sayward Lockett whos people as far back as she knew had always been hunters and gunsmiths to hunters but who through the quiet growing and yet tragic oppression of the trees turns her back at last on her life as a hunter s child and becomes a tiller of the soil This novel of great lyrical beauty and high excitement tells the story of the transition of American pioneers from the ways of the wilderness to the ways of civilization Here is the true American epic Here is the raw adventure swift and cruel in its episodes but here too is the poetry of loneliness Here is a portrait of frontier life as it really must have seemed to the pioneers Here in short is a masterpiece by the man who gave us The Sea of Grass
