Wagner-Egelhaaf, 2019-01-29. Autobiographical writings have been a major cultural genre from antiquity to the present time. General questions of the literary, as e.g. the relation between literature and reality, truth and fiction, the dependency of author, narrator and figure, or issues of individual and cultural styles etc. can be studied preeminently in the autobiographical genre. Yet the tradition of life writing has in the course of literary history developed manifold types and forms. Especially in the globalized age where the media and other technological cultural factors contribute to a rapid transformation of lifestyles, autobiographical writing has maintained even enhanced its popularity and importance. By conceiving autobiography in a wide sense that includes memoirs, diaries, self-portraits and autofiction as well as media transformations of the genre, this three-volume handbook offers a comprehensive survey of theoretical approaches, systematic aspects and historical developments in an international and interdisciplinary perspective. While autobiography is usually considered to be a European tradition, special emphasis is placed on the modes of self-representation in non-Western cultures and on inter- and transcultural perspectives of the genre. The individual contributions are closely interconnected by a system of cross-references. The handbook addresses scholars of cultural and literary studies, students as well as non-academic readers. Memory Politics after Mass Violence Timothy Williams, 2025-06-20. This book explores how political actors draw on memories of violent pasts to generate political power and legitimacy in the present. Drawing on fieldwork in post-violence Cambodia, Rwanda and Indonesia, the book demonstrates in what way power is derived from how roles are assigned, exploring who is deemed a perpetrator, victim or hero, as well as ambivalences in this memory. The author interrogates the ways in which these roles are attributed and ambivalences created in each society's political discourses, transitional justice processes and cultural heritage. The comparative empirical analysis illustrates the importance of memory for political power and legitimacy today.

Interpretive Social Research Gabriele Rosenthal, 2018. This volume is a clear introduction to methods of data collection and analysis in the social sciences with a special focus on interpretive methods based on a logic of discovering hypotheses and grounded theories. The chief methods presented are participant observation, open interviews and biographical case reconstruction. The special advantages of interpretive methods as against other qualitative methods are revealed by comparing them to content analysis. Empirical examples show how the methods presented can be implemented in practice and concrete problems connected with conducting empirical research are discussed. By presenting individual case studies, the author shows how to apply the principle of openness when collecting empirical data, whether through interviews or observations, and she offers rules for analysis based on the principles of reconstruction and sequentiality. Israeli and

Palestinian Collective Narratives in Conflict Adi Mana, Anan Srour, 2020-09-16 Examining the social laboratory of the Israeli and Palestinian societies to better understand social conflicts and the construction of diverse and conflicting collective narratives this book gives readers a window into Professor Shifra Sagy's unique approach to intergroup conflicts and peace education With a focus on both theory and practice it describes the model of perceptions of collective narratives that she developed with her colleagues The contributions here offer insight into the intergroup conflicts between Israelis and Palestinians Palestinian Muslims and Christians Jewish National Religious and people of ultra Orthodox faith and Palestinians living in Israel and those living in the West Bank Perceptions of collective narratives help crystallize social identity a sense of community and national coherence and a culture of conflict Often this creates obstacles to peace and conflict resolution This book instead looks at how we can use these constructions to promote reconciliation The Past Can't Heal Us Lea David, 2020-07-16 In this innovative study Lea David critically investigates the relationship between human rights and memory suggesting that instead of understanding human rights in a normative fashion human rights should be treated as an ideology Conceptualizing human rights as an ideology gives us useful theoretical and methodological tools to recognize the real impact human rights has on the ground David traces the rise of the global phenomenon that is the human rights memorialization agenda termed Moral Remembrance and explores what happens once this agenda becomes implemented Based on evidence from the Western Balkans and Israel Palestine she argues that the human rights memorialization agenda does not lead to a better appreciation of human rights but contrary to what would be expected it merely serves to strengthen national sentiments divisions and animosities along ethnic lines and leads to the new forms of societal inequalities that are closely connected to different forms of corruptions Forgetful Remembrance Guy Beiner, 2018 Forgetful Remembrance offers a new approach to the study of memory by focusing on vernacular historiographies and the notion of forgetting Using the 1798 Irish Rebellion Beiner explores how communities try to obscure inconvenient and uncomfortable events from the past The Complexity of Evil Timothy Williams, 2020-12-18 Why do people participate in genocide The Complexity of Evil responds to this fundamental question by drawing on political science sociology criminology anthropology social psychology and history to develop a model which can explain perpetration across various different cases Focusing in particular on the Holocaust the 1994 genocide against the Tutsi in Rwanda and the Khmer Rouge genocide in Cambodia The Complexity of Evil model draws on systematically sorts and causally orders a wealth of scholarly literature and supplements it with original field research data from interviews with former members of the Khmer Rouge The model is systematic and abstract as well as empirically grounded providing a tool for understanding the micro foundations of various cases of genocide Ultimately this model highlights that the motivations for perpetrating genocide are both complex in their diversity and banal in their ordinariness and mundanity Download the open access ebook here Class and Stratification Rosemary Crompton, 2015-10-02 Inequality in its many forms is becoming an ever greater problem in modern society The revised

Facing Nationalisms in the European Union Józef Niznik, 2022-10-17 Ideological nationalism is rising in most EU countries and threatens the unity of the Union Primarily populist parties use it as a political instrument in their fight for power presenting the European Union as a danger to national identity According to

Eurosceptical politicians the EU imposes European identity instead of a national identity This book argues that not only can those identities coexist but they can also exacerbate each other Instead of rejecting nationalism in general it suggests that the EU should oppose only its ideological forms that lead to xenophobia and hostility toward other nations At the same time the book shows that EU policy should protect and support member states efforts to maintain and preserve their uniqueness and national cultural identity which is threatened not by European integration but by inevitable globalization

Bell, 2006-10-20 Memory Trauma and World Politics focuses on the effect that the memory of traumatic episodes especially war and genocide has on shaping contemporary political identities Theoretically sophisticated and empirically rich this book is an incisive treatment of the ways in which the study of social memory can inform global politics analysis

Urban Neighbourhood Formations Hilal Alkan, Nazan Maksudyan, 2020-03-04 This book examines the formation of urban neighbourhoods in the Middle East Africa and South Asia It departs from neighbourhoods to consider identity coexistence solidarity and violence in relations to a place Urban Neighbourhood Formations revolves around three major aspects of making and unmaking of neighbourhoods spatial and temporal boundaries of neighbourhoods neighbourhoods as imagined and narrated entities and neighbourhood as social relations With extensive case studies from Johannesburg to Istanbul and from Jerusalem to Delhi this volume shows how spatial amenities immaterial processes of narrating and dreaming and the lasting effect of intimacies and violence in a neighbourhood are intertwined and negotiated over time in the construction of moral orders urban practices and political identities at large This book offers insights into neighbourhood formations in an age of constant mobility and helps us understand the grassroots level dynamics of xenophobia and hostility as much as welcoming and openness It would be of interest for both academics and more general audiences as well as for students of undergraduate and postgraduate courses in Urban Studies and Anthropology
