recognized the importance of controlling the Hudson River Valley This vital corridor offered a strategic advantage linking New England to the other colonies and allowing movement of troops and supplies The British believed that isolating New England seen as the hotbed of rebellion would cripple the colonial resistance Thus a plan was developed to cut the colonies in two by taking control of the Hudson General John Burgoyne was tasked with leading an army south from Canada to meet up with British forces advancing north from New York City A third force under Colonel Barry St Leger would move in from the west This three pronged strategy if executed properly promised a swift end to the war However the British plan was fraught with logistical challenges and lacked effective coordination Communications between the three forces were poor and the difficult terrain slowed movement considerably Moreover the American response to the British plan was swift and adaptive The Continental Army aided by local militias worked to obstruct British movements by destroying roads blocking supply lines and harassing the enemy s progress through guerrilla tactics
