Typography and Motion Graphics: The 'Reading-Image' Michael Betancourt,2018-11-20 In his latest book Michael Betancourt explores the nature and role of typography in motion graphics as a way to consider its distinction from static design using the concept of the reading image to model the ways that motion typography dramatizes the process of reading and audience recognition of language on screen Using both classic and contemporary title sequences including The Man With the Golden Arm 1955 Alien 1979 Flubber 1998 Six Feet Under 2001 The Number 23 2007 and Scott Pilgrim vs The World 2010 Betancourt develops an argument about what distinguishes motion graphics from graphic design Moving beyond title sequences Betancourt also analyzes moving or kinetic typography in logo designs commercials film trailers and information graphics offering a striking theoretical model for understanding typography in media

Semiotics and Title Sequences Michael Betancourt,2017-09-19 Title sequences are the most obvious place where photography and typography combine on screen yet they are also a commonly neglected part of film studies Semiotics and Title Sequences presents the first theoretical model and historical consideration of how text and image combine to create meaning in title sequences for film and television before extending its analysis to include subtitles intertitles and the narrative role for typography Detailed close readings of classic films starting with The Cabinet of Dr Caligari and including To Kill A Mockingbird Dr Strangelove and The Good the Bad and the Ugly along with designs from television programs such as Magnum P I Castle and Vikings present a critical assessment of title sequences as both an independent art form and an introduction to the film that follows

Saul Bass Jan-Christopher Horak,2014-11-18 Iconic graphic designer and Academy Award winning filmmaker Saul Bass 1920 1996 defined an innovative era in cinema His title sequences for films such as Otto Preminger s The Man with the Golden Arm 1955 and Anatomy of a Murder 1959 Alfred Hitchcock s Vertigo 1958 and North by Northwest 1959 and Billy Wilder s The Seven Year Itch 1955 introduced the idea that opening credits could tell a story setting the mood for the movie to follow Bass s stylistic influence can be seen in popular Hollywood franchises from the Pink Panther to James Bond as well as in more contemporary works such as Steven Spielberg s Catch Me If You Can 2002 and television s Mad Men The first book to examine the life and work of this fascinating figure Saul Bass Anatomy of Film Design explores the designer s revolutionary career and his lasting impact on the entertainment and advertising industries Jan Christopher Horak traces Bass from his humble beginnings as a self taught artist to his professional peak when auteur directors like Stanley Kubrick Robert Aldrich and Martin Scorsese sought him as a collaborator He also discusses how Bass incorporated aesthetic concepts borrowed from modern art in his work presenting them in a new way that made them easily recognizable to the public This long overdue book sheds light on the creative process of the undisputed master of film title design a man whose multidimensional talents and unique ability to blend high art and commercial imperatives profoundly influenced generations of filmmakers designers and advertisers
