The Yellow Wall Paper:

Charlotte Perkins Gilman's The Yellow Wall-Paper Catherine J. Golden, 2013-10-18 In 1892 Charlotte Perkins Gilman published her landmark work The Yellow Wall Paper generating spirited debates in literary and political circles on both sides of the Atlantic Today this story of a young wife and mother succumbing to madness is hailed both as a feminist classic and a key text in the American literary canon This sourcebook combines extracts from contemporary documents and critical reviews with incisive commentary providing an introduction to the political biographical and medical contexts in which Gilman was writing a publishing and critical history of the work with extracts from the earliest reviews through to recent criticism a chronology of key biographical and contextual events an annotated guide to further reading original illustrations and photographs of the author and figures related to the story Filled with extensive commentary as well as contextual and critical materials this reprint of the complete original text as published in the New England Magazine in 1892 constitutes an important critical edition

The Yellow Wall Paper Charlotte Perkins Gilman, 1899 The Yellow Wallpaper Charlotte Perkins Gilman, 2020-10-08 First appearing in 1892 The Yellow Wallpaper is a searing vision of a distinctively feminine form of madness and commands attention as an arresting tale of horror and a moving look into a woman's mind The story uncompromisingly thrusts the reader into the mind of the narrator She is a woman forced ostensibly for her own good into a rest cure a psychological straitjacket so constricting that she begins to unravel Her mental dissolution is described with such fierce immediacy that The Yellow Wallpaper has been read and anthologized as a chilling horror tale While it can easily be appreciated for its disorienting thrills the story's true resonance comes from its matter of fact portrayal of a woman pushed to the rim of sanity by society's demands and her family's utter inability to conceive of the fact that she cannot fit within their strictures Shot through with unforgettable images of the yellow wallpaper its shadowy depths and what seems to lurk there The Yellow Wallpaper builds to a climax that combines the narrative impact of an Edgar Allan Poe story with a wrenching protest of the treatment of women Unique and genre bending Gilman's story was unrivaled in its era and its power endures undiminished today With an eye catching new cover and professionally typeset manuscript this edition of The Yellow Wallpaper is both modern and readable

The Yellow Wallpaper (Illustrated) Charlotte Perkins Gilman, 2014-04-10 The Yellow Wallpaper is a 6 000 word short story by the American writer Charlotte Perkins Gilman first published in January 1892 in The New England Magazine It is regarded as an important early work of American feminist literature illustrating attitudes in the 19th century toward women's physical and mental health Presented in the first person the story is a collection of journal entries written by a woman whose physician husband has confined her to the upstairs bedroom of a house he has rented for the summer She is forbidden from working and has to hide her journal from him so she can recuperate from what he calls a temporary nervous depression a slight hysterical tendency a diagnosis common to women in that period The windows of the room are barred and there is a gate across the top of the stairs allowing her husband to control her access to the rest of the house The story depicts the effect of confinement on the narrator's mental health and her descent into psychosis With nothing to stimulate her she becomes obsessed by the pattern and color of the wallpaper It is the strangest yellow that wall paper It makes me think of all the yellow things I ever saw not beautiful ones like buttercups but old foul bad yellow things But there is something else about that paper the smell The only thing I can think of that it is like is the color of the paper A yellow smell In the end she imagines there are women creeping around behind the patterns of the wallpaper and comes to believe she is one of them She locks herself in the room now the only place she feels safe refusing to leave when the summer rental is up For outside you have to creep on the ground and everything is green instead of yellow But here I can creep smoothly on the floor and my shoulder just fits in that long smooch around the wall so I cannot lose my way A woman gradually suffers a mental breakdown as a result of confinement and denial of her creative energies by her husband literature due to its illustration of the attitudes towards mental and physical health of women in the 19th century. Narrated in the first person, the story is a collection of journal entries written by a woman whose physician husband John has rented an old mansion for the summer. Forgoing other rooms in the house, the couple moves into the upstairs nursery. As a form of treatment, the unnamed woman is forbidden from working and is encouraged to eat well and get plenty of air so she can recuperate from what he calls a temporary nervous depression, a slight hysterical tendency, a diagnosis common to women during that period.

The Yellow Wallpaper C. Gilman, 2018-02-24 The Yellow Wallpaper original title The Yellow Wall paper A Story is a 6 000 word short story by American writer Charlotte Perkins Gilman first published in January 1892 in The New England Magazine. It is regarded as an important early work of American feminist literature illustrating attitudes in the 19th century toward women's health, both physical and mental. The story details the descent of a young woman into madness. Her supportive though misunderstanding husband John believes it is in her best interests to go on a rest cure after the birth of their child. The family spends the summer at a colonial mansion that has in the narrator's words something queer about it. She and her husband move into an upstairs room that she assumes was once a nursery, having it serve as their bedroom due to its multitude of windows which provide the air so needed in her recovery. In addition to the couple, John's sister Jennie is present; she serves as their housekeeper. Like most nurseries at the time, the windows are barred, the wallpaper has been torn, and the floor is scratched. The narrator attributes all these to children, as most of the damage is isolated to their reach. Ultimately, though, the reader is left unsure as to the source of the room's damage.

She hides her journal from her husband and his sister, the housekeeper, fearful of being reproached for overworking herself. The room's windows are barred to prevent children from climbing through them, and there is a gate across the top of the stairs though she and her husband have access to the rest of the house and its adjoining estate.

The Yellow Wallpaper Charlotte Perkins Gilman, 2019-12-22 The Yellow Wallpaper by Charlotte Perkins Gilman is a real classic. You should grab it and read it to experience it yourself. Here's a simple plot to The Yellow Wallpaper by Charlotte Perkins Gilman. The story details an intricate period in the life of a young woman. Her supportive though misunderstanding husband John believes it is in her best interests to go on a rest cure after experiencing symptoms of temporary nervous depression.

after the birth of their baby The family spends the summer at a colonial mansion that strikes the narrator as odd She and her husband move into an upstairs room Along with the couple John s sister Jennie is present serving as the housekeeper At the time the windows are barred the wallpaper has been torn there are metal rings in the walls the kind that are used for restraints and the floor is scratched The narrator blames all these to children having resided there as most of the damage is away to their reach Ultimately readers are left to be unsure what is the source of the room s state leading them to see the ambiguities in the unreliability of the narrator It is strongly implied however that the room was formerly used as a prison to contain another mentally ill patient as the bed has been nailed to the floor and there is a gate at the top of the stairs leading to the room The narrator devotes many journal entries to describing the wallpaper in the room its yellow smell its breakneck pattern the missing patches and the way it leaves yellow smears on the skin and clothing of anyone who touches it She describes how the longer one stays in the bedroom the more the wallpaper appears to mutate especially in the moonlight With no stimulus other than the wallpaper the pattern and designs become increasingly intriguing to the narrator She soon begins to see a figure in the design and eventually comes to believe that a woman is creeping on all fours behind the pattern Believing she must try to free the woman in the wallpaper the woman begins to strip the remaining paper off the wall After many moments of tension between John and his wife the story climaxes with the final day in the house On the last day of summer she locks herself in her room to strip the remains of the wallpaper When John arrives home she refuses to unlock the door When he returns with the key he finds her creeping around the room circling the walls and touching the wallpaper She excitedly exclaims I ve got out at last in spite of you and Jane causing her husband to faint as she continues to circle the room creeping over his inert body each time she passes it believing herself to have become the personification of the woman trapped behind the yellow wallpaper The Yellow Wallpaper by Charlotte Perkins Gilman Charlotte Perkins Gilman's
