Writing for Social Scientists Howard S. Becker, 2008-11-15 Students and researchers all write under pressure and those pressures most lamentably the desire to impress your audience rather than to communicate with them often lead to pretentious prose academic posturing and not infrequently writer's block Sociologist Howard S Becker has written the classic book on how to conquer these pressures and simply write First published nearly twenty years ago Writing for Social Scientists has become a lifesaver for writers in all fields from beginning students to published authors Becker's message is clear in order to learn how to write take a deep breath and then begin writing Revise Repeat It is not always an easy process as Becker wryly relates Decades of teaching researching and writing have given him plenty of material and Becker neatly exposes the foibles of academia and its publish or perish atmosphere Wordiness the passive voice inserting a the way in which when a simple how will do all these mechanisms are a part of the social structure of academic writing By shrugging off such impediments or at the very least putting them aside for a few hours we can reform our work habits and start writing lucidly without worrying about grades peer approval or the literature In this new edition Becker takes account of major changes in the computer tools available to writers today and also substantially expands his analysis of how academic institutions create problems for them As competition in academia grows increasingly heated Writing for Social Scientists will provide solace to a new generation of frazzled would be writers

Tales of the Field John Van Maanen, 2011-07 Once upon a time ethnographers returning from the field simply sat down shuffled their note cards and wrote up their descriptions of the exotic and quaint customs they had observed Today scholars in all disciplines are realizing how their research is presented is at least as important as what is presented Questions of voice style and audience the classic issues of rhetoric have come to the forefront in academic circles John Van Maanen an experienced ethnographer of modern organizational structures is one who believes that the real work begins when he returns to his office with cartons of notes and tapes In Tales of the Field he offers readers a survey of the narrative conventions associated with writing about culture and an analysis of the strengths and weaknesses of various styles He introduces first the matter of fact realistic report of classical ethnography then the self absorbed confessional tale of the participant observer and finally the dramatic vignette of the new impressionistic style He also considers more briefly literary tales jointly told tales and the theoretically focused formal and critical tales Van Maanen illustrates his discussion of each style with excerpts from his own work on the police Tales of the Field offers an informal readable and lighthearted treatment of the rhetorical devices used to present the results of fieldwork Though Van Maanen argues ultimately for the validity of revealing the self while representing a culture he is sensitive to the differing methods and aims of sociology and anthropology His goal is not to establish one true way to write ethnography but rather to make ethnographers of all varieties examine their assumptions about what constitutes a truthful cultural portrait and select consciously and carefully the voice most appropriate for their tales Written with grace and humor Tales of the Field will be an invaluable introduction to novices just learning the fieldwork trade and provocative stimulant to veteran ethnographers Engaging and well written H Ottenheimer Choice

Territorial Change and Conflict in Indonesia Ratri Istania, 2022-12-30 This book focuses on Indonesia and investigates why competition between various identity affiliated groups to claim a new province increases conflict severity It includes a quantitative study along with complementary case studies of provinces in Indonesia which provide evidence that group fragmentation plays a role in determining conflict during a new province s struggle Against the background of the Indonesian government s territorial autonomy TA strategy regional proliferation or pemekaran the author examines the long term decentralization project in Indonesia which has an ethnically and religiously divided population The book provides answers to the questions of how the new province claim increases conflict in the supporting districts and how competition among diverse elites in districts pursuing a new province precipitate conflict within the region Based on extensive field research the four case studies of districts with varying degrees of conflict reveal that the campaign for a new province proliferation increases the probability of conflict at the district level and conflict can escalate during the initiation of a new province stage The author argues that more provinces may be necessary to ensure the fair distribution of wealth that would enable the whole population to enjoy a similar quality of life and that the Indonesian government needs to wisely and strategically uphold its unity if a federal arrangement is not an option Offering a novel contribution to the study of the relationship between territorial change and conflict in Indonesia this book will be of interest to academics studying Indonesian politics Southeast Asian politics as well as identity and ethnic politics
